90 DAYS CREDIT TO BE CUT FROM ARMS SALE BILL

Agree to Substitute Strictly Cash.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Because it lacked sufficient votes in the senate to pass a credit and carry scheme of selling munitions and other war supplies to belligerents, the Roosevelt administration today sponsored an amendment to put such sales on a strictly cash basis.

Senator Key Pittman.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee and manager of the bill to repeal the existing embargo on shipments of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to belligerents, introduced the administration's cash amendment. It strikes from the bill a provision authorizing the President to permit credit of not more than 90 days to belligerent purchasers of American munitions and other commodities.

Many Votes Alienated.

Many supporters of the administration's arm embargo repealer had threatened to vote against the bill if it retained any kind of credit provision. An administration spokesman admitted privately that the bill could not be passed with the 90 day credit authorization.

Another acknowledged purpose in putting forward the cash amendment at this time is to expedite passage of the bill by the senate before the situation in the house of representatives gets out of hand. Reports of increasing opposition to the arms embargo repealer in the house have produced much more concern in administration quarters than the slow progress made by the bill in the senate thus far.

Concessions to Shipping Interests.

Later this week the administration leaders will make further concessions to American shipping interests in an effort to expedite passage of the bill. As reported by the foreign relations committee, the measure forbids American vessels to transport materials of any kind to belligerent countries or their possessions or enter war zones proclaimed by the President.

Senator Allen J. Ellender [D., La.], an administration supporter, today introduced an amendment which would permit American ships to transport materials other than arms, ammunition, and implements of war to any part of the world except thru the war zones to be prescribed by the President.

Pittman Accepts Plan.

Senator Pittman has announced his willingness to permit American ships to carry cargoes to places remote from the actual war zones provided that such shipments are licensed and that they do not include arms, ammunition, and implements of war.

This differentiation between finished munitions and other materials so far as American shipping is concerned exposes the fallacy and insincerity of an administration argument for repeal of the arms embargo, according to the senate noninterventionists.

President Roosevelt and other repeal advocates have argued that there is no consistency in permitting the sale of gasoline to operate a bombing plane while forbidding the sale of bombs to drop from it, or permitting the sale of cotton while forbidding the sale of gun cotton.

Clark Assails Empires.

In the debate today, Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho], an opponent of the administration repealer, delivered the strongest indictment of the British and French empires the senate has heard in the neutrality controversy.

Noting that supporters of the arms embargo repealer frankly acknowledge their purpose to help Great Britain and France defeat Germany, the junior senator from Idaho declared:

"I do not believe that Britain and

A Bookseller Is Held as Gungirl in Big Mystery

In Kansas City, Mo., and Michigan City, Ind., last night police and agents of the federal bureau of investigation were weaving together the threads of a mystery as exciting as any to be found between the covers of a detective novel.

The last chapter—the part containing the solution—is still to be written. But thus far there has been a shooting, a manhunt, and four months of detective work which included the baiting of a trap which made a villain talk. The cast includes policemen, supersleuths, bandits and—the girl.

Red Headed Woman Gives Up.

She is Miss Lola Flowers, 34 years old, a slim red haired bookseller whose widowed mother owns a bungalow in Kansas City's east side residential section. Miss Flowers, FBI agents say, has never been in trouble before. Yesterday she walked into the Kansas City FBI office, said she had heard they wanted her, and thereafter refused to speak except to deny all charges against her.

The reason the federal agents wanted her goes back to Michigan City, whose police chief, Julian Warner, suspects Miss Flowers is the quick triggered gunwoman who shot one of his policemen, Frank Cowgill, last June 7. Miss Flowers is charged with assault with intent to kill, and with fleeing across a state line to avoid prosecution.

Shoots Policeman in Knee.

About 3 o'clock the morning of June 7 Policeman Cowgill with his partner, James Shelton, stopped an automobile in Michigan City on the suspicion it was a stolen car. The man who was driving pulled a gun and disarmed the policemen. He left his woman companion to guard them while he drove the police squad car out of sight. Cowgill lunged for her. She shot him in the left leg, shattering the knee cap.

In the struggle Cowgill blackjacked the woman. Shelton ran for help. In the meantime the male desperado returned, revived his friend, and they fled on foot.

Escape Airplane Manhunt.

A manhunt ensued in which two airplanes, a bloodhound, and 100 policemen were pressed into service. But the man and his companion, described as red haired and weighing 90 pounds, got away.

Now comes the trap baiting chapter!

St. Louis police some weeks ago arrested Virgil Heikert, 28 years old, and charged him with half a dozen stickups in St. Joseph, Mo. At Heikert's home they found Cogwill's gun, a raincoat belonging to another Michigan City policeman, and a pair of pants which matched a suit abandoned in the bandit car at Michigan City on the day of the shooting.

They seized Heikert's wife, Elizabeth, and took her to Michigan City on the assumption that she had been his companion. But she could not be identified and her alibi held water.

Jealousy Baits a Trap.

However, Mrs. Heikert, a jealous glitter in her eyes, agreed to help police find the red haired gunwoman. She wrote to her husband, who, meanwhile, had been sentenced to 20 years in Jefferson City, Mo., prison and was then awaiting transfer from the St. Joseph jail. She told him she faced a prison sentence unless he supported her alibi and revealed the name of his woman companion.

A Michigan City newspaper published a special edition of five copies for Chief Warner. It contained a fake story bearing out Mrs. Heikert's statements. A copy was put in her letter.

But Heikert wouldn't talk.

So State Trooper Dye posed as an attorney and went to see him.

Denies Guilt Defiantly.

"Listen," Dye said. "Your wife's in a jam. I'm her lawyer. The only way you can keep her out of prison is to tell me who that red-headed girl was."

"Okay," he said. "I don't want Elizabeth to take a rap."

Police believe Miss Flowers learned in some unexplained way that Heikert had named her.

At any rate, there she was yesterday, all 90 defiant pounds of her, in the FBI office. She pleaded not guilty at a hearing before United States Commissioner Charles H. Thompson, and is in the county jail at Kansas City in default of $5,000 bond.

DUCE LAUNCHES NEW CLASS OF BOYS, AGE 6, ON TRAINING FOR WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 16.—Italy's boy soldiers marched forth today to receive their promotions under the eye of Premier Benito Mussolini.

Among them were lads 6 years old who, marking the opening of schools, shouldered tiny replicas of army muskets and marched in military formation to the Piazza di Siena. There, as "wolf cubs," they received from older youths the badges that launched them into military training that will last until they are 20 and can join the Fascist party. The older boys received their badges of promotion to new military ranks.

City May Get Milk in Cartons in Five Weeks

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

Chicagoans will be able to buy milk in paper containers at stores within five weeks if the city council approves. The Chicago board of health yesterday asked the council to permit use of the paper cartons.

Dairies, with one exception, announced last night that they are ready to supply milk in the new containers to the stores. If they prove popular, the cartons may be used for home delivery.

Recommends Amendment.

The health board's request for council action yesterday was embodied in a recommendation that an amendment to the milk ordinance be drawn which will copy a model ordinance approved by the United States public health service.

The paper containers will make no difference in the retail price of milk although the cost to the dairies will be increased. The waxed cardboard cartons cost 1⅛ cents or more per quart. Glass bottles cost five cents but can be used for at least twenty-five trips, reducing the cost to 1-5 of a cent. In addition, however, there is the cost of cleaning and sterilizing bottles before refilling.

Paper containers are easier to transport to the stores. They cut down the amount of work for delivery drivers, however, because more milk can be carried in each truck. The saving is both in the weight and the space occupied by glass bottles. The paper containers are said to be more convenient for customers; take up less room in household refrigerators, and make unnecessary a deposit required in most stores on bottles.

Predict Volume of Use.

Of approximately 950,000 quarts of milk and cream in sizes up to a quart sold in Chicago daily, it is estimated that 76,000 or one-fifth of the store sales will be in cartons. This is on the basis of the sales records in the suburbs and in other large cities.

But as many of the sales such as cream are in sizes below a quart, the number of paper units sold probably will approach 95,000. Roughly this would amount to 228,000 pounds of paper required each month. Experts said that beside the increased paper business there will be added work for plants manufacturing the containers and container equipment if the Chicago market is opened to them.

It is possible that the American Can company may build a new plant here to take care of this market, company officials said. The company

SUICIDE SQUADS OF FRENCH HOLD UP FOES' DRIVE

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Oct. 17, Tuesday (AP).—German forces, having gained a foothold on French soil, were reported to have launched a fresh assault with "heavy" artillery fire today which caused the French to fall back in the region east of the Saar river. The new attack, a general staff communique said, developed along a 20 mile front west of the sector in which the Germans had reached positions 100 yards inside the French border north of Apach—near the Luxemburg frontier. The communique declared the attack was halted "on the line foreseen." This was taken to indicate the Germans had not penetrated deeply into the French lines.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—After a brief but terrific artillery preparation, storm battalions of German infantry, accompanied by numerous small and medium sized tanks, attacked at dawn today along a four mile front immediately east of the Moselle river, near the Luxemburg border.

Driving ahead rapidly thru the French advance positions on German soil, which the French had thinned out in expectation of the attack, the Germans crossed the frontier. They rushed the French village of Apach despite vigorous resistance of the French rear guard, which hurled hand grenades and fired with automatic rifles from sandbagged windows and behind stone walls.

Nazis Hold French Soil.

At this moment the French field batteries of 75s and 6 inch howitzers unleashed a murderous barrage. It threatened to cut the German advance elements, which were fighting in the streets of the village, from their support, and the survivors withdrew to fields and thickets north of the village. Here the Germans are reported to be holding a line 100 yards inside French territory, the first Nazi advance into enemy soil on the west front. This would mean that the Germans advanced a mile and a quarter to a mile and a half during the day.

Late tonight the battle, the heaviest on the western front up to now, was reported still raging, with the German advance held up, at least momentarily, by French artillery fire. French long range guns hammered the German lines of communication to prevent the German command from sending up reserves to exploit their initial success.

According to reports from the front, the German attack was dislocated by isolated French points of resistance, while at other spots, where the French command had deliberately created a gap, they advanced too fast and coördination of the artillery support suffered.

Suicide Squads Stand by Guns.

Suicide squads of French machine gunners on the Schneeberg heights overlooking the Moselle wrote a heroic chapter in French military history by holding their positions until it was too late to retire. They retarded the German advance and gave the artillery time to lay a deadly barrage in front of the main French infantry positions.

The outposts, sheltered in trenches with a few strands of barbed wire in front of them, or even in scattered fox holes, had been waiting for days to play their tragic rôle.

They were peasants or workers in their late twenties, many of them with families. Correspondents, who had visited the front, had been struck by the difference between

CLAIMS OF RIVAL GOVERNMENTS ON AIR RAID RESULTS

After the German air raid on the Firth of Forth, eastern Scotland, the British government and the German government each issued official statements. Here they are:

FROM LONDON.

"Today, Oct. 16, between 9 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., several German aircraft reconnoitered Rosyth.

"This afternoon at about 2:30 p. m. a series of bombing raids began. These were directed at the ships lying in the Forth and were conducted by about a dozen machines.

"All the batteries opened fire upon the raiders, and an air force fighter squadron ascended to engage them. No serious damage was done to any of his majesty's ships. One bomb glanced off the cruiser Southampton, causing slight damage near her bow and sank the admiral's barge and a pinnace [a small tender] which were moored empty alongside.

First Hit During War.

"This was the first hit which German aircraft have made during the war upon a British ship. There were three casualties on board the Southampton, and seven on board the cruiser Edinburgh from splinters. Another bomb fell near the destroyer Mohawk which was returning to harbor from convoy escort. This bomb burst on the water and its splinters caused 25 casualties among the men on the deck of the destroyer.

[The admiralty later announced two officers and 13 men were killed in the raids.]

"Only superficial damage was caused to the vessels, which, like the others, are ready for sea. On the other hand four bombers, at least, out of 12 or 14, were brought down, three of them by fighters of the royal air force.

"The first contact between royal air force aircraft and the enemy raiders took place off May Island at the entrance to the Firth of Forth at 2:35 p. m. when two enemy aircraft were intercepted. They were driven down by our aircraft from 4,000 feet to within a few feet of the water and chased out to sea.

Falls to Sea in Flames.

"Another enemy aircraft was engaged 10 minutes later over Dalkeith. It fell in flames into the sea. Within a quarter of an hour a sharp combat took place off Crail, and a second raider crashed into the sea. A third German aircraft was destroyed in the pursuit.

[It was not stated where the fourth plane fell.]

"Two German aviators have been rescued by one of our destroyers, of whom one has since died. No civilian casualties have been reported and none occurred in the royal air force.

"It also is added that the German claim issued this afternoon that the attacker of his majesty's ship Royal Oak, also attacked and badly damaged the battle cruiser Repulse is an absurd invention. In view of the habit of the German wireless of making fantastic claims it must be again repeated that neither the Repulse nor any other British warship has been damaged by hostile attack except as mentioned in the statements of the admiralty."

FROM BERLIN.

"Between 2:30 p. m. [7:30 a. m. Chicago time] and 3:30 p. m. today German bombers attacked English warships lying in the Firth of Forth. Two British cruisers were hit by bombs of heavy size.

"The attack was carried out despite heavy English defense fire.

"Two British pursuit planes which rose to the attack were shot down by our squadron. Two German airplanes are missing."

AUSTRALIA INCREASES ARMS OUTPUT; WILL BE THE EMPIRE'S ARSENAL

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 16.—R. G. Casey, minister of supply, today declared the decision of the 1937 imperial conference that Australia should become the arsenal of the empire already had been put into effect. He said the commonwealth was able to supply the other dominions with many important requirements and that production still was expanding.

Australia, he said, was practically independent of outside sources.

Casey said the cabinet had approved expenditure of millions to increase the production of machine and antitank guns.

3 WARSHIPS HIT BY AIR BOMBERS OVER SCOTLAND

4 Planes Are Shot Down by British.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 17, Tuesday (AP).—The English towns of Hull and Bridlington received air raid warnings just after 11 a. m. (4 a. m., Chicago time) today, it was reported in authorized advices to London. The port of Grimsby, which lies south of Hull across the estuary of the Humber river, also received a warning at 11:30 a. m. Grimsby, Hull, and Bridlington are fishing ports on the northeast coast.

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Scoring the first admitted bomb hit on a British warship since the European war began, German bombers today slightly damaged the cruiser Southampton in a spectacular attack on the vital Edinburgh and Firth of Forth area of Scotland.

The British admiralty's first communique said the bombers caused 35 casualties on the Southampton, the new cruiser Edinburgh, and the destroyer Mohawk. Later it was announced that two naval officers, Commander R. F. Jolly of the Mohawk and Lieut. E. J. O'Shea, and 13 men were killed. The casualties included 12 men seriously injured.

Claim Four Raiders Downed

A joint communique by the air ministry and the admiralty said at least four of the 12 or 14 Nazi raiders were downed by royal air force fighters and antiaircraft batteries during a fierce battle.

[A German announcement said two British cruisers were hit by bombs. The Germans admitted the loss of only two planes and said two English pursuit planes were shot down.]

The first German air raiders to reach Britain, the bombers struck in dive attacks in the face of heavy fire from ship and shore batteries.

The official announcement of the attack—issued some eight hours after the fight—said the Southampton, which escorted King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England to Canada last summer, was struck a glancing blow by a bomb. The communique said the bow of the 9,100 ton cruiser was damaged slightly by the bomb. Bomb splinters caused three casualties aboard the Southampton, seven on the 10,000 ton Edinburgh and 25 on the 1,870 ton Mohawk.

No Air Raid Warnings.

It was said, however, the bombardment from the air failed to inflict serious damage to any of the warships.

[The objective of the Nazi airmen apparently was Rosyth, a leading naval base, and the Forth bridge. The Firth of Forth itself is a gathering place for British naval ships and during the world war the British feared the Germans would wreck the high bridge, thus trapping part of the British fleet.]

Air raid warnings were not sounded in the area of the attack, which was across the Firth of Forth from Edinburgh. Thruout the raid trains continued to cross the high bridge between Rosyth and the south bank of the Firth during the attack, giving passengers a chilling closeup of bombs exploding and making huge waterspouts in the water below.

Shortly before the aerial attack on British warships was disclosed by the admiralty and the air ministry, the admiralty had denied a German claim that the battle cruiser Repulse was damaged by the same submarine which sank the battleship Royal Oak on Saturday.

Besides the slight damage to the bow of the Southampton, an empty barge and an empty pinnace [a small tender] moored alongside the Southampton were sunk.

Bursts on Water.

The British said one bomb fell near the Mohawk and burst on the water, the splinters hitting men on her deck. The Mohawk was returning to harbor from convoy escort.

The communique said the three ships were ready for the sea despite the raid.

The first contact between British and German planes was off May Island at the entrance to the Firth of Forth when two German planes were intercepted. They were reported driven out to sea.

"Another enemy aircraft was engaged 10 minutes later over Dalkeith," the communique said. "It fell in flames into the sea. Within a quarter of an hour a sharp combat took place off Crail and a second raider crashed into the sea.

"A third German aircraft was destroyed in the pursuit."

A member of a crew of a Scotch fishing boat, however, told of seeing a German bomber shot down and of rescuing three of the four members of the plane's crew.

"About 3 o'clock we were returning home when we saw a large black airplane traveling at high speed," he said. "It was being pursued by two British fighters. They dived underneath it and then circled up again firing into the tail of the German machine, which swept around in a circle, suddenly heeled over and flopped into the sea.

"We threw ropes to the flyers clinging to an inflated raft and when we hauled them aboard we discovered that they were all wounded. They told us another member of the crew had gone down with the plane. They were all young chaps."

"Two German aviators have been rescued by one of our destroyers, one of whom has since died," the communique added. "No civilian casualties have been reported and none occurred in the royal air force."

Has Twelve 6 Inch Guns.

Although the official statement claimed that there were no casualties among civilians, reports from Scotland stated that two men, one a house painter and the other a pedestrian, were wounded by machine gun bullets. Many windows were reported shattered by the concussion of the guns and several houses were struck by machine gun bullets.

The Southampton is a 9,100 ton vessel, completed in 1937, carrying a normal complement of 700 men. It carries twelve 6 inch guns, eight 4 inch guns, one 3.7 inch howitzer, four 3 pounders, and 18 smaller guns, as well as six torpedo tubes. It carries two planes and has one catapult.

The new cruiser Edinburgh has a displacement of 10,000 tons; overall length 613 feet 6 inches; beam 63 feet 4 inches. Its armament consists of 12 six inch guns, 2 four inch antiaircraft guns, four three pounders, 12 smaller guns, and six twenty-one inch torpedo tubes. Its construction was begun Dec. 12, 1936.

Drive Against Harbors.

The destroyer Mohawk was completed July 9, 1938. It has a displacement of 1,870 tons and a speed of 36.5 knots. Its guns consist of eight 4.7 inch and 8 smaller ones. It carries four 21 inch torpedo tubes. Its complement is 190 men.

The attack, at a point 500 miles from the coast of Germany, echoed predictions of a German drive against harbors and shipping while Scottish shipyards worked at top speed to keep Britain mistress of the seas.

The raiding planes were said in unofficial advices from Edinburgh to have dashed up the firth from the North sea at a high altitude. Against a bright, clear sky they dodged the fire of coastal batteries and headed toward the Forth bridge some thirty miles inland. The warships were lying about a mile west of the bridge.

Come Back Several Times.

Defense firing grew heavier. Pompon guns [firing multiple shots] joined shore batteries in the shelling from both sides of the firth. Many shells were seen exploding at a considerable height.

The attackers converged on their objectives at a mooring near the Rosyth end of the mile and a half long steel span.

Watchers from the south side of the firth said the German bombers made "desperate attempts" to drop their bombs effectively.

"The Germans were driven off by heavy fire, but they came back time and again to drop bombs," the proprietor of the Hawes inn at the south end of the bridge said. "The bombs caused huge waterspouts. Other bombs dropped near the bridge, but this was not hit, for trains went over it soon afterwards," he added.

Witnesses at South Queensferry told of a thrilling duel between Royal Air Force fighters and the German bombers.

One of them asserted he saw a fighter overtaking a bomber as it sought to escape in a fleecy cloud. He said he could hear a burst of fire and the bomber pitched toward the ground. None of the crew escaped by parachute.

Met by Antiaircraft Fire.

Residents of South Queensferry, at the south end of the bridge, said several planes dived to within about 300 feet of the bridge and bombed and machine gunned between Queensferry and the north end of the bridge. The planes were met by antiaircraft fire.

"There were many RAF planes up after them," a Dunfermine merchant declared. "At one time the sky seemed full of planes. It was a real dogfight."

The woman manager of the Sealscraig hotel on the south side of the firth said the German planes appeared three times with about a half hour interval between each raid.

The residents said the first warning of the raid was the sound of gunfire.

Many raced for shelter. Others stood in their doorways to watch. In several instances householders picked up pieces of antiaircraft shrapnel while they were still warm.

David Archibald of Dumferline, a pasenger on a train which was crossing the bridge during the raid, said planes swooped down repeatedly.

Reporting on the war situation today, British officials said the royal air force made a successful reconnaissance over northern and central Germany last night.

British Ships Bombed by Nazi Flyers

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The British cruiser Southampton, which was damaged by a German bomb in a series of raids made by Nazi planes in the Firth of Forth and the Scottish coast yesterday. The ship was slightly damaged by a bomb, and bomb splinters caused three casualties.

The British destroyer Mohawk, which was also target of attack. Splinters from a bomb which struck in water nearby caused 25 casualties aboard the Mohawk.

NAZI PLANES AIM AT PORT CITY OF 1918 SURRENDER

Germany may have been seeking retribution for a world war humiliation in yesterday's air attack on the Firth of Forth and the British naval base at Rosyth. It was there on Nov. 21, 1918, that the 70 ships of the imperial German navy, subsequently scuttled at Scapa Flow, surrendered.

The Firth of Forth is on the east coast of Scotland, where the river Forth flows into the North Sea. Edinburgh, capital of Scotland, is on the south bank, and Rosyth naval base, built in 1908, enlarged during the world war, and selected in 1918 as home base of the British grand fleet, is on the north bank farther inland, back of the Forth bridge.

The bridge, completed in 1889 at a cost of $16,000,000, is 8,300 feet long. Its spans are 152 feet above high water, allowing unimpeded access to the sea. Bombed and dropped into the sea, however, it would bottle up the ships behind it at Rosyth.

Nazis' Air Attack Provides Free Fish for the Scotch

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 16 (AP).—Fresh fish were free today following the German air raid over the Firth of Forth. When the two hour aerial battle was over Scots put out in boats and garnered a harvest of fish killed by bombs.

GERMANS CHEER REPORT OF SUB'S RAID ON REPULSE

Insist a Torpedo Struck British Battle Cruiser.

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP).—Germany's enthusiasm rose to new heights tonight over an announcement that the British battle cruiser Repulse had been torpedoed. It appeared as if Adolf Hitler had determined on a policy of sinking or disabling one British warship after another until Great Britain would give in.

[A British communique said that "the German claim issued this [Monday] afternoon that the attacker of his majesty's ship Royal Oak also attacked and badly damaged the battle cruiser Repulse is an absurd invention. Neither the Repulse nor any other British warship has been damaged by hostile attack except as mentioned in the statements of the admiralty."]

Although a first German communique said the 32,000 ton Repulse had been severely damaged and put out of commission, a corrected communique later said "the same U-boat which sank the British battleship Royal Oak torpedoed the battleship Repulse."

Thus, with no further details given, the effect of the torpedo was left open. Explaining the reason for the change in wording of the communique, authorities said that "torpedoed" to them was a stronger expression than merely "damaged" or "disabled."

They cautioned, however, that it did not necessarily mean the Repulse was sunk.

[The Repulse was commissioned in 1916 and reconstructed in 1936 at a cost of about $5,500,000. The battle cruiser has a complement of from 1,181 to 1,205 men.]

The report that the Repulse had been torpedoed so soon after the sinking, announced Saturday, of the 29,150 ton Royal Oak caused Nazi confidence to increase by leaps and bounds.

"Germany will win the war," Nazis exclaimed.

Details of Encounters Lacking.

Details of both encounters were lacking. The submarine commander apparently was attempting to attack all British ships he could find before returning to his home base to make a report—and receive the iron cross for his achievement.

Meanwhile the German tenor of war sentiment was: "England, you asked for it, and now you are getting it."

British Freighter Sunk.

LONDON, Oct. 17 [Tuesday] (AP).—Thirty-two officers and crew of the 3,677 ton Whitby steamer Sneaton, sunk in the Atlantic by a German submarine Saturday, today were landed at a south coast port. A fireman was killed when the ship was attacked by a German U-boat. The ship's sinking had not been announced previously. The crew was brought into port by the Belgian oil tanker Alexandre Andre. The crew pulled away in three lifeboats from the ship, which went down in 20 minutes after being attacked.

Report Sinking of U-Boat.

PARIS, Oct. 16 (AP).—The French reported tonight that at least one of the German submarines which have sunk three French cargo ships in the last week had been sent to the bottom.

Norwegian Ship Sunk.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 16 (AP).—The Finnish steamer Emmi arrived at the nearby port of Mulden today with eight sailors from the Norwegian freighter Gressholm. The sailors said their vessel was sunk by a mine Friday while en route from Stavanger to Antwerp. Three crewmen were missing.

Fishermen Report Battle.

BERGEN, Norway, Oct. 16 (AP).—Three stories by fishermen indicated today that one and possibly two warships may have been sunk in a North sea battle Saturday but whether they were German or British could not be ascertained.

Fishermen on the island of Nordvaagsoy, according to the newspaper Gulatidende, saw three ships engaged in conflict with a lone warship west of Oldervеggen. They thought one of the trio sank but could not establish its identity through binoculars.

A Maaloy Island fisherman said he believed two warships were sunk and thought they were German.

The German trawler Nordland of Cuxhaven was brought into port today by a Norwegian patrol seaplane. Authorities said the trawler had altered her name and was sailing under the Danish flag.

SOUTH AFRICA RAISING MILLION TO COUNTER GERMAN PROPAGANDA

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Oct. 16 (AP).—A subscription fund has been started with approval of Prime Minister Gen. J. C. Smuts to raise about $1,000,000 to counter German propaganda.

A manifesto said "lies" from the German wireless station at Zeesen, altho "fantastic to thinking people," were believed in some more remote districts.

Bring 1,000 Passengers on Secret Voyage.

New York, Oct. 16 [Special].—The first passenger ships of belligerent nations to arrive here since Sept. 20 slipped unexpectedly into New York today. They are the French liner De Grasse and the British Anchor liner Cameronia. Both vessels carried guns on their decks and apparently they had crossed the Atlantic together. They brought almost 1,000 passengers.

The De Grasse, mounting two 75 mm. guns, carried 281 passengers, of whom 47 were American citizens. Like all ships of the belligerents, it crossed the ocean in complete secrecy, blacking out from stem to stern at night.

Protecting the Cameronia was a heavier weapon—a gun of six inch caliber mounted aft. On the vessel were 709 passengers, 246 of them Americans and 52 of them survivors of the Athenia.

The Scanmail of the American Scantic Line also arrived this morning, putting in at Jersey City with 130 passengers. One of the passengers was Miss Marie Hollis, California acrobatic dancer, who recently made two appearances before Adolf Hitler.

Norwegians Report Vessel on Fire After Explosion

KRISTIANSAND, Norway, Oct. 17, Tuesday (AP).—The Norwegian admiralty dispatched a coast guard ship today to investigate a fire at sea observed last night off Groenningen lighthouse. The fire followed a heavy explosion and was accompanied by other blasts which were taken to indicate that a tanker or freighter carrying explosives was involved. Play of searchlights in the vicinity was regarded as indicating that at least one belligerent ship was standing by. The coast guard boat could find no sign of a stricken ship.

Explorer Visits Hitler; Predicts Terrible War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Sven Hedin, Swedish explorer and author, was received by Adolf Hitler today and spent two hours conversing with him. Despite his admission that he is partly Jewish, Hedin enjoys Nazi favor. He refused to comment on his visit with Hitler except to tell friends that he feared Europe was facing a conflict more terrible than the world war.

DID YOU NOTICE?

Items Which Weren't Headlined in Recent War News

The antiaircraft barrage that startled Berlin on Sunday evening was not caused by an enemy raider. The Nazis were firing at one of their own planes. The flyer became lost and apparently flew into a prohibited zone. Berlin dispatches said the airman parachuted to safety after his plane was damaged by shell fire.

Of the 158,000 British troops in France at this time some 30,000, according to dispatches from Paris, have taken over front line positions. British artillery has been engaging the enemy along with the French for several days. British patrols, howers, have not yet encountered the enemy in combat.

Travelers returning from German Austria and northern Italy are reporting in Berlin sighting many German troops in Italy and say that there are increasing numbers of Nazi legionnaires arriving there at this time. Despite denials of these stories in official German and Italian circles, residents of Berlin have been receiving mail from army relatives postmarked Italy.

Russian troop concentrations reported in the Caucasus alarm the British as well as the Turks. The Russian hordes there threaten the rich Iraq oil fields, some of the richest in the world and now Great Britain's chief source of fuel for battle fleet and air squadrons.

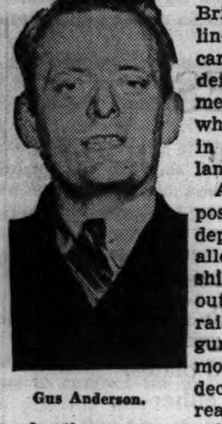
ATHENIA LOADED WITH GUNS, SAYS YANK PASSENGER

Remodeled as Sea Raider, Evanstonian Declares.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—The state department is investigating the sensational charge that the British passenger liner Athenia was carrying coastal defense armaments to Canada when it was sunk in the North Atlantic on Sept. 3.



Gus Anderson.

An affidavit in possession of the department also alleges that the ship was fitted out to act as a raider, and that guns were to be mounted on her decks at Montreal, if she had made the passage safely.

The affidavit was made by Gus Anderson of Evanston, Ill., head of a world travel bureau, who was aboard the Athenia on its fatal cruise. He quoted an officer of the liner as telling him there were "plenty of guns" in the hold and that they were to be used for coast defenses at Halifax and Quebec.

Rumors of Gold Cargo.

Anderson told the investigators he had heard that the ship also carried a large shipment of gold.

Other details in Anderson's affidavit have added to the mystery which has surrounded the sinking of the Athenia.

These details include the fact that the ship's lights went on several hours after it had been hit and that it did not sink for nearly 14 hours. Three British destroyers were in the vicinity thruout this period. The destroyers finally shelled the Athenia to sink her, the Anderson affidavit stated, because the ship might have remained afloat for an indefinite period, constituting a menace to navigation.

Known to Ship's Officers.

Anderson previously had traveled on the Athenia a number of times and was on familiar terms with the ship's officers. His reliability has been vouched for by a number of persons consulted by the state department.

Following a preliminary investigation the state department earlier reported that the vessel was torpedoed by a submarine. Officers and a number of passengers told of glimpsing the submarine. The German government consistently has denied responsibility for the disaster and has charged the British government with sinking its own vessel in order to arouse American sentiment against Germany.

Twenty-eight Americans are believed to have lost their lives on the Athenia, according to the state department's most recent information.

Anderson was rescued by the City of Flint, which made a slow voyage back to Halifax. He came to Washington two weeks ago and told his story to three congressmen with whom he is acquainted—Representatives Francis H. Case [R., S. D.], Overton Brooks [D., La.], and Walter M. Pierce [D., Ore.].

Preparing Formal Report.

Learning that Anderson had important information, the state department asked him for an affidavit and also interviewed him at length. Other witnesses have been interviewed by state department officials in the last week and a formal report is in the process of preparation.

Asked if he had any knowledge of whether the Athenia carried guns or ammunition, Anderson replied there were no guns in sight outside.

"Were there any guns inside that you know of?" he was asked.

"I believe there were," he replied in his sworn affidavit. "I talked with an officer whom I knew and asked him where our guns were. He said they were in the hold, and that there were plenty on board."

Ship Strongly Braced.

Q.—What did he say they were for? A.—He said they were to be used for coast defenses at Halifax and Quebec.

Q.—Did he say she was fitted out as a raider? A.—He said they were to outfit the Athenia as a raider for her return trip.

Later in his affidavit, Anderson, telling of his discussions with this officer, declared he was told that some of the guns being carried by the ship would be used on the Athenia, while others were intended for coast defense in Canada.

"Did you see any indications that the Athenia was equipped to carry guns?" he was asked.

"She was reinforced with heavy beams and braces," he replied.

Q.—Did you discuss the reasons with the officer for these braces and beams? A.—Everybody knew it—everybody on board knew it. Sometime last year, after the Munich conference, she was fitted out as a raider. She was about 15 or 17 years old.

Covered with Canvas.

Asked if he himself had seen any guns, Anderson testified:

"I was looking down the hold and talking with one of the seamen loading cargo. I asked, 'What's that—the guns? and he said 'Yes.'"

Q.—What did you have reference to? A.—The stuff down in the hold. There was a canvas or burlap covering it.

Q.—Could you form any idea as to the size of the guns? A.—I couldn't form any idea as to size, but the guns under the burlap formed a huge pile.

When the Athenia left Liverpool notice was posted that the ship was to be blacked out entirely, not even matches or cigarets being permitted on deck.

"Sometime during Sunday, another notice was posted calling attention to the fact that someone had been guilty of leaving a port hole open and the light had been seen shining out on the water," Anderson declared in the affidavit. "A further warning was given in regard to the urgency of total darkness."

Struck During Dinner.

Anderson stated in the affidavit that he just had finished his dinner when there was a terrific explosion that seemed to come from the stern.

A few minutes after the first main explosion, two slightly muffled explosions occurred, Anderson stated, sounding as tho they came from the engine room.

"The ship immediately lurched violently portside," the affidavit stated. "The lights went out, and dishes crashed to the floor. Women began screaming and children were crying in the darkness. The ship had tilted so far port side that it was almost impossible to stand.

"I made my way to the exit by lighting matches. Some steward had thrown a chair in the stairway to prevent swamping of the lifeboats. I made my way over the chair and up the stairs toward my cabin, thru dense powder smoke. I groped my way to my cabin, grabbed my life belt, adjusted it properly and fastened it securely.

Life Boats Periled.

"Once outside, things were calm. I could hear the ringing of the bells for closing the bulkheads. [This action, it was noted by investigators, kept the ship afloat for so many hours]. At first it looked as if the ship would be gone in five minutes.

"I turned to helping the crew in lowering lifeboats. As the first lifeboat was lowered to the level of the deck, terror stricken passengers scrambled aboard, both men and women. For a moment the lifeboat was in danger of being capsized before it was filled. But it safely reached the water.

"About an hour after we had left the Athenia, the auxiliary lighting system began functioning and we could see a few men on the top deck around the radio room. By this time the Athenia had righted herself and was riding high. About 3:30 a. m. the searchlight of a rescue ship appeared.

"About 4 o'clock three British destroyers appeared, one of them staying near the Athenia for more than an hour.

"We finally were taken aboard the Southern Cross about 7 o'clock in the morning. The City of Flint arrived about noon and we were transferred to it. All life boats were sunk as the passengers were taken from them. None could be seen anywhere as we left the scene about 5 o'clock that afternoon."

10,000 at Work

More than 10,000 Chicago women of Polish birth or extraction are busy these days making clothing for the aid of the suffering in Poland. They are organized as the Polish Civilian War Relief unit, in coöperation with the American Red Cross.

Yesterday directors met at the home of Mrs. Armella Mix, 2556 North Kimball avenue, chairman, and discussed plans for opening a permanent headquarters. It was agreed the headquarters would be established in the center of the Polish community at Ashland avenue and Division street.

The unit was organized only six weeks ago. Its membership represents 72 church parishes and Polish organizations. These organizations raise funds for Polish relief. The funds are earmarked and turned over to the Red Cross. The Red Cross in turn buys materials for clothing wholesale, then turns the materials over to the war relief unit. The unit makes them into clothing, turns the finished products over to the Red Cross for shipment.

ATHENIA OWNERS GIVE $21,513 FOR U. S. SURVIVORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, in a statement today, announced that he had received $21,513 from the Donaldson Atlantic Line, owners of the sunken British steamer Athenia, to help defray the expense of returning American survivors home.

Twenty-nine Americans apparently lost their lives when the Athenia was sunk on Sept. 3, a few hours after war was declared on Germany. There are believed to have been 369 Americans on the vessel.

Mr. Kennedy acknowledged receipt of the fund from the Athenia's owners with this statement:

"The check which I have just received is a splendid gesture taken without any regard for any immunity from legal responsibilities which the company might have enjoyed under the special circumstances of the sinking of the Athenia. I know that my countrymen will join me in lasting appreciation of everything that has been done to make it easier for the American victims of this terrible disaster."

U. S. Sailors Fail to Find Foreign Subs in Caribbean

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 16 (AP).—Lieutenant Commander S. B. Cooke, commanding United States patrol squadron 51, said today a continuous search of the whole Eastern Caribbean area since Sept. 12 had failed to reveal presence of a single submarine of a foreign power. There have been numerous unconfirmed reports of submarines in the area.

SOVIET-TURKISH TALKS CONTINUE IN DEEP SECRECY

Red-Lithuanian Trade Agreement Signed.

MOSCOW, Oct. 16 (AP).—Protracted diplomatic negotiations between Russia and Turkey continued today, but no inkling of conclusive results was forthcoming from the Kremlin.

Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister, consulted for two hours with Russian officials. The countries had been reported reliably several days ago to have agreed on a pact.

[The Turkish cabinet last night was reported in a dispatch from Ankara to have sent final instructions to Saracoglu, which, political circles declared, might lead to quick conclusion of the conversations and possibly a Russian-Turkish pact. This report came while Turkey was said to be making feverish military preparations on reports that Russia was massing troops on the borders of Turkey and Persia. Tass, official Russian news agency, was quoted by the Moscow radio as denying such troop movements. Turkish circles said any soviet pact that might be reached would not affect the status of the Balkan sea areas or impair Turkey's mutual assistance pacts with Britain and France.]

Lithuanian Pact Signed.

Tass [official soviet news agency] tonight announced a trade agreement between Russia and Lithuania for 1939-'40 was signed here yesterday, doubling the trade between the countries.

[The trade agreement followed by less than a week the signing of a mutual assistance pact involving Russia and Lithuania, which provided for return to Lithuania of her ancient capital, Wilno [Vilna], Poland, and the Wilno region. The soviets were granted the right to place troops in Lithuania.]

In another field of Russian diplomatic activity, it was said the Finnish envoy, Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, was not expected to return here before the latter part of the week.

[In Helsingfors the Finnish government studied Russian proposals brought back by Paasikivi and a spokesman said they embodied "serious questions" for Finland. Rumania watched the Russian-Turkish negotiations and it was reiterated in Bucharest that the Rumanian foreign minister, Grigore Gafencu, would meet Saracoglu as soon as he left Moscow.]

Diplomats here agreed the Russian-Turkish negotiations might have a far-reaching effect upon Balkan problems in general.

Hint Threat to Germany.

Wide speculation was aroused here by reports from Riga, Latvia, that the U. S. S. R. had demanded that Germany order her citizens to emigrate hastily from the Baltic states, over which Russia now holds virtual protectorates, under the threat that she would not otherwise lend the reich any gold reserve.

Russia was said to be seeking to eliminate any future German claims on the Baltic states through racial minorities.

COL. ROOSEVELT WARNS AGAINST CASH AND CARRY

New York, Oct. 16 (AP).—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, son of the former President, tonight urged that congress maintain the arms embargo, asserting that adoption of the administration's cash and carry plan would be "moving one step toward being involved ourselves."

In a radio speech, he added that the one mission of America was to "defend our American democracy."

A considerable group, he remarked, has declared against participation in war, but expressed the belief that this country will be dragged in anyway. This notion, Roosevelt asserted, is trash.

FINLAND STUDIES SECRET DEMANDS MADE BY RUSSIA

More Air Raid Drills Ordered.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 16 (AP).—The Finnish government today studied undisclosed Russian proposals brought back by its mission to Moscow. A spokesman said later, "We remain calm and believe a solution can be found."

There was no evidence of slackening in defense measures. It was announced more air raid drills were planned shortly. These steps were described by the government as a precaution against possible violation of "our independence and neutrality."

"The Russian demands present serious questions," the spokesman said, "but a practical solution can be found, in our opinion, if both sides show good will. We are trying so far as possible to understand the proposals made by the soviet and find a way to a peaceful solution."

Calls Negotiations "Critical."

The return to Moscow of Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of the Finnish mission, was not expected for several days. Meanwhile government observers described the negotiations as presenting the most serious crisis in the history of the republic.

"We are not trying to drag out negotiations or gain time, but we are studying the questions and that takes time," a foreign office spokesman declared.

Dr. Paasikivi first held a conference with Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko and then a longer meeting with President Kyoesti Kallio and other government representatives after he returned this morning. Technical experts who accompanied Paasikivi to the Kremlin conferences were present at the meetings.

Paasikivi, in a meeting with newspaper men, declined to comment on the conferences. He confined his remarks to Moscow's "fine weather" and his visit to the agricultural show.

He said Dictator Josef Stalin and Premier and Commissar of Foreign Affairs Vyacheslav Molotov were active in the negotiations, adding that the conversations were "very pleasant."

Meet in Stockholm Tomorrow.

It was announced the Helsingfors delegation to the meeting of northern states at Stockholm Wednesday would leave by special plane. Included in the delegation will be President Kallio, Foreign Minister Erkko, and Dr. Aaro Pashaslahti, director of the political branch of the foreign office. Finland, Denmark, and Norway were invited to the conference to express "solidarity" of the Scandinavian countries.

A government spokesman expressed no concern at a report that 15 Russian warships were anchored at Tallinn, Estonian harbor a few miles across the Gulf of Finland from Helsingfors.

REP. LUDLOW ASSAILS URGE TO INTERVENE IN CONFLICT IN EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—The administration neutrality bill was termed a shining example of the interventionist ideology in a speech in the house today by Representative Ludlow [D., Ind.]. Ludlow contended the bill runs counter to the general wish of the people that America should keep out of war.

"It is based," he declared, "on the theory that it is to the best interest of the United States to line up on the side of certain great powers and against certain other great powers. It would plunge America into power politics up to the hilt. Its effect would be to make America an ally of the British empire and France in any future war in which they choose to engage, because it would establish the United States as the arsenal and storehouse of supplies and credits for those countries that control the seas."

Ludlow advocated a strict embargo on all exports to belligerents, legislation to prohibit American vessels from trading with belligerents, to bar American citizens from danger zones, and to remove from the President or any one else the power to discriminate between belligerents on a basis of moral judgments.

English Train Wrecked During Blackout; 3 Hurt

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Roaring through the blackout at 50 miles an hour, the engine of the Euston-Heysham night boat express train was derailed tonight near Warwick, Lancashire, when it plunged into wreckage from the collision of a light engine and a freight train. At least three persons were injured. It was the second railway wreck attributed to the blackout in England. Four persons were killed in a wreck at Bletchley on Friday night.

COST OF LIVING SOARS IN BRITAIN ON WAR'S WINGS

Workers Demand Boost in Wages.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Living costs in Great Britain soared 10 points during the first month of the war, the government announced tonight. Food prices increased 12 points in the same period.

The effect of the war on budgets of housewives was disclosed in a ministry of labor index. It showed that from Sept. 1 to Sept. 30 average retail costs of commodities jumped from 55 to 65 points above the corresponding figure for 1914. The average increase for food rose from 38 to 50 points between Sept. 1 and Sept. 30 as compared with 1914.

Biggest Leap in 19 Years.

This was the biggest increase for any one month in 19 years and does not represent the full expansion of living costs since many commodities come outside the labor ministry's calculations.

Statistics collected by labor union headquarters indicated that the actual living cost increased between 20 and 25 per cent since the war began.

Changes affecting principal foods as announced in the ministry of labor's index showed that sugar increased 47 per cent in price, fish rose 29 per cent, salted butter and fresh eggs, 19 per cent; fresh butter, 12 per cent, and streaky bacon, 10 per cent.

Tea, milk, margerine, and potatoes rose 1 per cent; bread, 2 per cent; British beef, 3 to 5 per cent; chilled and frozen beef, 4 to 6 per cent; British mutton, 4 to 5 per cent; frozen mutton, 3 to 7 per cent, and flour, 3 per cent.

Rents Remain Same.

No change was recorded in rents. Fuel and light were estimated to cost an extra 1 per cent, while clothing jumped 7 per cent.

The rise in living costs was expected to have an important effect on wage negotiations in many industries.

Ten thousand miners in North Wales were threatening to strike to enforce their demand for pay increases. In some quarters the miners' action was regarded as foreshadowing a movement among industrial workers to break away from the conciliation machinery set up by the government in conjunction with the trades union congress.

Mine owners and delegates from the powerful Miners' Federation of Great Britain, representing 600,000 men, will resume negotiations Thursday on the miners' demand for 20 cents extra pay a day. Negotiations affecting the British textile industry will open in Manchester tomorrow when representatives of 350,000 cotton employés will discuss with their employers a demand for a 20 per cent wage increase.

Some Pay Boosts Automatic.

On the other hand, British workers employed under the sliding scale agreements based on the living cost index automatically became entitled to wage increases as a consequence of rising prices. It was estimated that so far 443,000 workers have benefited, sharing between them an extra $512,000 a week.

Motorists will be compelled to pay 3½ cents more for a gallon of gasoline starting tomorrow. The government controls the sale of gasoline.

Food rationing in Britain, which originally was to have started at the end of September, probably will not be imposed before the end of December, a food ministry official asserted.

Poles Fighting

Polish troops were still fighting yesterday against the Germans at two points (1), while another Polish force was still battling the Russian at two other points (2). The former boundarise of Poland are shown by broken lines, while the heavy line marks the present boundary between Germany and Russia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Poland's military contribution to the cause of Great Britain and France was outlined today by the war office in a reply to what is called "German propaganda" that "Poland was sacrificed by her allies fruitlessly." The war office said 150,000 was "a reasonable estimate" of German army casualties and pointed to German losses in tanks, aircraft, and gasoline.

It added that the Polish campaign enabled France to mobilize without disturbance, contributed to safe transportation of British troops to France, and furnished information on German tactics.

Polish troops still are resisting both the German and Russian armies in certain areas, the Polish embassy said in this statement:

"According to reliable information, the regular Polish army units in the region of Suwalki and in the Carpathian mountains resist the Germans while other Polish troops still are fighting bravely against the Russians in the Pripet marshes and in the woodlands of Bialowieze."

HUNGARY RAIDS 'DEATH LEGION' TO SPOIL NAZI COUP

140 Seized by Police in Assassination Plot.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 16 (AP).—A projected putsch by Hungarian Nazi extremists, which was said to include the assassination of 17 members of parliament, today was reported crushed with the arrest of 140 members of the outlawed "death legion."

Reliable informants said the legion's program included not only acting against the government but a purge of the badly split Hungarian Nazi movement's more moderate leaders. News of the plot and its outcome was given first by Nazis of the latter classification and a number of deputies later said they had confirmed the reports.

Hubay Marked for Death.

They said those marked for death included Kalman Hubay, whom the Hungarian Nazis chose to succeed Ference Szalasi, "Hungarian Hitler," after the latter was sentenced to three years in jail.

Altho there was no immediate confirmation from official sources, Nazis said the projected putsch was crushed Saturday by the arrests and the seizure of a large number of rifles, machine guns, and hand grenades. The group was alleged to have assembled the weapons in its plan to overthrow the government and install a Nazi régime.

Foreign sources said they believed that as a result of the incident the government would outlaw all Nazi groups. There are 50 Nazis in parliament.

Recall Plot in Rumania.

The alleged plot was said to be similar in some respects to the recent abortive coup of the pro-Nazi iron guard in Rumania which resulted in the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu.

Nazi sources said 200 persons so far had been linked to the plot, with police hunting for those still at large. Five leaders were said to have fled into Austria.

Officials said they regarded the "death legion" as the most pro-German of the Hungarian Nazi factions.

Division among Hungarian Nazis widened last week as many adherents among Hungary's half-million Germans became alarmed that Adolf Hitler's repatriation program might mean their removal to the reich.

Fear Russia's Aims.

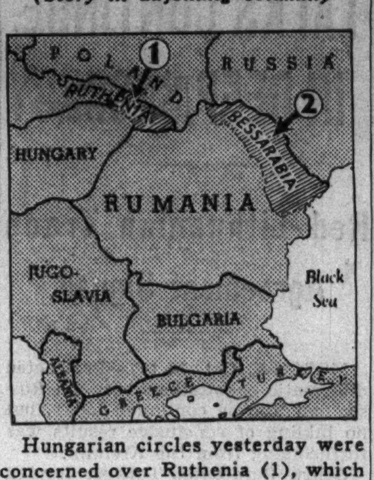
Reports of the alleged plot came as Sigismund Perenyi, Hungarian governor of Ruthenia, arrived here by plane in what diplomatic circles regarded as a reflection of Hungary's anxiety over Russia's aims.

These sources expressed fear that if Russia repossessed Bessarabia from Rumania she might also take Ruthenia from Hungary. Rumania acquired Bessarabia from Russia after the world war and Hungary annexed Ruthenia last March in the partition of Czecho-Slovakia.

Historically Bessarabia was a part of the principality of Moldavia, which united with Wallachia to form Rumania in 1895.

Danger Spots

(Story in adjoining column.)



Hungarian circles yesterday were concerned over Ruthenia (1), which was annexed in the partition of Czecho-Slovakia. It is feared that if Russia takes Bessarabia (2) from Rumania, the soviet government may also take Ruthenia. Rumania obtained Bessarabia from Russia in the world war.

INSIST SUNKEN SHIP CARRIED NO PLANE ENGINES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 16 (AP).—Customs officials said the British motorship Lochavon, sunk in the Atlantic, carried a supply of aircraft replacement parts, rivets, nuts, and bolts.

Spokesmen denied published reports that airplane engines were included in the shipment. The Los Angeles Times said 30 cases of parts and engines exceeding 200 tons were loaded secretly a few hours before the vessel sailed Sept. 11.

Customs agents insisted the parts shipment amounted to less than 100 tons and that a careful search was made to determine that the neutrality embargo had not been violated. They added that the supplies could not be used on motors.

Jugo-Slavia Seizes 2 Nazi Customs Officials as Spies

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 16 (AP).—Two German customs officers stationed on the Jugo-Slavian side of the border with Germany were arrested today on a charge of spying on Jugo-Slavia's frontier military establishments.

HITLER'S COURIER TO CARRY SECRET LETTER TO STALIN

Nazis Assert Much Depends on Moscow's Reply.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—A new lull has settled over the political life of Berlin. Persons close to Adolf Hitler today said they expected this to be another week of "war nerves," since, as matters stand now, the Fuehrer intends to remain in the capital watching developments until the end of the week.

Hitler will send a special courier to Moscow with a letter to Dictator Josef Stalin. Much will depend on Stalin's reply, Hitler's associates declared. They, however, refused to indicate the nature of the negotiations.

"The borderline between the sphere of interest of Germany and Russia is clearly drawn from north to south," newspapers said. "East Europe is being reorganized. The questions of the Black sea, the Dardanelles and the Mediterranean will be dealt with again and given new shape."

Observers said the statement indicated that more changes are planned for the map of Europe.

Sign Repatriation Pact.

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP).—German diplomats at Tallinn have signed agreement with the Estonian government for repatriation of German minorities in that country, it was announced.

The pact was signed, it was declared, in accordance with Adolf Hitler's plan announced to the reichstag Oct. 6 to return people of German extraction from neighboring countries. It was estimated about 15,000 persons of German blood were living in Estonia.

Estonian Germans will get three months in which to leave.

Permitted to Take $12.50.

They will be permitted to take household goods, objects of historic or artistic value, automobiles, jewelry and tools necessary for their trade, plus 50 Estonian kroons [about $12.50]. Cash in excess of this sum will be deposited to the repatriated person's credit and transferred as soon as practicable into German marks.

The agreement was expected to serve as a model for similar pacts to bring home Germans in Latvia, Lithuania, soviet Russia, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, and Rumania. The first contingent of Germans from Latvia arrived at Gotenhafen [Gdynia] aboard the steamer Scharhoern last night.

A D. N. B., official German news agency, dispatch from Kaunas, Lithuania, said that Lithuanian troops would march tomorrow into the former Polish territory newly reacquired under the Russian-Lithuanian pact.

The march into Lithuania's ancient capital, Vilna, was scheduled for Wednesday, the dispatch said, adding that exchange of ratification documents of the pact took place at noon.

[Vilna (Wilno) was seized and added to Poland in 1920 and became Russian territory recently in the Russian-German division of Poland. The ancient city then was returned to Lithuania as a part of the Russian-Lithuanian pact.]

First Ship Sails Thursday.

TALLINN, Estonia, Oct. 16 (AP).—The first shipload of German emigrants to leave Estonia under Germany's resettlement program was expected to leave Thursday.

A mixed commission reached an agreement that all property would be registered to the special account of the German legation, but that any transfer abroad must not injure the Estonia balance payments or economic life.

The emigrants' cash and deposits were estimated at 5,000,000 kroons [about $1,250,000]. Total capital investments were estimated as high as $200,000,000.

CAVALRY TROOPS WIN FIRST TILT IN TEXAS WARFARE

Maneuvers Bare Faults of Old French 75s.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Balmorhea, Tex., Oct. 16.—The 1st cavalry division of the regular army broke camp in Balmorhea state park, seven miles west of this town, this morning to begin a maneuver which will require two weeks. The military problem is based on a supposed war between the states of Texas and New Mexico.

The problem presumes that an army is being concentrated in the vicinity of Carlsbad and Hobbs in the southeastern corner of New Mexico, and it will be the task of the 1st cavalry division, as a Texas force, to defend the state's border against invasion.

The division and attached troops have been assembled here from Texas posts and forts as much as 300 miles away. During the maneuver the troops will traverse a route stretching about 150 miles northward.

When the operation began this morning the division's immediate task was to contact the enemy as quickly as possible and check any advance in order that the supposed mobilization of the Texas main body might be completed in Marfa, Marathon and Presidio, south of Balmorhea.

Toyah Is First Objective.

The first objective was to take and hold the town of Toyah, 60 miles north of Balmorhea. Brig. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, division commander, headed the northward march this morning after aerial observers of the 22d observation squadron reported enemy forces on a hill 12 miles from this town.

Gen. Joyce and his chief of staff, Col. Donald A. Robertson, made a personal reconnaissance of the area, using armored scout cars. The 8th engineer squadron, representing the enemy, garrisoned the enemy position last night.

When contact was made with the enemy, and his position observed, the division was divided into three columns. The 2d brigade, under Col. Innis P. Swift, formed the right column, which included the 7th and 8th cavalry regiments. Brig. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, 1st brigade commander, had the 5th and 12th cavalry in the left column, and the 82d and 15th field artillery regiments occupied the center position.

Frontal Attack Ordered.

Col. Swift was ordered to make a holding frontal attack on the enemy with the support of the artillery, while Gen. Wainwright marched his column to the west for an encircling movement.

After Gen. Joyce had issued orders for the troop movements he went to the top of the hill to observe the operation.

Maj. Henry Hutchins Jr., commander of the enemy forces, was virtually surrounded when fighting was halted at 2 o'clock. He reported that he was unable to hold up the cavalry because his artillery was useless. He was behind a 3,375 foot hill, and the trajectory of the old French 75 mm. guns would not clear such an elevation.

The division bivouaced on the hill for the night and will move northward again early tomorrow morning.

Mechanized Unit in Action.

Troop A, 1st reconnaissance squadron, a mechanized unit equipped with fast scout cars, is a part of the 1st cavalry division and will be used freely for maintenance of an outpost line at night. Horses will be saved as much as possible because they are needed for operation over terrain too difficult for the scout cars.

While the division was being brought together for the maneuver, a march of 300 miles was made in 12 days. The march was over paved roads, and only one horse was lost. Horseshoes were treated specially to prevent wear and to prevent horses from slipping on the hard surfaced roads.

Lieut. Kelton S. Davis, aide to Gen. Wainwright, was injured today when a horse fell. This was the only mishap of the day.

FORMER DIXON WOMAN, 83, DIES.

Polo, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—Mrs. Mary Slavin, 83 years old, a native of Dixon and life resident of Lee and Ogle counties, died last night at her home here. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Army Problem

The regular army's 1st Cavalry division and attached troops yesterday began maneuvers at Balmorhea, Texas (A) designed to cover a supposed Texas army which is mobilizing (B) against the threat of a supposed invading New Mexico army (C).

SURVIVOR OF NAZI ATTACK ON PLANE RETURNS TO CITY

Miss Florence Jennison of Bay City, Mich., returned to her studies in the John Marshall law school yesterday following a tour of Europe, during which a Dutch airliner in which she was a passenger was fired upon by a Nazi warplane.

"Even tho a passenger was killed by machine gun fire from the warplane, nobody saw the attacker," said Miss Jennison, who is 37 years old and lives in Hull House. "We knew it was a Nazi ship because the German government apologized for the incident."

Miss Jennison, formerly secretary of the League of Nations association here, thinks the European neutrals are maintaining their position successfully. She said the United States should stay out of the conflict.

JAPANESE BOAT CAPSIZES; 450 CHINESE DROWN

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16 (AP).—Authorities estimated 450 Chinese men and women laborers drowned today when the overloaded 180 ton Japanese river vessel Hsin Taiku Maru capsized in the storm-swept Yangtze estuary 12 miles from Woosung.

The only foreigner aboard, the Japanese captain, was believed lost. The passengers were employed in Japanese dominated areas along both banks of the Yangtze. It was reported that at least 60 survivors were saved. The vessel was equipped to carry 200 persons at most. She was seized from the Chinese by the Japanese navy in 1937 and turned over to the Japanese-fostered China Inland Navigation company to ply the lower Yangtze.

CHINESE REPORT SUCCESS IN RAID UPON HANGCHOW

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 16 (AP).—Chinese forces stormed the walled city of Hangchow, only 90 miles southwest of Shanghai, after an all night attack, Chinese army sources said today. The attackers are reported to have killed numerous Japanese soldiers in street fighting, destroyed the power plant, and set fire to an ammunition dump and the headquarters of the Japanese puppet régimé. The assault was made Sunday.

The Chinese are said to have cut off communication with Shanghai by tearing up railroads and dynamiting three rail bridges, establishing Chinese control of the countryside. Hangchow was taken by the Japanese on Christmas Eve, 1937.

Pupils Carry Gas Masks as French Schools Reopen

PARIS, Oct. 16 (AP).—French children went back to school today with gas masks added to their pencils, paper, and books. The schools' reopening had been delayed since Oct. 1 because of the war. Enrollments in Paris high schools were limited to the number their 500 air raid shelters could accommodate.

DEMANDS PROBE OF BLUNDERS IN NAVAL BUILDING

Church Urges Action on Reorganization.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—A succession of scandals involving faulty construction of warships is not unlikely to precipitate a congressional investigation to fix the responsibility and force eventually a sweeping reorganization of the navy department.

Ralph E. Church [top]. Carl Vinson.

Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.], member of the house committee on naval affairs, took steps today to expose the conditions in the department responsible for the repeated occurrence of defects in the construction of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and other war craft, and to bring about the reorganization that the Roosevelt administration has successfully resisted for six years.

Demands Vinson Act.

The Illinois congressman addressed a letter to Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the naval affairs committee calling his attention to the latest scandal involving the construction of 12 new destroyers, the first two of these ships to be delivered have been found topheavy when lightly loaded and likely to overturn under certain conditions.

Church asked Vinson to call for the production of numerous navy department reports and correspondence which are said to indicate the chaotic conditons obtaining in the department and the manner in which the buck is passed when a question of responsibility for blunders is raised.

Church also urged the chairman to call the committee into session at once to begin consideration of the extensive reorganization of the department which the Illinois congressman has been demanding for years.

Bill Has Been Drafted.

The reorganization plan, which would shake up the department from top to bottom, has reached the stage of a tentative bill drafted by Chairman Vinson and Representative Melvin J. Maas [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the committee, but it has never been submitted to the committee.

Conditions in the navy department have been notorious for years. The department has lacked efficient administration since the advent of the Roosevelt régime.

Mr. Roosevelt's selection of the late Claudius A. Swanson for secretary of the navy was something akin to a lame duck appointment. Swanson, aged and ailing, knew that he would be defeated for reëlection as senator from Virginia in 1934, and invoked influences that got him a political berth. Then the President put his cousin, the late Henry L. Roosevelt, in as assistant secretary.

Swanson Ill Three Years.

Swanson was lacking in administrative capacity and the last three years of his life he was so ill that he was unable to give any attention to his duties. He died July 7, last. The vacancy has not been filled.

The acting head of the department is Assistant Secretary Charles Edison, who is extremely deaf and in impaired health necessitating his absence for long periods. The fact is that the navy department has been administered for six years by the admirals under the supervision of Mr. Roosevelt, who, having been assistant secretary, thinks he knows how the navy should be run.

"The President ought to appoint a secretary of the navy," said Congressman Church. "He has proclaimed a limited emergency and surely in an emergency of any kind the navy department should be headed by an efficient administrator. It may be, as is asserted, that politics pertaining to the arms embargo repealer or to 1940 is responsible for the delay in filling the vacancy, but surely in the emergency he has proclaimed the President ought to rise above politics.

Department Without Head.

"The acting secretary, Mr. Edison, is an estimable gentleman, but his infirmities interfere with the efficient discharge of his duties. The record shows he was absent this year for four months on account of illness. As Secretary Swanson was ill at the time, the department had neither secretary nor assistant secretary from February to May, inclusive. In 1938 Mr. Edison was absent at various times for an even longer period altogether.

"It looks very much as if the former assistant secretary of the navy in the White House prefers a confused situation in which he becomes the real head of the department.

"The important thing now is to find out who is responsible for the defects in construction of warships which have been occurring for several years and to reform the administration that is responsible for these faults. Upon that I shall insist.

Need of Reorganization Known.

"The fact is that the need of a radical reorganization of the navy department has been recognized for years. Upon the initiation of Admiral William V. Pratt, when chief of naval operations in 1933, the department created a board headed by Henry Roosevelt to draft a reorganization plan. But it never saw the light of day. The powers that be didn't want a reorganization.

"The current revelation of the defects in the destroyers of the Anderson class is merely the latest instance of inefficiency and lack of responsibility in the department as at present administered or rather maladministered.

"A year ago it became known that the completion of the battleships Washington and North Carolina would be delayed because of decisions to change the engineering plans during the course of construction. It became necessary to fit new submarines with new engines because of the unsatisfactory performance of the engines with which they were equipped originally.

Torpedo Tube Too Tight.

"It was necessary to reconstruct the torpedo tube of the destroyer Shaw because it proved too tight a fit for the torpedo to be fired in it. In the case of the 28 destroyers of the Mahan class it was found that the deck and side plating was too thin and structural modifications were necessitated. Even after the discovery of structural defects the navy department went on building ships with the same defects uncorrected."

In the case of the Anderson class destroyers involved in the current scandal it was found that as a result of departures from design between 80 and 100 tons was added to the weight of each ship. That brought the center of gravity one foot higher than provided in the design, imparing the craft's stability.

The navy department today minimized the latest disclosure of construction faults.

"It is true," said Lieutenant Commander Bernard L. Austin, "that defects have been found in the destroyers in question. But they are not serious and can be corrected. There have been defects in every ship constructed anywhere at any time. We put the ships thru rigid tests to reveal any faults that may exist so that they may be corrected."

DISCOVER HUMAN BONES IN ANCIENT MT. CIRCE CAVES

ROME, Oct. 16.—Prehistoric caverns and human bones, including a well preserved skull, were found today on Mount Circe, where Ulysses' sailors, according to Homeric myth, were turned into swine. This hill, on the coast south of Rome, near Gaeta, some months ago yielded a Neanderthal skull. The new caves were discovered by a hotel keeper who was looking for a place to keep wines. The grottos, which converge toward one large cave, contain many human remnants. The skull is in good condition, with the teeth intact.

POLES' AUTHORITY SWEPT AWAY BY REDS' INVASION

Writer Tells How Villages Set Up Soviets.

(This is another of a series of dispatches by Alex Small, who was The Tribune's correspondent in Poland. In previous dispatches he told of the flight of Polish refugees from the German invasion, and now of their return, ahead of the Russians occupying eastern Poland.)

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Oct. 16.—The whole army which was retreating from Pinsk stopped to eat at a large village and the officers invited us with them into a large house which was the home of a wealthy landowner. We had a real feast—tea, bread, honey, and even some butter.

The landowner's grown son, who was anxious to speak English, told us that several of the larger farmhouses in the vicinity had been burned down the night before by bands of discontented peasants.

He indicated there was the beginning of a Jacquerie [peasant revolt] thruout the whole region, which was something I considered even more dangerous than the coming of the bolsheviks. The latter, after all, have some kind of discipline and there always was a chance, if captured, of finding some officer with consideration. But I saw no chance of trying to reason with a crowd of peasants out for pillage.

Untangle for Night.

It was raining again as we came into a village named Newel where we were to camp for the night of Sept. 21-22. We sat in the mud while our benefactor, Maj. Kraszewski, yelling and cursing, tried to bring order out of the traffic tangle of army trucks. The drivers wanted to discuss the matter with him, but the major had had training in the Italian army and was having no nonsense. The result was that order was restored in a few minutes and the soldiers marched off to their billets.

The major apologized for having no food to offer us. Then he led us to a barn filled with soldiers. I stepped on a man's hand and he didn't twitch a muscle. We huddled in the only vacant corner and slept.

It seemed about five minutes later that I was awakened by a man kicking me in the ribs. It was the sergeant of our truck.

"Alarm!" he was yelling.

This was incredible and maddening. Never before had I heard of night airplane attacks in this war. I thought more likely it meant that the Russians had succeeded in crossing the River Pina at Pinsk and were hot after us. At any rate, we were quickly on the move again.

Bridge Blown Up.

Beyond Newel the road became so bad we were forced to walk while our truck roared and sputtered thru deep sand. Beside me walked an officer I did not remember having seen the afternoon before.

This officer told me he had been with the rear guard which stayed at the bridge on the south side of the river opposite Pinsk. He told me the bolsheviks had disregarded all precaution and drove their tanks onto the bridge. Accompanying the tanks was a crowd of Pinsk citizens cheering madly for the Reds.

The Poles waited until two tanks had crossed and three others still were on the bridge. Then they set off the explosives which had been placed to destroy the bridge.

"It was a strange sight," the officer said, "to see those three tanks flying up into the air and many persons with them."

"What about the other two tanks?" I asked.

"I suppose they are somewhere in the countryside right now," he said. "They will likely keep going until they run out of gas or until they get help from the other side of the river."

Set Fire to Shipyards.

It was still dark. Far off to the left the sky was alight with the glow from some fire too vast for the drizzling rain to extinguish. The officer told me it was the shipyards and lumber yards along the river at Pinsk which some citizens who remained loyal to Poland set afire as soon as the Russians entered the city. They had been blazing now for over 10 hours. The Poles, I was told, regretted this "spontaneous action." They feared it would give the bolsheviks a pretext for exercising reprisals.

Day was breaking as we slogged into a village, which, to my dismay, I saw was Moroczno. We had left it only about 24 hours before. Now we were like the weary hundreds of thousands of refugees all over Poland—going around in circles.

We had tramped only about seven miles, but the mud had exhausted us. We found an abandoned house with straw on the floor and promptly slept.

At noon we awoke to find the village deserted by the soldiers. They had gone on toward the southwest in the pathetic hope of finding some Polish forces still fighting the Germans. Failing that, they probably would turn straight south and try to break thru the Russians into Hungary.

Writer's Advance

Arrows indicate advances described in today's article by Alex Small, Tribune correspondent, who was caught in the Nazi crush in Poland.

Gendarmerie [military police] officers, including Maj. Kraszewski, still were in Moroczno and they invited us to share their noon mess. For once the heavy hand of authority had been used and the local peasants were forced to disgorge food.

We had something I thought had vanished from the world—a dish of hot meat. There was hot bread, too, and even a little sugar. It was the first hot food we had in six days and tho the officers were generous I rose from the table feeling still half famished.

Must Separate from Army.

Maj. Kraszewski then told us that he and the other officers had held a conference about us [two Americans and a Polish civil official] that morning and decided we would have to leave the army whether we wanted to or not. Therefore, they were putting us into a motor car with a driver and with an armed escort at our disposal to go as far as Kamien Koszyrski, about 38 miles to the southwest. There we would have to get further information about getting into the German lines.

Riding in the car seemed an unreal luxury, but the enthusiasm soon dampened as the road became a muddy track. We really walked about half the distance. We should have arrived before dark, but it was really after 9 p.m. the night of Sept. 22 when we came into Kamien Kaszyrski. We gasped with astonishment and dismay as we saw all the houses brightly lighted—the first time we had seen lights of any kind in any city, town, or village since the war began.

No More Bombings.

At the communal administration building we asked why there was so much illumination.

"Because we are in a territory that is going to be taken by the Russians," we were told. "The Germans have ceased bombing this section and the Russians do not intend to begin."

Then began a weary quest for lodging. This town was too large to have barns inside the city limits. At every door, it was the same answer—every available square inch of floor space already was taken. The town was full of refugees. One man told us he knew of a barn outside the town which was empty. We tramped there only to find it already filled with soldiers who refused to let us squeeze into any corner.

So we tramped back to the communal administration building where the caretaker let us squat on the floor for the night. It was bitterly cold and the building was unheated. We huddled together, miserable with cold and fatigue.

Join Large Convoy of Refugees.

The morning of Sept. 23 we joined the long convoy of refugees going westward 22 miles to Ratno. Our friend, Eltar, a minor official of the Polish foreign office, discovered a friend who was driving his own farm cart. This man, named Ordna, had a tale to tell. He was a wealthy landowner who had a town house in Pinsk. As soon as he learned about the Russian invasion he put his family in an automobile and tried to make a dash to the Lithuanian border.

Near Slonim, about half way to the border, they were held up by a band of villagers and had to flee for their lives. They lost their car and everything in it. In addition, a woman friend of theirs had been lost and Ordna and his wife now had her child in the cart along with their own little girl. This child's father was with the army, but no one knew if he were dead, wounded or a prisoner.

Flight from Bolsheviks.

Ordna's plan was to get as far away to the west of Pinsk as possible, where no one would know who he was, or rather had been until a few days ago, a rich man. Then they would turn north and try to get thru to Lithuania. If he met the bolsheviks, which he expected, he had good hopes of persuading them to give him a pass, provided there was no one around who knew him and would denounce him.

We three had got into the farm cart along with two boys who were refugees from Silesia and who now were returning there to get away from the bolsheviks.

In this convoy were hundreds of persons who had straggled over miles of road fleeing the Germans and now were going back to the homes they had abandoned in west Poland.

Soldiers Without Shoes.

Bands of soldiers walked beside the carts. Apparently they, too, were going home. Most of them were unarmed. I supposed they had thrown their rifles away. Many were barefooted and their feet raw and bleeding. In the fields exhausted soldiers were sleeping.

At the entrance to each village the carts were grouped together and we would wait until some of the soldiers still with arms caught up with us or a group of national police came along.

This show of solidarity and force protected us. The villagers just stared sullenly. The women of the villages were wearing their Sunday clothes, with bright scarfs around their heads. They were all lined up waiting to greet the bolsheviks. It was nearly sunset when we left the sand tracks and hit the paved highway into Ratno.

Polish Authority Vanishes.

Here we were expecting trouble. That morning officials at Kamien Koszyrski had overheard the chief of the soviet, which had already been formed at Kowel, talking by phone with the chief of the soviet being formed at Ratno. Instructions had been not to molest refugees. At the same time it was not comforting to think that Polish authority had been abolished in Ratno.

These fears vanished when we saw a large detachment of national police resting in Ratno's main street. But the feeling of security did not last long.

Presently most of the police mounted bicycles and rode away to the west. It was now turning dark and the problem of how to spend the night needed to be solved at once.

MAJ. BEALS ORDERED TO PAY $350 A MONTH TEMPORARY ALIMONY

Mrs. Meredith Beals won $350 a month temporary alimony yesterday from Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools. She is suing for separate maintenance, charging that Maj. Beals is not supporting her and that he has moved from their home at 804 Glencoe avenue, Highland Park.

Mrs. Meredith Beals.

Mrs. Beals told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington that her husband has been giving her only $50 a week since their separation. Questioned by her attorney, Norman Becker, she estimated Maj. Beals' income at $18,000 a year. Maj. Beals testified that it is only $13,800 a year. He said $9,000 of this is his school salary and $3,900 is army retirement pay.

VICTIM OF STREET CAR DIES.

Walenty Orzechowski, 74 years old, 1320 Haddon avenue, died yesterday in county hospital of injuries suffered on Oct. 12 when he was struck by a Milwaukee avenue street car in front of 1161 Milwaukee avenue.

ARMS EMBARGO BACKERS LEAD IN A. OF C. POLL

526 Deny Repeal Would Keep Nation Neutral.

Repeal of the present embargo on exportation of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerent nations will not aid the United States in maintaining its neutrality. So declared 526 members of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday in answering the association's neutrality questionnaire.

Of the first 1,088 members to reply, 481 others advised lifting the embargo, while 81 refused to comment. The Association of Commerce distributed 5,200 questionnaires in a poll which is designed to determine the neutrality views of business men in and near Chicago.

Will Send Congress Results.

Results are to be transmitted to the Illinois delegation in congress. Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, also has urged members to communicate directly with their congressmen.

The three other questions in the poll revealed an almost unanimous opinion in favor of peace. One question was: "Should congress and the administration use every means at their command to prevent the United States from becoming involved in the European war?"

The replies were: Yes, 1,071; No, 5.

The business men balloted, 1,042 to 14 in favor of the proposal that business be subordinated to the national objective of keeping out of war. By a vote of 1,053 to 17 they agreed that congress should, without delay, act to place the armed forces of the United States in a position to defend the country from armed aggression.

Fish Predicts Victory.

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], ranking Republican member of the house committee on foreign affairs, predicted yesterday that if public opinion continues to be aroused there will be a majority of at least 25 votes in the house for retaining the arms embargo. Representative Fish was in Chicago preparatory to a speaking tour of downstate cities. He will talk in Kankakee, Bloomington and Springfield.

"The neutrality bill has been debated in the senate for three weeks, and it looks as if it will not be returned to the house for another two weeks," Representative Fish said. "Senators Borah, Johnson, and Clark, have led an uphill fight in the senate, but it will be a different story in the house. Members are hearing from their districts and they are all up for reelection next year. A vote against the embargo is half a vote for foreign entanglements and wars."

NAZIS CLAIM NEW EVIDENCE BRITAIN SENT POLES GAS

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP).—An official announcement tonight said Germany had found "additional substantiation" of German charges that the Poles used poison gas "delivered by England." In each case, it was charged, poison gas in bombs and liquid form came from a munitions dump at Oxhoeft, near Gotenhofen [Gdynia], which was Poland's only port. Several thousand mustard gas bombs, the statement said, were found at Mlawa.

THE ARMY GIVES YOUTHS A BREAK; IT GETS ONE, TOO!

New Recruiting Program Bolsters Its Power.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

"Adams! Jerry Adams! Right thru that door for your examination, lad." . . . "Selfridge field? Sure, fella, that's where you're going. You'll be on your way tonight. Good luck!"

The room is No. 283 in the United States courthouse—the old postoffice building. It's a long, dun colored room. There are wooden chairs lined up along the wall. The usual barricade of wooden fence and swinging gate guards the row of noncommittal doors marked "office."

Drop in any time and you will see there alert, well groomed lads; bronzed youngsters in the khaki of the CCC camps; grimy, gaunt kids, down at the heel and with the marks of the road upon them.

They're Joining the Army.

They have been coming to this recruiting station of the 6th corps area since September, when the war department determined to increase its forces by voluntary enlistments from 166,815 to 210,000 men.

Who are these young men and why are they joining the army?

Take John Dean Alexander, 27 years old, from Springville, Ia. Alexander left last night for Selfridge field in Michigan.

"I have a grand family that reared me with patriotic ideas, and is behind me in this move," he said. "My chief interest is in planes. What the army has to offer in aeronautical training seems to be a fine opportunity. I'm not thinking of making a career of the army; one enlistment is all I have in mind. But in three years I shall have the training and will be ready for service when needed."

His Dreams Come True.

Then there is James E. Denny, 19 years old. Denny had an uncle who was a flyer in the British service during the world war. And down in Roodhouse, Ill., Denny has been dreaming of a military career.

To Denny the army offers an opportunity to prove that he is capable of better things than the jobs he has been able to find around town since he was graduated from high school last year. His brother, Carl, 18 months older than he, enlisted yesterday in the coast guard service.

After four years in the Civilian Conservation corps, Henry Resseguie, 25, from Holland, Mich., decided he'd like to join the army. The commander of his camp was an army officer. "He was a swell person," Resseguie said. "I decided I'd like to pattern my life as nearly like his as I could."

It's a Job to Vernon.

This is the way it was with Vernon Mitchell, 18, colored, of 5547 Prairie avenue. He couldn't get a job. He was on his way to an employment agency when he paused to read an army sign calling for recruits. Mitchell signed in the quartermaster corps, which he trusts will be a "nice experience."

David L. Davis, 1714 North Troy street, said his mother encouraged him in his desire to enlist, believing the training would be to his benefit. Davis is 20 years old. He completed three years of study at Crane Technical High school, and has had three months in a CCC camp. "This is a good chance to complete my education," he said. "The army needs young men. So I give the country a break, and it gives me one."

He Sees Adventure.

Military life promises adventure to Jerry Kruse, 2825 McLean street. He inherited a taste for it from his father, who served in the cavalry. Kruse went to Lane Technical High school for two years and then went to work in a silk mill. He is 21 and has served with the National Guard. His enlistment is with the field artillery, and his destination is Fort Lewis, Wash.

Two years in the R. O. T. C. and six in the National guard convinced Lewis H. Moorhead, 33, of Berwyn, that army life is what he wants. He has been studying aeronautics and hopes to continue at the army's technical school in Hawaii.

Vernon Josslin, 23, Forest Park, had six months in a CCC camp and thinks he will find the army even more to his liking.

ANTIDOTES TO MONOTONY

By CALEB

THE poison of routine is a personality poison for which the U. S. pharmacopoeia has no remedies. The more deadly-dull one's means to a livelihood, the sooner the poison works, and the sadder are its inroads on initiative, imagination, interest, enthusiasm—the qualities within oneself that give color and zest to the world outside.

Against this vitiating virus of "doing the same old things in the same old way," every man must compound his own antidote. And the best ingredient life has given any of us to that end is the use we make of our leisure. Here is a small, gilt-edged margin out of each day—our leftover from meals, tasks and sleep—that is the most priceless time possession in our allotted threescore years and ten. "What," one should ask himself, "am I doing with mine?"

To the number of some seven millions annually, Chicagoans (mostly) are already making remarkably shrewd use of these minimum hours and minutes available as anti-monotony medicine. How? By taking advantage of the educational, industrial, cultural, recreational and historical institutions, facilities and points of interest in which Chicago is literally one of the world's richest cities.

Yet two embarrassing facts indicate that that number could, and should, reach three times its present figure. First fact, according to the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, is the Chicago visitor's greater familiarity with, and patronage of, these local enhancements of leisure than the native resident's. And second, the average citizen's failure to analyze what the city's second-to-none opportunities for diversion, enjoyment and personality development can mean to him—not simply in antidoting monotony, but in richly rewarding him with deeper and wider understanding of his time, his world, and his immediate environment.

These are such possible and such profitable gains to every Chicago adult that the organization of energetic women above referred to has embarked, for the entire ensuing year, on a constructive program of "interpreting Chicago to Chicagoans."

Chicago leads the nation in twenty-six major industries. It has a score of art, science, history, zoology, and education centers; it boasts hundreds of important mercantile and manufacturing establishments where there is always "open house" for the visiting public. In short, unexcelled cultural and recreational facilities, whose attendance possibilities are scarcely scratched! Surely, intelligent heed to this uncapitalized wealth of leisure-uses will prove one of Chicago's greatest assets.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

GERMANS DRIVE BACK FRENCH ON FOUR MILE FRONT

Nazis Take First Strip of Enemy Soil.

their appearance and morale and those of the troops in stronger positions to the rear. They were not happy men and they spoke not as heroes.

They weren't heroes so long as they had nothing to do but wait and complain, but this morning, when German waves of field gray infantry had risen out of the mud and swept down on them and they had done their duty by giving warning—opening fire with their automatic arms and shooting off rockets—they did not throw away their guns and raise their hands.

Mines Punish Attackers.

Instead, long after resistance should have ceased, the rattle of machine gun fire and the popping of hand grenades was heard from the outposts and here and there, at vital points, the German attack mysteriously failed to advance. Artfully laid mines helped the suicide squads to hold up the German tanks and infantry and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

The German attack may be either a big scale local engagement, the spearpoint of an offensive aimed at the Briey iron ore basin across the Moselle and back of the Maginot line, or the first step in a general offensive aimed at driving the French out of their advanced positions on German soil along the whole front from the Rhine to the Moselle. It appears to have been launched from infantry bases near Borg and along the highway paralleling the Luxemburg frontier thru Apach and Perl.

The French general staff's communique this morning said:

"Great activity in the enemy lines between the Moselle and the Saar. Patrols on both sides in the region west of Wissembourg."

Counterattack Gains Ground.

The night communique of the French, issued at 9:05 [2:05 p. m. Chicago time] reported:

"This morning on a front of about four miles the Germans launched an attack supported by artillery fire immediately to the east of the Moselle river.

"They occupied the heights of Schneeberg, on which we had a light line of observation posts supported by land mines. Caught under our fire, the enemy attack came to a halt and even had to withdraw to the north of Apach, in which village they had momentarily penetrated.

"During the second week of October the French navy held up 25,000 tons of goods destined for Germany."

[At 12:05 p. m. yesterday (5:05 a. m. Chicago time) the German high command issued this communique: "In the west, there were only minor skirmishes and artillery fire designed to annoy. On the Rhine, southwest of Rastatt, the French were forced by floods to evacuate one bunker (trench). In the air, there was little activity of our own and enemy planes in the frontier region."]

The Germans' attacks are believed to have been directed from headquarters in the ancient castle of Thorn, on the banks of the Moselle between Remich and Kredzweiler.

Nazis Effect a Surprise.

During the night the Germans brought up heavy artillery, mostly six inch guns able to shoot 11 miles, and set them up near Wincheringen, on the banks of the Moselle, to support the field artillery.

All these preparations were known in advance to the French, but the German command attempted to retain some element of surprise by preparations on an equally large scale from the Haardt forest north of Wissembourg to the Luxemburg border.

French long range artillery was busy all night shelling vital spots where concentrations of German artillery and effectives were suspected to be. Nazi losses, apart from the heavy losses in the attack on Apach, are believed to have been high.

French observers report the Germans have massed 70 to 80 divisions of 12,000 to 15,000 men each on the western front, making an estimated minimum total of 840,000. These troops are said to be concentrated in unusual numbers at four points. First, near Luxemburg, in the Moselle valley; second, in the Haardt mountains, 65 miles south; third, near Karlsruhe, where the Rhine becomes the frontier as it turns into Germany, and fourth, in the German Black Forest, near the Swiss border.

The French are prepared to meet a major offensive, but it is still uncertain whether it has actually started.

Elevators Fail

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Letty Reminga pausing on stairway of the United States courthouse yesterday when elevators failed to function properly.

Elevators in the United States courthouse were not operating yesterday morning but business was conducted as usual—even by the weather bureau staff on the 14th floor. Chief Forecaster C. A. Donnel made the climb in 25 minutes.

Collector of Internal Revenue Carter H. Harrison, 79, and dean of the building, was puffing a little after mounting five stories but said: "It's nothing. I've climbed Mount Whitney, elevation 14,503 feet, three different times. The last time when I was 63."

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, 73, took eight flights in stride, making better time than United States District Attorney William J. Campbell, 30 years younger, who has offices on the same floor.

The main hydraulic valve in the 35 year old elevator system blew out Saturday night. Repairs were being completed late last evening.

PEACE HOPE VOICED WITH PROCLAMATION FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—Proclaiming Nov. 11 as Armistice day, President Roosevelt said today it was appropriate for the American people to reflect upon the hour "when the voices of war were silenced and to look forward even now to a time when a just and enduring peace shall be established among all the peoples of the earth."

The proclamation, issued at a time when Europe again is engaged in conflict, commented on the "tragic situation in which the world finds itself today, with the destructive forces of war once again unleashed."

Mr. Roosevelt acted in accordance with an act of congress, passed in 1926, requesting the President to issue an armistice proclamation. An act in 1938 provided that each Nov. 11 shall be "dedicated to the cause of world peace," and made a legal public holiday.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 16 [Special].—In the air for 370 hours at 8:53 o'clock tonight, Robert A. McDaniels of Muncie and Kelvin Baxter of Richmond reported their plane and themselves in fine condition. The flyers said they planned to stay aloft for at least 500 hours and perhaps until they have broken the heavy plane endurance record of 653 hours and 31 minutes.

The flyers will reach the 500 hour mark if they can stay in the air until 6:53 a. m., Oct. 22, and equal the heavy plane endurance record at 4:27 p. m., Oct. 28. They took off at 10:53 Oct. 1 in their Piper Cub equipped with a 55 horsepower Franklin air-cooled engine.

McDaniels and Baxter last night broke the light plane endurance record made by the Moody brothers in Springfield, Ill., last August. The heavy plane record was made by Fred and Al Key with a Curtis Robin at Meridian, Miss., between June 4 and July 1, 1935. Wes Carroll and Clyde Schleipper, flying a light plane equipped with pontoons, have been in the air at Lancaster, Cal., for 17 days. They claim the light plane record, but because their plane is equipped with pontoons they have been ruled out of the light land plane class.

RITES FOR PENSIONER TOMORROW.

Agree to Substitute of Strictly Cash.

France with their mighty empires should be aided by the United States at this time for two reasons:

"First, by categorically, blandly and with an arbitrary attitude refusing at this point even to negotiate for peace, they have placed themselves in the rôle of aggressors and neither deserves our help.

"Secondly, if Germany is crushed 80,000,000 highly intelligent, technically developed German people will as surely as the sun shines be driven into the arms of Stalin and into the bosom of communism.

Fears Threat of Communism.

"So, even if the repeal of the arms embargo were not a step toward war—and I believe it is—I would oppose it on the ground that it would help Britain and France build an empire or communism by crushing Germany, which then will be a threat to the peace and safety of the entire world."

Senator Clark said he realized that British and French propaganda had made it dangerous for any one to question the motives or altruism of the empires. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, he recalled, was branded a Nazi sympathizer by Senator Pittman because he dared to say he did not believe we should take sides in the war and assist Britain and France.

"But is it not time that some one raised his voice to question the motives of the modern Talleyrands, Richelieus, Machiavellis, and Henry VIII.'s who are playing their bloody game of chess on Europe's chess board?" Senator Clark demanded.

Whether Adolph Hitler's peace proposals were too stringent was beside the point, the senator declared, but they did propose the restoration of Poland, "a true Poland, and not a Poland consisting of 50 per cent Germans, Ukrainians, and Russians."

Hitler's Offer Spurned.

Yet Hitler's peace offer, the senator declared, "met only a categorical 'no,' a holier than thou, supercilious attitude on the part of the Tory financial oligarchy which today controls the destiny of the British and French empires.

"Regardless of what we may think of Hitler, and I do not think much of him, this categorical, blunt refusal places Britain and France today in the rôle of aggressors and not defenders.

"You paint me a picture of the six years of persecution of the Jews and the Catholics and the Protestants in Germany—you paint it as gory and as bloody as you please—and I will paint you 10 times as brutal, 10 times as savage, 10 times as bloody, a picture of 500 years of British destruction, pillage, rape, and bloodshed in Ireland.

Building Empires.

"And then I will take from the pens of the British writers themselves a bitter, grueling, devastating history of persecutions in India. The outstanding example of aggression that the world has ever seen is the British empire. This empire has been built upon conquest, upon aggression, and it is worthy of note that that aggression has usually taken form against helpless and defenseless people."

Senator Clark recalled the description of religious persecutions in Germany by Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.]. Turning to Burke, he continued:

"Let him read what his predecessor and namesake, Edmund Burke, said about the tortures, the devastation and the persecutions in India under British rule."

To the argument that this was ancient history, Clark replied that England and France, by the treaty of Versailles, "added to their already swollen empires one million square miles of new territory by conquest, a territory five times as large as the Poland of which we hear so much, as twenty times as large as Czecho-Slovakia."

Senator Clark declared that Britain and France urged Poland, by promises of assistance, to resist Hitler, and then did nothing to help her. "When history is written, the betrayal of Poland by England and France will go down as the greatest sellout of modern times," he said.

Others Fail to Keep Word.

Britain and France, the senator declared, cannot with clean hands refuse to negotiate with Hitler on the pretext that his word is no good.

"France and England," he added, "had a written treaty with Czecho-Slovakia guaranteeing that little democracy against aggression and promising the world that if she were attacked they would aid her in a military way. And yet, when Chamberlain and Daladier thought at Munich that for their own interests they could bribe Hitler by breaking their own writeen treaty obligations, it was an easy decision for them to make."

Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] assailed the "cash and carry" principle of the administration's program and the motives of its supporters. But he concluded by saying he hoped to be able to support the bill in its final form.

"The candor of some of our colleagues is refreshing," said Senator Gillette. "I have seen a kaleidoscopic fantasmagoria of suggestions as to attitudes toward the present war in Europe.

"If you ask me if I am going to support that bill as an aid to England and France against Hitler I will say I will not. If you ask me if I will vote for it to get us partly into war and to keep us from fighting a future war I say I will not. If you ask will you vote for it to stop Hitlerism I will not.

"But if you ask me, will you support the joint resolution because you believe it will give the United States of America greater security against future involvements than the present law, I will say I will."

NEUTRALITY TALK MISQUOTED, SAYS SENATOR THOMAS

Protests Compounding of Separated Sentences.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah] protested in the senate today what he said were published and publicly spoken misquotations of a radio address which he made Sept. 11 on the subject of neutrality.

The misquotation, he said, was compounded from parts of two widely separated sentences in his address, so that some newspapers and public speakers had attributed to him the statement: "We must give up this dream of impartiality, therefore neutrality. It is better to take sides and fight."

Quotes from His Speech.

Thomas read from a printed copy of his speech excerpts in which he urged neutrality for the United States but contended impartiality "in a practical sense was utterly impossible," because whatever course were followed, one belligerent or another would be benefited.

He quoted his speech as saying at one point, "if neutrality means a crushing of world morality, it is better that we take sides and fight, because fighting for a right is better than passive submission to a wrong."

Names Borah and Clark.

Thomas said Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] had used the "misquotation" in a radio address without attributing it to any one by name, and that subsequently THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE had named Thomas as the man to whom Borah referred.

Still later, he said, Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] was reported in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, as attributing the "misquotation" to Senator Thomas, and at a public meeting in Philadelphia a speaker did the same.

As a result, he said, other newspapers attributed the statement to him and he received many letters "written in bitterness and hate." Neither Borah nor Clark was present when Thomas spoke.

Want DOUBLE ACTION from your Advertising?

Sharpen your pencil . . . and figure this out for yourself—

WE'VE been around this advertising business too long to think we can startle anyone by claiming double action.

All we're going to do is lay out some hard facts—and let you add up the answer yourself.

So first of all write this down:

82% of all the retail sales in the United States are made in 3,165 urban places.

And next make a note of this:

In cities of over 1,500,000—The American Weekly goes to twice as many families as any other magazine.

In cities of 100,000 to 1,500,000—The American Weekly goes to twice as many families as any other magazine.

In cities of 25,000 to 100,000—The American Weekly goes to twice as many families as any other magazine.

In cities of 2,500 to 25,000—The American Weekly goes to more families than any other magazine.

So far, so good, but what kind of families? Make a note of this:

There are 6,050,000 non-relief families throughout the country with incomes of over $2,000. The American Weekly goes to more than half of them—almost twice as many as any other magazine.

There are 19,000,000 non-relief families with incomes of less than $2,000. The American Weekly goes to 3⅓ million of them—more than twice as many as any other magazine.

And in case you want to know whether these under-$2,000 non-relief families are a market, take a quick look at three facts:

1. Almost 9 million automobiles were bought new in 1936-7-8. Compare that with 6 million families getting $2,000 and over.

2. 12 million families own electric refrigerators. Compare that with 6 million families getting $2,000 and over.

3. Urban families with incomes of under $2,000 pay about 4¼ billion dollars a year for food—urban families with over $2,000 incomes pay 3½ billion (Based on U. S. Consumer Purchases Study).

But even that is not the whole story. The American Weekly gives you the commanding size of a color page twice as big as other magazines—at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family.

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo!

Advertising linage in The American Weekly in the month of October is 27% ahead of the same month in 1938 and continues the record of substantial linage gains that have been made during the first nine months' period.

We don't have to claim double action. We'll let the figures—and The American Weekly—speak for themselves.

TYPHOID RIDDEN MANTENO FACES DYSENTERY PERIL

Study New Death at State Hospital Today.

The Manteno State hospital, beset for two months with a typhoid epidemic which has cost half a hundred lives, last night faced the possibility of an outbreak of amebic dysentery.

A post-mortem will be performed today on a Chicago patient who died of amebic dysentery, the first victim of the disease in the hospital's nine year history. Hospital authorities expressed the belief the case was an isolated one and that the patient, Herbert Wise, 59, of 5542 64th place, contracted the disease before his transfer to Manteno in August, 1938.

If, however, the case is found to be of recent origin, immediate steps will be taken to prevent an outbreak. All drinking water at the hospital will be filtered against amebic dysentery and chlorinated against typhoid. All cases of diarrhea are being isolated.

Plan Full Typhoid Quiz.

The death of another typhoid sufferer yesterday, is developed, will be used as the immediate reason for a full investigation of charges that the epidemic resulted from negligence.

Coroner A. E. Kerger and State's Attorney Sam H. Shapiro of Kankakee county have agreed that the inquest Thursday into the death yesterday of Miss Emily Dalton, 58 years old, 1959 Jackson boulevard, will include questioning about state health department warnings that the Manteno hospital water supply is not safe. They also will ask, Kerger said, why precautions recommended by a committee of prominent physicians were not adopted sooner.

State's Attorney Shapiro said that if evidence of criminal negligence were found he would seek indictments against each of the persons involved.

Other Developments.

Other important developments in the Manteno situation yesterday were:

1. Revelation that the sewage disposal plant at the hospital is inadequate for the amount of waste treated and dumped into a branch of Rock creek.

2. A statement by Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, managing officer of the hospital, that water in the institution's four wells is dropping rapidly. This may necessitate piping water from Kankakee, 10 miles away, at a cost of $400,000 plus about $30,000 yearly for the water itself.

3. The disclosure, by competent sources, that A. L. Bowen, head of the state welfare department, has been notified repeatedly by state health authorities that the Manteno water is not fit for human use.

Toll Is Put at 48.

Yesterday's death brought the total at the institution itself to 48, according to Dr. Hinton. He said there had been at least two other deaths outside the hospital of employés. State welfare department authorities previously had placed the toll at 55.

Dr. D. L. Steinberg, assistant managing officer, said the last definite case of typhoid was discovered last Tuesday. All water is being chlorinated, he said, and the temperature of each patient taken daily. Dr. Steinberg declared also that the report of a committee of Chicago physicians urging inoculation against typhoid and smallpox was not received until September. The typhoid was recognized Aug. 19.

Treatment Is Told.

All patients now have received typhoid prophylaxis, Dr. Hinton declared, and will be given treatment against smallpox as soon as the typhoid patients recover.

Dr. Hinton was asked about a statement by Coroner Kerger that the hospital's sewage disposal plant was intended for an institution housing 2,500 and was being used for the present 5,400 patients and 770 employés. He admitted it was inadequate, but said it is now being enlarged.

As a result of the alleged damage to live stock, twelve Manteno farmers whose lambs are watered by Rock Creek, into which the treated sewage flows, have filed a joint suit for $12,100 damages against Bowen and Dr. Hinton. The farmers charge that wastes poured into the stream were so strong the skin and hair of animals was burned and inflamed, that horses' hoofs fell off, and some of the animals died. The case is pending in Circuit court at Kankakee.

Water Supply Not Approved.

It was learned in Springfield yesterday that the water supply at Manteno has never been approved by the state health department even before Gov. Horner's administration.

Dr. Hinton said he had been told the use of the wells would continue if the present geologic survey showed the probability of a continued water supply, but that a filtration plant would be built. If the water is piped in from Kankakee it will be sold to the institution by the Kankakee Water company, which obtains it from the Kankakee river.

FALL INJURIES FATAL.

Injuries incurred when he fell in front of 3935 Madison street last Friday caused the death in the Garfield Park hospital last night of Sam Ginnis, 39 years old, 4144 Roosevelt road.

FREED AT 10 A. M., HE ROBS AGAIN AT 3 P. M.; CAPTURED

Bandit Shoots at Victim; Fleeing Car Curbed.

At 10 a. m. yesterday Samuel Canino, 30 years old, of 3223 South Wells street, walked out of Judge Michael Feinberg's court after obtaining a continuance on a charge of robbery.

Five hours later he was seized in flight from another holdup. He was identified at Brighton Park station by his latest victim, George Farrell, of 544 West 63d street, a railway employé.

Meet Under Viaduct.

Using the same car in which he and three companions were driving Sept. 5 when they were seized for the robbery of a tavern at 4609 Wentworth avenue, Canino and a confederate drove up as Farrell was walking under the Santa Fe railroad viaduct at 32d street and Western avenue.

Canino struck Farrell on the head while the second robber reached into the victim's pocket for an envelope containing $500 which Farrell had recently obtained on an insurance policy. Farrell shouted as the robbers ran to their car. Canino wheeled about and fired one shot at him.

A motorist took up pursuit of the robbers, picking up Traffic Policeman Frank Jesse at his post at Archer avenue and Rockwell street. At 46th and Rockwell streets the robbers were crowded to the curb.

Seized by Policeman.

Canino's companion fled, but Canino was seized by Jesse as he jumped from the car. He threw away the revolver with which he had fired at Farrell. He said he had met his companion at a dance hall Sunday night and did not know his name.

Canino had appeared before Judge Feinberg on charges of robbing two taverns on Sept. 5 with Peter Serritella, 31, of 236 West 24th street; William Squiller, 20, of 3153 South Wells street, and Angelo Rodorigo, 22, of 2935 South Wells street. The case was continued until Oct. 30. Canino has been at liberty on bail.

The gang, named in nine robbery complaints, became known as the cowboy bandits from their habit of firing shots into the ceiling to announce a robbery. In 1932 Canino was sentenced to Joliet prison for robbery, but was granted a new trial and the case was nolle prossed. The following year he served 10 months in the Bridewell for carrying concealed weapons.

Gore, who is 32 years old, is charged with slaying his stepmother here last July 23. Sheriff Ed Powell brought him into Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill's court this morning, and he sat motionless while State's Attorney Rea Jones qualified jurors to return the death penalty.

Forty-three witnesses have been subpenaed by the state, among them Gore's wife, Katherine, who is under indictment in Cape Girardeau, Mo., on a larceny charge.

Gore's attorney, Robert E. Smith, indicated that the first witness for the prosecution will be Dr. George W. Gore Sr., who is in jail facing a first degree murder charge for the killing of Carl Choisser, attorney and newspaper publisher, who was his son's original counsel. The elder Gore quarreled with Choisser, a cousin of young Gore, over the son's trial.

GEORGIA PRISON FUGITIVE FIGHTS TO STAY IN TEXAS

Austin, Tex., Oct. 16 (AP).—Richard Gray Gallogly, 29 years old, a Georgia life-termer described by his attorney as a "fugitive from injustice," began his battle against extradition today before Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

The governor decided to hear full testimony in the case despite a plea of Attorney General Ellis Arnall of Georgia that the only points for legal consideration were whether the wealthy convict was a fugitive and whether extradition papers were in order.

Gallogly's attorneys said testimony would show he was fraudulently induced to plead guilty to a murder he did not commit.

Gallogly and his blonde wife, Vera, fled across four southern states to reach Texas. In Dallas, he surrendered to the sheriff, saying he hoped to obtain the "Texas justice" about which he had heard.

Just 11 years ago an Atlanta drug clerk fell mortally wounded from a bullet fired by George Harsh, fellow student of Gallogly's at Oglethorpe college, during an attempted holdup.

The Georgian testified he sought to dissuade Harsh from entering the store and that all he did was aid Harsh, wounded in an exchange of shots, to get into a car.

TELLS MACHINE'S DOMINATION OVER LOUISIANA COURT

Ex-Grand Juror Charges Thwarting of Inquiry.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Oct. 16.—The story of the methods used by the Louisiana political machine began going into court records today. It is the story of what has been happening in Louisiana since 1928, when the late Huey P. Long came into power as the governor of the state.

Before a three judge Criminal District court an ousted grand juror, Sydney DeArmas, testified that a court and its fact finding bodies were dominated by a machine controled government. The hearing, which will determine whether DeArmas and a fellow grand juror shall be restored to the panel, is expected to involve practically every leader of the Maestri-Leche-Long machine.

Jurors' Arrest Ordered.

DeArmas and Edgar H. Powell were ousted from the jury last Monday and ordered arrested by District Judge George P. Platt when they attempted to denounce District Attorney Charles A. Byrne, charging that he blocked their investigation of wholesale political corruption. DeArmas was the day's first witness.

Under questioning by his attorney, James J. Morrison, the former grand juror charged that Byrne refused to supply the panel with investigators, a stenographer, or any assistance in its inquiry.

Data Withheld, He Charges.

The district attorney, DeArmas declared, refused to give the grand jurors documents, city and state pay rolls, or other data necessary for indictments. The prosecutor declined to help them investigate gambling, remarking jovially that there was a handbook next door to his home, the witness added.

The three judge court was headed by Frank Echezebal, one of the few New Orleans jurists who owe no allegiance to the machine headed by Mayor Robert S. Maestri, former Gov. Richard Leche, and Gov. Earl Long, brother of the late Huey Long. The other two are Judges William J. O'Hara and Judge Platt, who is permitted to sit in the case, tho it involves his own court.

Judge Platt was impassive as he heard himself accused by the witness of joining with the district attorney and the grand jury foreman, R. M. Salvant, in blocking the panel's endeavor.

Requests Refused, He Says.

DeArmas began his testimony by describing the grand jurors' oath as vague and confusing. The court declined a request to supply a copy of it later, DeArmas said.

There was a stir in the courtroom when the former grand juror testified that the panel's request for a stenographer—to which it is entitled under the law—was denied. Foreman Salvant advised against keeping a record of the proceedings "because it might fall into the wrong hands," DeArmas testified.

"Was the grand jury supplied with investigators?" Morrison asked.

"No, none at all," DeArmas replied. "When we wanted to take up the pay rolls, Mr. Byrne and Mr. Salvant said this would be too burdensome. I suggested hiring a certified public accountant, and Mr. Salvant threw up his hands. 'I won't have anything to do with that!' he told us. He then suggested that we pick three of our number to check over the pay rolls as best we could."

Need for Help Stressed.

"Could you function properly without any help of any kind?" Morrison inquired.

"I don't see how we could be expected to work properly without help," said the witness.

Q.—After telling you that he would be your sole legal adviser and source of information, did the district attorney tell you upon whom he relied for information and investigation? A.—Mr. Byrne was asked that question in connection with gambling. He said that that was entirely up to the police.

Q.—Did that answer apply to financial transactions and fraud as well as gambling; did the police give you any help on the charity hospital scandal? A.—I don't think the New Orleans police are qualified to assist any one in matters of that nature.

[The charity hospital scandal was the moving of a five story building 150 feet, then moving it back again at a cost of $534,000 because it was decided that it had been all right where it had been before. The building lost its costly basement somewhere in its travels.]

Pay Roll Question Raised.

Q.—Did the district attorney offer any assistance in investigation of numerous fraudulent transactions? A.—Only to say he was always ready to coöperate.

Q.—What answer did the district attorney give when asked to assist in investigation of dual office holding and pay roll frauds? A.—We asked many times for pay rolls. We wondered what in the devil was the matter when we didn't get them. We put our request into writing and still didn't get them.

DeArmas said that when the jurors pressed Byrne for copies of dual pay rolls printed in the New Orleans Times-Picayune—and uncontradicted—the district attorney told them that one of the accused office holders had slugged George Vandervoort, the newspaper's political editor.

The grand jury, DeArmas testified, was unimpressed by this as a proof that the Times-Picayune's story was false. The jurors therefore went to Judge Platt. The judge told them in his chambers, DeArmas asserted: "The district attorney is your sole legal adviser. That is the law. I don't want you men going by what the lying newspapers say."

TAVERN BANDIT ADMITS KILLING; SEIZE TWO PALS

North avenue police announced last night that they had solved the murder of Peter Petersen, 64 years old, 2650 Cortland street, who was shot during a robbery last Thursday in Joseph Zamiszka's tavern at 1859 North Washtenaw avenue.

Victor Wnukowski.

The actual killer, according to Capt. Harry J. O'Connell, was Victor Wnukowski, 24, of 1833 Milwaukee avenue. He is under arrest. Two other men who allegedly participated in the crime are also in custody. They are Henry Drewek, 22, of 848 North Winchester avenue, and Frank Michalowski, 25, of 1234 Bosworth avenue. Police said they named Wnukowski as the man who fired the fatal shots.

A squad went to Wnukowski's home last night. They found him cowering under a bed. He was weak from a beating inflicted on him Sunday night by an unknown mob. The gang kidnaped him from a north side tavern for some reason apart from the shooting, and pummeled him. Wnukowski confessed the shooting, police said, after brief questioning. The gun used in the slaying has been recovered.

PAY ROLL PADDING BRINGS EARLE AID ONE YEAR IN JAIL

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 16 (AP).—A one year jail sentence was imposed today on Roy E. Brownmiller, former secretary of highways, convicted of permitting pay roll padding for political purposes before Pennsylvania's 1938 fall election. He also was fined $3,000.

The former cabinet officer under the Democratic administration of former Gov. George H. Earle made no comment. He was the first of a dozen high Democrats to be tried on indictments that grew out of charges voiced during the 1938 campaign. Judge Howard W. Hughes said the sentence was a penalty upon violation of trust and intended to act as a deterrent to misconduct by public officials.

Brownmiller also is awaiting action of the Luzerne county grand jury on another set of charges of misuse of highway funds. His arrest has been ordered as a result of a new prosecution move following dismissal of earlier indictments which the Luzerne county court ruled faulty.

ELECTION BOARD TURNS ON REDS IN LABOR PARTY ROW

'Conservative' Slate Wins Recognition in N. Y.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York City, Oct. 16.—In a choice between Reds and near-Reds in the New York county committee of the American Labor party, the city's board of elections today voted, 3 to 1, to recognize the so-called "conservative" wing of the organization.

Vito Marcantonio.

Once known as a predominantly communist political organization, the Labor party—which cast more than 500,000 votes in the last state election—has split wide open over the nonaggression pact signed between Russia and Germany. Communists at the board of elections meeting today howled protests at the "undemocratic" decision and threatened dire consequences in the courts.

Quarrel Over Nazi-Red Pact.

Strife within the party broke out at the annual convention of the county committee on the night of Oct. 6. Hostilities flared over the question of indorsing the resolution of the state organization which denounced the soviet-Nazi rapprochement.

Communist committeemen outnumbered the "conservative" element in a ratio of about 60 to 40. Harry Greenberg, county chairman during the last year, abruptly declared the meeting adjourned on a voice vote shortly before midnight. It was Greenberg and his fellow officers whom the election board today recognized as official.

At the county committee meeting the communists held a rump session in the dark after Greenberg announced adjournment. They selected Vito Marcantonio, radical New York City congressman, as their chairman.

Slate Previously Picked.

The election board's ruling today was based on the fact that Greenberg had forwarded the certificates of the Labor party's candidates for the city council—who were selected at the Oct. 6 meeting—before the fight started. Elections Commissioner David B. Cotuma said the board would recognize the Greenberg faction until a court should decree otherwise.

"We can not pick a leader for you, and if an attempt is made to have the issue settled by this board, we might be forced to recognize that there is no labor party in the county," Costuma told the objectors.

At the same time the board refused to restore to the ballot the names of four communist candidates for the city council. The board had decided last Friday that the nominating papers did not follow the requirements of recent amendments to the state election laws.

Roosevelt Foe Fights Reds.

Former Congressman John J. O'Connor, victim of the Roosevelt purge, started the legal action to oust the quartet. The communist candidates were Israel Amter, Peter V. Cacchione, Isidore Begun, and Paul Crosbie.

The Labor party committee of Bronx county, acting on the recommendation of the state executive committee, turned down Michael J. Quill, reputed communist, as a party candidate for reëlection to the city council. Quill is head of the Transport Workers' union in New York City and one of the most powerful allies of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations on the eastern seaboard.

Thumbs were turned down on Quill when he declined to endorse the state committee's action against the new found friendship between Hitler and Stalin.

St. Charles Parolee Sent Back for Stealing Pistol

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—Vernie Lansford, 14 years old, of Clinton, a parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys, has been returned to that institution for the theft of a revolver, it was announced today. He was sentenced to St. Charles in March, 1937, and paroled a year later.

GIRL TELLS JURY HOW FATHER WAS SLAIN IN TAVERN

Michalene Wujs, 23 years old, yesterday told a jury before Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court how she rushed into her father's tavern at 4148 Division street the night of Aug. 1 and saw Policeman Walter J. Ford, now suspended, standing with a gun in hand over her father's body. Ford is on trial for manslaughter for the slaying of Frank Wujs. The jury of eight men and four women was completed late yesterday.

Walter J. Ford.

In opening statements to the jury, Irwin Clorfene, assistant state's attorney, said he would prove Ford was intoxicated and that the gun could not have been fired accidentally, as the defense claims. Ford, the prosecutor said, was in such a state of drunkenness that for hours after the slaying he was not able to talk coherently.

Attorney George Crane for the defense termed the killing one of misadventure. Ford, he said, has for years suffered from diabetes and was in a diabetic coma at the time of the shooting. Crane said Ford, while quarreling with another customer, slammed his gun on the bar and that it was fired accidentally.

Finds a Purse; Turns It In Without Peeking; $197 in It

John Gajda, 19 years old, of 1632 Virginia street, Gary, a senior at Emerson High school, is as incurious as he is honest. While walking on 5th avenue yesterday he found a woman's handbag. He took it to the Gary police station without opening it. Sergt. James Phelps peered in and discovered $197. The bag was reclaimed by Mrs. Winfred Pocock, 705 Buchanan street.

RED WITNESSES' EVASIONS ROUSE DIES COMMITTEE

Two Organizations Linked to Communist Party.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—In a stormy session the Dies committee investigating un-American activities today examined two high ranking communists as to their party's connections with the International Labor Defense and the International Workers' Order.

Both Anna Damon, executive secretary of the I. L. D., and Max Bedacht, general secretary of the I. W. O., aroused the anger of the committeemen with accusations of unfairness and impelled Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman, to gavel them down repeatedly as they attempted to volunteer statements.

As for actual testimony that would link the two organizations to the communist party, the committee obtained information that officials of the groups were party members, but made little headway when it tried to get the witnesses to acknowledge various articles in the Daily Worker, communist party newspaper, which indicated the alliance.

Refuses Direct Answers.

The committee sought to establish that the I. L. D. had been affiliated with the International Red Aid of Moscow, that it had defended political prisoners in Germany and Italy but never in Russia, and that it had taken a stand against Fascism and Naziism but not against communism. However, to all questioning along this line Miss Damon firmly refused to give flat answers.

J. B. Matthews, committee investigator, read an article from the Daily Worker of Oct. 29, 1932, entitled "The Call of the International Red Aid," which opened with the words: "The following call of the International Red Aid, of which the International Labor Defense is the American section." He asked Miss Damon whether she had any knowledge of it. She protested it was "before my time."

Reads from Another Article.

Pressed for an answer as to whether she had seen anything in the I. L. D.'s literature or files to indicate such an affiliation, she finally acknowledged that she "might have." The Daily Worker article said the I. L. D.'s "work was an inseparable part of the struggle."

Matthews also read from an article by William L. Patterson, former member of the communist central committee and now vice chairman of the I. L. D., which said in part that "the task of the I. L. D. is to destroy the illusion of democracy" and "to stimulate class consciousness and prepare the bridgework to the party of the working class."

The Dies committee, asserting the international situation had provided it with "hundreds of important leads," announced today it would ask authority for another year of hearings. The committee's power to hold investigations expires Jan. 3, 1940. The house will be asked at the present special session of congress to extend the authority to Jan. 3, 1941.

Suspect Seized on Charges of Defrauding 20 Priests

John Verdon, 22 years old, was arrested by Grand Crossing police last night for investigation into charges that he had fraudulently obtained sums of from $3 to $8 from more than 20 Chicago priests. Police said he obtained the money by telling the priests he needed money to get home to San Francisco, Cal., where, he said, his father was a prominent Catholic layman. Police said Verdon's home is actually in Kansas City, Kas. Verdon was seized in the rectory of St. Francis de Paula church, 7822 Dobson avenue, on complaint of the Rev. Albert Buckley.

ATHLETIC CLUB BURGLARIZED.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—Burglars last night broke into the Fairmall Athletic club by sawing through steel bars on two doors. They knocked the combination off the safe and stole $474 in cash and $67 worth of liquor and cigarets.

LIFER BILLINGS ORDERED FREED BY GOV. OLSON

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 16 (AP).—Gov. Culbert L. Olson today commuted the sentence of Warren K. Billings to time served, and ordered him freed, following receipt of word from Chief Justice William H. Waste that a majority of the California Supreme court approved the action.

Billings was convicted Sept. 21, 1916, of first degree murder in connection with the Preparedness day parade bombing, in which 10 persons were killed and 40 injured. He will leave Folsom prison tomorrow.

Gov. Olson granted a full pardon to Tom Mooney, also serving a life sentence for the crime. He said he also had full confidence in Billings' innocence but could not pardon him at once because of a law requiring state Supreme court approval.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:
"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

WHEN DOES CHICAGO GET ITS SHARE?

New York has opened its new municipal airport at North Beach, 20 minutes' ride from the city's business center. Mayor La Guardia, in his dedicatory speech, called it the greatest airport in the world. He is probably right. It ought to be. It cost $53,000,000.

The major portion of that sum was a present to the city of New York from the federal government. Much of the money was wasted through WPA strikes and kindred racketeering.

Chicago, center of the nation's airline trafic, has proposed an airport similar in many respects to New York's. It also would be made by filling land within a few minutes' ride of the city's center. While the federal coffers were opened to New York they were closed, largely through burocratic jealousy, to Chicago.

Chicago's island airport, it has been estimated, could be built for about one-sixth the sum spent at New York. It would be even more useful to the nation's aviation industry, because it would serve more planes. The city can guarantee that it would be built without the waste that characterized the New York airport.

All the arguments that federal authorities used in refusing Chicago funds for the island airport have been answered. They were answered by the federal people themselves in making their grants to the similar project in New York. Mayor Kelly and the Association of Commerce should reopen Chicago's case and get the Chicago airport started.

NOTES ON A GAME OF FOOTBALL.

Two members of this department sat on opposite sides of Stagg field Saturday afternoon while the institutions of higher learning to which they owe what may be called their education, if they have it, were playing football. One has not returned to the office and best information available is that he will not be here for a month. One explanation is that he planned a vacation anyway. The department will not notify the police.

The south stands at Stagg field, as its familiars know, are survivals of old pure collegiate football days. They are small, made of lumber, and frequently hold the cheering section of the visiting team. The Harvard spectators gathered there of this fine autumn afternoon and became more of an object of interest than the game itself.

There probably never was a game in which a team made nine touchdowns in the perfect silence of its partisans in the stands. A fair guess would be that the average age of the old grads was between 50 and 70. Another guess would be that at least half of them, probably more, had not seen a Harvard football team since Theodore Roosevelt was a freshman or since Bert Waters played against Heffelfinger. Their game was the old one of three downs for five yards. The general appearance was that of a directors' meeting back in the Coolidge era. The stand was one large October golf complexion of postmeridian years.

Before the game the very good Chicago band did the honors with great courtesy. It was massed in front of the Harvard stand, played the Harvard airs, and at "Fair Harvard" the old grads arose with their hats off and made their only demonstration of the day. They tried to sing, few of them remembering anything beyond the line, "Thy sons to thy pilgrimage come." The song may have accounted for what happened during the rest of the afternoon. It may have led these old boys back through the years to the time when they were of the age and expectations of the young fellows sitting down on the players' bench and with that stab in their emotions they may have sat through the performance as sad and weary pilgrims. Or they had decided to devote the afternoon to thinking about the New Deal.

A young man from Cambridge thought they might have some submerged animal spirits which could be brought to the surface. He endeavored to lead them in the Harvard cheer, which has all the snap and verve of a 50 car coal train making a heavy grade with one engine. He got something out of his assemblage but it didn't encourage him to try again and he didn't have the assistance of the squad which, with the exception of the players on the field, maintained the complete Harvard indifference.

The fellows on the field performed like an outfit of Notre Damers and occasionally when a player returned to the bench there was a little round of light handclapping which would have spelt the doom of any play if it had greeted the end of the second act. Once Harvard's Coach Harlow allowed a small smile to pass across his features, but, as if fearful that Coach Shaughnessy, across the way, might have the glasses on it, he turned his back and erased the grin from his face. The old grads did have some curiosity to see Torbert MacDonald, the Harvard star and captain, perform, but although he was seen on the field during the warmup he couldn't be identified on the bench. His number, 55, was missing. He may have gone to the movies or for a ride in the park.

The Chicago band was game and after each Harvard touchdown struck up a brave air of jubilation, and at the finish, which ran overtime to permit a few more Chicago passing tries for a touchdown, marched off with a quick step such as follows the hanging of Danny Deever. The old Harvard grads solemnly made their way out of the field and you imagined they were saying, "I thought the bride looked lovely." The old grads had enjoyed themselves, it may be supposed. They had made a return journey to something that is very far distant. They had contributed their presence to a game in which nine touchdowns got nary a cheer. The only enthusiasm came from the opposite stands when Chicago made a first down. Mebbe that isn't just Harvard. It may have been too many years.

THE WAR BREEDERS.

Hitler and his Nazi party have few friends in this country. It would be a strange American who could stomach their creed and their practices. He would have to renounce everything born in him, betray his training, and denounce all his principles. The only Nazi sympathies here are exhibited by professional agitators and nuisances.

The disapproval, dislike, and detestation of Der Fuehrer and his national socialists runs a wide range in varying intensity. Not all people have to shout their feelings but every one is aware of the general sentiment of the country. It was what might be expected.

Just now the reiterated abuse of the man no true American can tolerate has a purpose. It is to work Americans into a war fever in which their better judgment of their own welfare may be clouded by their emotions against a system of government. The war breeders use animosity against Hitler as their best propaganda to get the United States into a war which is not its war.

FATHER COUGHLIN CENSORED.

The ruling of the broadcasting industry against future sales of radio time for controversial discussions illustrates perfectly the legal proverb that hard cases make bad law. There is little doubt that the case that did more than any other to evoke the ruling was that of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

THE TRIBUNE has been among those subjected to false and malicious attacks by Father Coughlin. His outbursts of racial hatred are beneath contempt. His support of the arms embargo serves only to discredit a good cause. But while we think Father Coughlin is disgusting, we know that censorship is intolerable.

Three years ago we disputed the wisdom of the Chicago park board in denying Father Coughlin the use of Soldiers' field, although we agreed with the Illinois Supreme court that the board was within its legal rights in doing so. Today we hold that the step the radio industry has taken to silence him is also a most dangerous step toward stifling any free discussion on the air.

In fairness to the National Association of Broadcasters, which promulgated the industry's new rule, one fact must be recognized. That is that if the association had not acted, the burocrats who hold license renewal privileges as a club over the industry would have taken Father Coughlin and like speakers as an excuse to impose an even more reprehensible censorship on radio.

There is no escaping the conclusion that the association's new rules amount to censorship of a most objectionable sort. The former practice of selling time for controversial discussions, while it opened the air waves to such as Father Coughlin, enabled the broadcasting stations to deny responsibility for what was said.

Now they have accepted that responsibility, in two ways. They are to determine what public interest there is in a controversial subject as a measure of the free time to be allotted to its discussion. They also require that the script of all such discussions shall be submitted for inspection before delivery.

If the radio stations were free agents these practices still would be objectionable. But they are not free agents. They stand constantly under the burocratic club. If they displease the administration they can be put out of business. This hazard cannot fail to warp their judgment. Governments have always been the greatest enemies of free speech. So long as the present arbitrary control of broadcasting licenses by government persists there can be no free speech on the radio. The new code may not be vicious in itself, but it becomes vicious by the fact of government control of those who administer it.

SENATOR LOGAN'S BEST WORK.
[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The late Senator Logan of Kentucky was not a conspicuous member of congress, except as an eccentricity of dress and a penchant for oratory in the florid measures of his southland distinguished him. But during the last session he fathered a bill which called for considerable courage, remembering that in the main he was a stanch New Dealer. He introduced a measure which was a lethal thrust at the numerous New Deal bureaus and commissions which have set themselves up as arbiters outside the law, which may make decrees and enforce them without regard for statutes, and from whose decisions there is no judicial appeal. Senator Logan regarded their operation as contrary to the constitutional privilege every American has to his day in court and his bill was designed to bring such New Deal agencies within the proper judicial authority and thus safeguard every citizen against an invasion of his rights by providing that he shall have a hearing and the right of appeal to a higher court.

Senator Logan, introducing the measure, said that the sole issue presented to congress was whether "we shall have a government by men or a government by law." The New Deal prefers the former, but in an unguarded moment the Logan bill was passed. The ensuing furor caused it to be called up for reconsideration, but it was lost in the jam at the end of the session and was not voted on. It was Senator Logan's intention to call it up again next year.

The house has a companion bill, sponsored by Representative Walter of Pennsylvania. He has indicated that he will press it next session. Congress could pay no more fitting tribute to Senator Logan, who died last week, than to pass this wise and much needed measure.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

A MERRY WEEK-END.

The football game on Stagg field last Saturday proved that Harvard is tired of Chicago's claim to intellectual parity.

* * *

The large young men from Cambridge, Mass., demonstrated that Midway scholarship is no higher than that of Bates college, Lewiston, Me., a favorite chopping block for members of the Ivy league.

* * *

Well, anyway, there was a good floor show between the halves by the Chicago Twirling club, which teaches the art of drum majoring. The effect was distinctly Chez Paree. Bare thighs of girls upon the sacred greensward of Amos Alonzo Stagg!

* * *

In the silence that descended upon the rout the Chicago alumni, who grew grayer and more haggard at every Harvard touchdown, heard the Voice of the Past speaking. It came from a Maroon lineman who, after every scrimmage, strove to rally his routed comrades. He was "talking it up" in the good old sandlot way, and neither profanity nor blasphemy were omitted from his appeals to the "gang." He roved up and down the scrimmage line, slapping fortitude into the others via the seats of their pants, and his oaths were music to our ears.

We were not surprised to discover that he was a transfer student from Notre Dame.

* * *

THE UNHAPPY ENDING.

And sometime call on you?
And kind regards?
No! I will tend no rue,
Cherish no shards,

Breathe on no withered token.
We both have cast
Sure, bitter barbs, and spoken
Chapter the last.

And each tonight can find Another . . . only
You were so good, so kind.
I am so lonely.

The Duke Educates His Child.

After tea recently, the Dutchess [twiddling her lorgnette] says in her very elegant, gracious manner, "I gotta stummick ake, you do the dishes cause I'm gonna hit the hay." With the help of Major, proud dog these days [½ English bull and ½ French poodle], we did them in 2 minutes flat. Being well worn out by this arduous task, I grab a liddle snooze. My Mary, that's the pesty one in the brood, she'll be 8 in February if her teacher dont kill her in January, interrupts my siesta with the damdest fool questions. She's what I call a problem child, 6x2 is 14, and 2x6 is 8. The best arithmetic she ever did was going to the store for a 10c loaf of bread an bringing it home an the dime too. Ennyway, here's some of her nut ramblings—"What does awake mean? Make me a sentence with the word belong in it. What does alone mean?"

Lass night I get home an the Dutchess is fit to be tied. Seems Mary's teacher sends for the Mrs. and I'm asked point blank if I ever did Mary's homework for her and I tells her I didn' even know Mary has homework, and then she flashes a paper at me reading like this:

Mary Bakrak, Room 10

WHAT IS MEANT BY AWAKE?—Gettin tight before the funeral.

SENTENCE WITH WORD BELONG?—If mama gets many more tummy aches it wont be-long now.

WHAT DOES ALONE MEAN?—We got one on the furniture.

WHAT IS A FAIR PRICE FOR CORN?—'Bout 2 bucks a gallon.

HOW DO YOU SPELL DALADIER?—Sneeze twice an hiccup once.

An there's several more questions and answers, and then I remember the night that Mary was pesterin me but I swear I didnt know she was gonna commercialize my very broad knowledge of world events, history, science, etc.

I wonder if any of you guys were ever presented with a beautiful heavy metal ash stand?

History Lesson in a Garden.

I strolled in a spacious garden.

American and Chinese elms, English hawthorns and Italian Lombardys I found in cordial comradeship; Austrian and Scotch pines, Swedish, Greek, and Irish junipers snugly clustered with Norway spruce and Japanese yews; congenial groups of Russian olives, Spanish tamarix, Persian, Hungarian, and French lilacs neatly bordered with German iris—and all living happily together in perfect accord!

I marveled at such harmony and friendliness. No sign of hatred or envy was apparent. F. V. H.

NAIL BITING AND ITS CAUSE.

NAIL biting is far more common than most of us realize. It is one of those habits or occupations that children indulge in when nervous or apprehensive. Some look upon it as a solace—a comforter when time hangs heavy; while others believe that it helps them to think. If begun in early childhood the tendency may remain for years, passing only with the loss of the biting teeth.

When questioned as to why they yield to the impulse, most victims will reply that they perform unconsciously, while some will admit that they succumb only when nervous or excited. All seem to agree that the practice serves as a pacifier—as a means of compensating for embarrassment or excitement, or as an aid to concentration. When queried as to the time of day and environment, most answers included while at the movies, during study periods at school, or in intervals between play. We have all seen youngsters place the fingers within the mouth and gnaw at the ends while reading or listening to the radio.

One reason why the procedure deserves some attention is that infection is so easily conveyed to the mouth and many cases of impetigo, canker sores, even tonsillitis, may arise in consequence. The sound rule of hygiene—keep the hands away from the lips—is utterly disregarded. In addition, it leads to difficulties in the development of the permanent teeth. Considerable pressure is required to cut a finger nail and the incisors may suffer occlusion defects which will prove bothersome later in life. Occasionally the tooth structure is injured because of the force employed.

Breaking the habit may prove difficult. Punishments are useless, as is persistent nagging. While rewards may be helpful, the most satisfactory plan appears to lie in keeping the nails trimmed as short as safety permits. This demands daily attention. Now and then excellent results have followed the application of some bitter tasting substance—a solution of quinine, for example.

With those who are younger, gloves may be necessary. The toddler will usually find these coverings so annoying that he will promise anything in order to get rid of them. Two or three weeks of this heroic treatment may bring enough forgetfulness to banish the desire. Substitution also has its advantages and the use of chewing gum instead is frequently curative.

There is not a particle of use in assuming that these little ones are below par mentally—far from it—and they must not be handled other than as reasoning, thinking beings. Education is the best answer—retraining. An addict can be told frankly that the trick is not only unsightly, possibly disgusting to some, but that it may convey enough germs to the oral cavity to cause trouble.

Commendation is far more effective than threats. Personal pride is the greatest will strengthener we know of. Care must be taken, however, to see that the inclination is held in check not only in public but when alone. Parents must not set a bad example. We can scarcely expect our offspring to rise above the standard of behavior set by the nail-biting father or mother.

Recently I learned of a mother who had won a victory with her 6 year old daughter. For a year or two the custom had been growing until it had become almost an obsession. In the process bits of skin were clipped away until the tips of the digits were not only misshapen but sore. All relief methods apparently had failed. The mother then inaugurated a systematic régime of manicures, impressing upon the lass the desirability of good looking hands. She gave the girl her own set of tools and twice a day a half hour was spent in the process. Of course, she "must not do anything to spoil the polish." Filing, burnishing, and gentle massage of overgrown cuticle worked like a charm. Within a few weeks the child was performing the maneuvers herself—proud of the result.

ULCER OPERATIONS.

REPLY.

Operation is advised only when thorough and persistent medical management fails to improve or heal, or when complications arise—such as excessive bleeding. Since too much acid is usually present, surgery may include excision of both the ulcer area and that portion of the stomach which secretes much of the acid. A large segment may be resected [removed].

20 POUNDS OR LESS.

Mrs. W. S. writes: What is the usual gain in weight during pregnancy?

REPLY.

When the gain is more than 20 pounds the physician usually insists on a more rigid diet. If the excess is due to retention of fluids [swelling, etc.], cutting down on the intake of salt may be of value. The output of the kidneys must be watched constantly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for "The Diet of the Prospective Mother."

IT'S A MATTER OF PRIDE.

A. B. C. writes: Does sleeping without a pillow help to control round shoulders? Does it help the physique in any way?

REPLY.

Round shouldered individuals must attempt their straightening out process during the day. Good posture comes as a result of pride, muscle tone, and constant alertness. An erect carriage is just as easy to acquire as a slouch.

THE DANGER OF PULLING FOR ONE NATION AGAINST ANOTHER

FEARS A NATION OF BEGGARS.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—There is so much agitation urging legislation for the increase of money for relief that one wonders if abject poverty for the masses is to remain permanent in these once prosperous United States.

Can the imagination conceive of anything worse than a nation of beggars, wards of relief organizations, and adults as well as children virtually paroled to the custody of case workers? Poverty is one of the greatest curses visited upon the human race, but it cannot be abolished by continuous charity.

A leader who could successfully stampede for legislation urging the repeal of taxes which stifle business and prevent millions of people from obtaining private employment would hold the admiration of the legions of underfed, poorly clad, and ill housed individuals who have come to regard a budget as a nightmare.

Return these unfortunates to their jobs, so they can eat what and when they please, wear what they choose, and if they do not care to balance their budgets it should be nobody's business.

HONOR IDA B. WELLS' NAME.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Chicago says again "I Will"; another housing project is being undertaken after years of postponement. The site is 37th street and Cottage Grove avenue. It is named after Ida B. Wells.

Mrs. Ida B. Wells-Barnett was a widely known Chicago Negro leader of the 1900s. A writer, an editor, a social agitator, she constantly strove to bring equality between the white and Negro races. She was specially interested in the lynching problem.

Born in Holly Springs, Miss., and educated at Rusk university, she married Ferdinand L. Barnett, assistant state's attorney in Cook county in 1895. She went directly into social work; was affiliated with a number of newspapers and was the editor of Free Speech in Memphis.

She organized, in 1908, the Negro Fellowship league and became its president, and she was also a member of the Chicago Association for the Advancement of Colored People. In 1913 she was appointed probation officer for the City of Chicago, and in 1915 she was elected vice president of the Chicago Equal Rights league.

So Chicago recognizes another social leader; one who has fought for equality both in this country and in England; and in so doing, Chicago graces its own name with honor.

IS CITY A LAW BREAKER?

Cicero, Ill., Oct. 13.—Why do we have a city ordinance compelling all trucking companies to have air inflated tires on their trucks, while the city of Chicago has garbage trucks with hard rubber tires which shake off most of the residue in the trucks in front of business and residential sections? In addition they make so much noise that it is impossible to hear over the telephone when one is going past.

Is it possible that the city of Chicago is permitted to violate its own ordinances? J. L. SENNOTT.

NATION'S FLAG AT HALF MAST.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—To the citizens of Chicago: Did you read anything in the Chicago papers about our United States flag flying at half mast on the United States postoffice last week? This is the first time I can remember that our flag was at half mast for a citizen, but the President of the United States ordered it done for his friend, the cardinal. I am not the only one who thinks he was out of order to give such orders. Let us hope that no more of his friends die.

Thousands of soldiers that fought for that flag did not get that honor. If the President wanted to do something to honor his friend he could let Capt. Callaghan, who represented the chief executive, place a silk flag on the casket. But let MY flag fly from the top of the staff.

I say my flag because my people were living in Philadelphia at the time Betsy Ross made the first American flag. My people fought for it and died. My father was in the civil war, 1861-'65, and my husband a world war soldier in 1917.

I, personally, went into Logan Square postoffice and talked to officials. It was 12:30, and the flag was still at half mast, on the day of the funeral, but I was told that they had orders not to fly it over the top of the staff until 1 o'clock. I love my flag more than life itself.

Today I stand ready to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect my flag and to defend it against all enemies.

I want the world to know that I did not approve of your orders, Mr. President. A LOYAL AMERICAN.

CANDID, AT ANY RATE.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Being cursed with a so-called mind that sees both sides of most questions, of course repeal will endanger our chances of staying neutral, but as long as we favor the allied side we might as well lift ourselves from the present depression by the bootstraps of the present so-called war. Man has always fought for plunder one way or another. L. A. H.

THE TUBERCULAR WARD.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The tubercular ward at Cook County hospital is just what it was written up to be several years ago. "Misery Harbor." Why can't something be done? Why can't the patients have call bells? Why must they pound for help on the table when they have a hemorrhage until they're exhausted, and if they pound too often their tables are pulled away and they are told if they keep on pounding their arm will be strapped. It's inhuman. The public should know what goes on behind those walls. Think how much it would mean to you if it was your loved one there. The food is terrible. How can any one who is ill and living in such surroundings get well? It's beyond me.

MRS. HENRY O'ROURKE.

QUOTING THE BIBLE.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Mr. W. L. Bullard's criticism of Justice Frankfurter in today's Voice of the People is subject to a slight criticism itself.

1. There is no record in the Bible showing that Jesus uttered the words attributed to Him.

2. Mr. B. quotes the Bible as saying, "As a man thinketh, so is he," whereas the passage reads, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." See Proverbs 23:7.

Better examine your ammunition a little more closely, Mr. B., before you again fire your gun. T. P. DUDLEY.

ADVERTISING VIA RADIO.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Most advertising on the air is very boring; in fact it is becoming unbearable. The way the present day radio programs are cluttered up with advertising is beyond description. Announcing is an art, but radio doesn't seem to recognize it. They seem to judge their announcers solely by voice volume. Abraham Lincoln sold the world a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" without shouting like Hitler. HARRY N. STROUSS.

LEGAL HEIR.

Chicago, Oct. 13 [Legal Friend of the People].—My sister died in 1929 and her husband, a world war veteran, died in April, 1938, leaving a 16 year old son.

1. There was a $200 insurance policy and four uncashed bonus bonds. There are no other heirs, no creditors, and no unpaid bills. An aunt was appointed guardian of the minor child and he is staying at my home. I am under $1,000 bond, signed by private bondsmen. The boy needs new clothes and I have been trying to cash the four bonus bonds, but without success. I have mailed copies of the guardianship papers and statement from Probate court that no administrator was needed.

2. I don't understand half of the procedure and cannot afford a lawyer to help me. M. G.

1. You do not state who owned these assets, but regardless of such facts, they presumably go to the child after the death of both parents. We assume there is no will to the contrary.

2. We see no reason why you should not employ a lawyer in connection with the guardianship proceedings and have his fees allowed out of the estate. He should be able to obtain court order authorizing expenditures for the proper expense of the minor. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SUBSTITUTE FOR WILL.

Chicago, Oct. 13 [Legal Friend of the People].—My mother died three years ago [1] after signing a quitclaim deed leaving to her four children her share of property which she owned jointly with her second husband. The property consists of a corner two story building, occupied by this man and his family, who run a grocery store downstairs. We have had this in the hands of two different attorneys.

2. Both claim nothing can be done; why, we cannot find out. No rent or taxes are being paid by the stepfather. The funeral and doctor bills have not been paid.

3. Can we do anything to obtain our share? A. P.

1. The use of an unrecorded deed as a substitute for a will invites litigation on the question whether the deed was validly delivered during the grantor's lifetime. Such an attempted arrangement was defeated in the recent case of Stanford vs. Stanford, 371 Ill. 211. We strongly advise against such a plan.

2. You do not make clear whether they mean that the deed is invalid and the property goes to the surviving joint tenant, or whether they mean something else.

3. The attorneys with whom you have discussed the matter are in a better position to advise you than we are. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Oct. 17, 1914.

LONDON—The German advance continued southward from Ostend in northwestern Belgium, and down the Belgian coast of the North sea to Nieuport, where they met the combined forces of British, French, and Belgians, who gave battle.

LONDON—Thrilling stories were told by the survivors of the British cruiser Hawke, sunk Oct. 16 in the North sea by a German submarine.

DUBLIN—Opponents of volunteer recruiting in Ireland held a meeting. It was called by the Sinn Fein party, and guarded by a sentinel with a rifle and fixed bayonet. But a large crowd gathered outside the building and broke up the meeting with stones and raw potatoes which smashed window panes and injured a few persons slightly.

NEW YORK—A movement started with a view to persuading the warring nations to agree to have an armistice on Christmas day.

CITY MAPS PLEA FOR AID ON WPA RELIEF PROGRAM

Seeks State Funds to Ease Its Load in Crisis.

Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of relief for Chicago and executive director of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that he is drawing up a recommendation that state relief funds be allocated to the city for use by the city in sponsoring WPA projects.

Lyons declined to disclose how many men or how much money would be included in his recommendation, which will be presented to Gov. Horner. The governor must pass upon it under the law before any money can be granted the city by the IERC.

Based on Hewitt's Proposal.

Lyons' announcement followed a conference with George Field, regional WPA director, and Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. Hewitt reported last week to the IERC that the city was unable to supply funds of its own to take people off the Chicago Relief administration rolls, but said he could place 25,000 persons on WPA projects if he were given slightly more than $13 per man per month, to be used as the city's contribution toward these projects.

Yesterday Hewitt issued the following detailed report of the projects, the additional men to be employed on each, and the money he hopes to get from state relief funds to make this additional employment possible:

	Additional men.	Money needed from IERC.
Brick relay and cement bound macadam	8,203	$ 67,674.75
Unimproved streets	8,157	124,231.11
Curb rounding	337	2,749.92
Sewers	4,724	83,756.52
Water plant rehabilitation	1,650	37,933.50
Tree removal	2,772	21,649.32
	25,843	$337,995.12

Mayor Kelly and Hewitt both said this estimate of men who could be given WPA jobs could be increased if the IERC will put up the necessary additional $13 per man month in each case.

The state law provides, however, that relief funds can be used for WPA projects only when such expenditures will aid the relief rolls. IERC officials said yesterday that there appeared to be only 12,000 persons on the CRA rolls who will be eligible for WPA.

IERC Committee Named.

At the last meeting of the IERC, Lyons, Louie Lewis, state treasurer, and S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, who are also relief commissioners, were appointed as the committee to carry the recommendation now agreed on to Gov. Horner. The state's monthly allocation for relief totals $3,900,000.

Meanwhile the Lake county [Ind.] council, meeting at Crown Point, passed a $600,000 poor relief bond issue to supplement funds already allocated for that purpose from the tax levy. The new issue brings the total of bond issues voted for poor relief in 1938 and 1939 to $3,600,000.

Lake county may legally issue bonds for any purpose to a limit of only 2 per cent of the assessed valuation of property in the county. This limit, on an assessed valuation of $380,000,000, is $7,600,000. Including bond issues already voted for other purposes, the county is now within $1,500,000 of the limit, according to Joseph Finerty, county auditor.

'ARDENT MR. CADY IS COUNSELED TO HAVE PATIENCE

Glen Cady, whose wife said she left him because he was too affectionate, was cautioned yesterday not to be too impatient if he hopes to divorce her.

Cady, bookkeeping instructor at Kelvyn Park High school, accuses Mrs. Catherin Cady of deserting him two years ago. But Judge Rudolph Desort dismissed Cady's third divorce suit yesterday because Cady doesn't wait long enough to file his suits.

The judge laid down these rules for Cady's guidance: Desertion isn't grounds until it has continued a year. Time spent in litigation doesn't count. After each suit is finished, the year begins all over again. Cady's young yet, 36 years old. His wife is 29. And, the judge explained, everything may yet work out O. K. for Cady if he'll just wait until this time next year to begin his fourth suit.

SMITTY—BUT IT'S A HANDY THING TO HAVE

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Has government control of the Chicago milk shed benefited the consumer?

Where Asked.

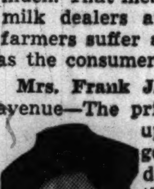
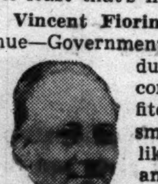
The Answers.

Miss Ann Day, 215 East Erie street—I don't think federal control is of any help to the consumer. When the price goes up, sales go down. People don't buy as much. That means the milk dealers and the farmers suffer as well as the consumers.



Mrs. Frank J. Miller, 7020 Jeffery avenue—The price of milk has gone up as a result of the government plan, I understand, but I don't think it's much of a hardship on most consumers. I'm for it if it helps farmers. Their prosperity is linked with ours.

Miss Elsie Moore, 7105 Crandon avenue—I'm opposed generally to governmental control. However, I don't think the consumer has been especially harmed. The slight price increase in milk isn't enough to make much difference. At least that's my belief.



Vincent Fiorino, 2044 Clifton avenue—Government control of any industy is wrong. The consumer is not benefited. Such control smacks of dictatorship like in Italy, Russia, and Germany. Let the dealers draft their own plan to protect consumers.

T. W. Hatch, 23 East Delaware place I think it has benefited consumers. True, the price has gone up, but that means better prices will be paid to the farmers. And, in the long run, what's good for the farmers of the country is good for the other people.

EXPERTS CHOSEN TO FIX TAXES ON LOOP PROPERTY

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday that 11 experienced real estate men have been appointed to help determine the value of downtown property for the 1939 quadrennial assessment for tax purposes. The men appointed will make recommendations to the assessor on the value of land parcels in the central business area, from the Chicago river to Van Buren street between Wells street and Michigan avenue.

Clark named J. Soule Warterfield, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, as chairman of the committee. The other members are John R. Magill, secretary; Newton Lauren, Thomas Sullivan, and Henry Hedberg. An advisory committee also was named. Its members are Graham Aldis, chairman; George Quinn, John Hooker, Frank Whiston, and Newton Farr. Harry Goldstine was appointed special consultant.

The work of the committees is expected to be finished by the first of the year, Clark said. Valuations outside the downtown area are nearing completion, he announced.

manufactures paper bottles at the rate of 6,000,000 a week in its eastern plants for use in the east. The concern also supplies some of the cartons used in the Chicago suburban market.

Approved in 10 Minutes.

In contrast with the long delay since first applications for container permits were filed here, the health board took only ten minutes yesterday to pass a resolution recommending the amendment. The resolution was introduced by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board president.

"My only concern is to have positive assurance that fluid milk can be delivered safely in paper containers," he said.

Three other members of the board, Dr. Robert A. Black, Dr. Francis A. Dulak and Harry J. Reynolds, voted for the amendment. The fifth member, Dr. Lloyd Arnold, a University of Illinois bacteriologist, refused to vote. Although he once wrote a report favorable to the container, he has opposed any change in the present ordinance since being appointed to the board.

Draft to go to Council.

The recommendation was referred to Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes for the drafting of the amendments. After the amendments have been approved by the health board, a routine procedure, they will be submitted to the council for public hearings.

Still pending in the federal district court is a suit brought by the Fieldcrest Dairies seeking to compel the city to admit the containers. City legal employés said they believed that the suit would automatically be voided if the council adopts the new amendment. Dairy officials, however, said the complaint attacks the validity of the ordinance and they will insist upon a ruling for future protection.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW MILK CASE DECISION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 [Special].—The government's milk monopoly case, in which indictments against 43 individuals and 14 milk corporations were thrown out of court in Chicago last July 13, will be reviewed by the United States Supreme court, according to an announcement today. Arguments will be heard Nov. 13.

The defendants were charged with conspiracy to fix milk prices, control the supply, and suppress competition in the Chicago area. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, in ruling against the government, held that the Sherman antitrust act, under which the indictments were drawn, had been superseded by legislation empowering the secretary of agriculture to regulate the industry.

USE OF TRACTION FUND BLOCKING FRANCHISE PACT

A report submitted yesterday to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson showed that one of the main obstacles to an agreement on a unified traction franchise is disagreement over the use of the city's $58,000,000 traction fund. The report was filed by Walter A. Shaw, Guy A. Richardson, and Col. A. A. Sprague, representing the traction interests.

The traction companies in their franchise proposal last June asked that 20 million dollars be taken from the traction fund to equip the subways, rehabilitate the elevated lines, and make other improvements in a suggested 100 million dollars modernization program. The city opposed this, saying the companies should finance their own improvements.

The traction negotiators and city spokesmen have been discussing this problem and others, including a proposed 8 cent fare, for the last ten days. An analysis of the traction fund shows that only about $34,000,000 of it is in cash or liquid investments. It was said to be doubtful that 20 million dollars would be available for traction improvements because of the $28,000,000 pledged as the city's share of the subway system.

HORNER FAVORS OIL TAX TO PAY BIGGER PENSIONS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 16 (AP).—Gov. Henry Horner today said he favors an oil tax to pay higher old age pensions in Illinois.

The governor announced he is holding up the call for a special session of the legislature while he gives further study to the questions of oil conservation and relief needs. He does not intend to ask oil conservation legislation in the special session unless it appears that "a good, square conservation bill" can be passed.

Lockheed Revises Plans for Hop of British Bombers

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 16 [Special].—Officials of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation at Burbank tonight announced they do not plan to fly a consignment of 16 twin engined British bombing planes to Newark, N. J., in anticipation of possible changes in the neutrality act. Earlier it was reported the planes were undergoing adjustments preparatory to a cross-country flight within two weeks. The planes are part of an order for 250 planes placed by Great Britain prior to the European war. In all about 90 planes have not been delivered.

MAVERICK INDICTED WITH 3 OTHERS IN POLL TAX CHARGES

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 16 (AP).—Mayor Maury Maverick, former congressman, and three other persons were indicted today by a Criminal District court grand jury on charges of "unlawfully paying poll taxes for citizens."

Maury Maverick. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The grand jury was under supervision of District Attorney John Shook, member of a political faction opposing Maverick, who called the indictment "just a political smear."

Shook previously said he believed statutes requiring voters to pay for their own poll taxes had been violated and that illegally issued poll tax receipts were used in a city election last May which placed Maverick in the mayor's chair.

LA GUARDIA RAPS U. S. AGENCY FOR N. Y. MILK MIXUP

New York, Oct. 16 [Special].—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia today charged that the payment of only $2.08½ a hundred pounds [47 quarts] to farmers for milk delivered during September violated the agreement by which the strike of the Dairy Farmers union was settled last August.

The mayor called upon the United States department of agriculture for an explanation and announced that he will not stand for any "milk company politics or shenanigans" in the matter.

The mayor's statement coincided with a threat by Archie Wright, head of the union, to call another strike unless farmers are paid $2.15, the figure agreed on in the strike settlement.

Under this agreement, the rate for fluid milk was fixed at $2.60, but it was understood that the blended price would be $2.15. Dairies here increased the price to consumers by ¾ cent a quart. The fluid price was raised to $2.82 on Oct. 1, and the retail price went up another ½ cent.

Retail milk prices in the New York metropolitan area higher than in any other city, a quart of grade B, the most commonly used, costing 14¾ cents.

TRAIN WRECKER HELD A MENTAL CASE BY JURORS

John Bourne, 42 years old, who wrecked a Soo Line freight train near Lake Villa last Aug. 30, was held to be either feeble-minded or insane yesterday by a jury in Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. Bourne will be committeed either to the prison for the criminal insane at Menard or the Illinois Security hospital at Chester.

At the sanity hearing, conducted before Judge William L. Pierce, medical testimony showed Bourne's mental age to be 8 years and 11 months. He escaped from an Oshkosh, Wis., asylum 15 years ago. His last address was Fond du Lac, Wis. Bourne derailed the locomotive, tender, and 19 cars by opening a switch, then wrenching the signal light around from red to green. The damage was $45,000. He was captured near Racine, Wis., the next day.

SHANAHAN WILL ARGUED BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—The Illinois Supreme court heard oral arguments today in the legal battle over the $850,000 estate of the late David E. Shanahan, veteran Illinois legislator. A ruling is expected during the December term.

Shanahan's two cousins, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn of Chicago, are appealing a Circuit court ruling in which Shanahan's deathbed marriage to his secretary, Helen Troesch, was upheld. He had willed his wife most of his estate. A previous will had given the Misses Flynn 80 per cent of his wealth. Shanahan died Oct. 18, 1936.

LEWIS DEMOTES REDS, CUTS DOWN POWERS IN C. I. O.

Heeds Warning of Aids as Clamor in Unions Grows.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16. [Special].—John L. Lewis, according to reports here today, has taken steps to cut down communist influence in the congress of industrial organizations.

At last Saturday's executive board meeting, which followed the closing of the C. I. O. convention in San Francisco, Lewis warned officials and members against introducing communist policies under threat of instant removal. He followed this warning by removing Harry Bridges as west coast C. I. O. director and making him, instead, the C. I. O. chief for his own state, California, with new chieftains designated for Washington and Oregon. This was a stepdown for Bridges.

Pact Brings Reaction.

For many months Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman, C. I. O. vice presidents, have been restive under growing complaints against communist tactics inside a considerable number of C. I. O. organizations, including the United Automobile Workers of America, the National Maritime union, the Agricultural Workers' union and the United Office and Professional Workers' union.

They were unable, however, to make much headway with Lewis until the recent Hitler-Stalin pact led to the sudden abandonment of the communist fight against fascism and nazism and affected the communist policy in unions where they were influential.

In the new national setup Allan Haywood, C. I. O. chief in New York, a member of the miners' union and an anticommunist, was transferred to Washington where he will be second in command, reporting only to Lewis.

Curb on Chief Counsel.

This will put a curb on the power of Lee Pressman, general C. I. O. counsel, with whom Hillman and Murray have scores to settle. They feel Pressman sought to protect communists and party line followers during dispute which split the United Automobile Workers of America.

John Brophy, national director of the C. I. O., has been demoted under the new régime to command of local industrial unions and his directorship abolished.

Lewis is said to have even warned regional directors and others not to hire communists as secretaries.

Claims in Chrysler Dispute.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16 (AP).—A C. I. O. spokesman for the United Automobile Workers of America reported progress today in discussions with Chrysler corporation on a dispute which has resulted in idleness for 55,000 workers.

Richard T. Frankensteen, U. A. W. A. regional director who has been negotiating with Chrysler officials for a week, said: "There was a general feeling of trying to work out our problems. This is the first time the corporation really has been trying to bargain with us."

Robert W. Conder, Chrysler's director of labor relations, said the corporation's stand—that the fixing of production standards and speed is a function of management alone—remained unchanged. The union has demanded a voice in fixing speed of production.

The fifteen mile lake trip scheduled for the giant river crossing section of the subwaytube was delayed yesterday by choppy waters in Lake Michigan. The twin tube piece, which is 200 feet long and weighs more than 4,000 tons, is to be towed from South Chicago, where it was built, to State street and the Chicago river, where it will be sunk into place as part of the subway tunnel.

Early yesterday morning, the tunnel section, sealed tightly at both ends, was towed by two tugs from its slip at 101st street and the Calumet river and was floated into Lake Michigan. At the end of the breakwater, however, the waters appeared too rough for the voyage, so the huge tube was towed back to the Iroquois at the mouth of the Calumet river. Subway officials said the lake trip will be made on the first day the weather is favorable.

DENNIS MADIGAN, STORE FOUNDER, KILLED BY AUTO

Struck While Taking Walk in Columbus Park.

Dennis J. Madigan, pioneer west side merchant, and a founder of Madigan Brothers, Inc., department store, 4030 Madison street, was fatally injured by an automobile in Columbus park last night. He was 78 years old.

He had left his home at 5900 Adams street for a stroll, and had walked directly south across the park. He was struck as he crossed Jackson boulevard. The driver of the auto was Elmer Guy Brown, 48 years old, of 334 South Kostner avenue, an engineer for the Western Electric company. Mr. Madigan was taken to the Loretto hospital where he died a few minutes later.

Mr. Madigan this month was celebrating his 58th anniversary as a merchant and resident of the west side. He was born in Ireland where, as a boy, he served a merchant's apprenticeship. Then he came to Chicago. With two brothers he established a business at Lake street and Oakley boulevard.

Later Mr. Madigan moved to Wood and Madison streets where he knew many of the city's first families who at that time lived in the old west side gold coast. In 1913 Mr. Madigan moved his business to the section where it is now located.

Miss Gladys White Eagle, 26 years old, 669 Wrightwood avenue, an Indian stenographer employed in the Chicago office of the federal department of the interior, was killed early today in a collision between an automobile and a street car at Cottage Grove avenue and Marquette road. Her companion, Abner St. Cyr, 36, of 4545 Oakenwald avenue, also an Indian employé of the department, was shaken up. Both are of the Winnebago tribe.

St. Cyr said he, Miss White Eagle, her brother, Johnny, and another Indian, known as Robert, had visited several taverns. She had not had anythink to drink and was driving the car, he told police. However, the street car crew asserted he was the driver. Miss White Eagle was a graduate of Haskell Indian college.

Mother Dead, Child Hurt.

A mother was killed and her young daughter was injured last night when they were hit at Ewing avenue and 98th street by an automobile driven by the Rev. Edward Wroblewski, 41 years old, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church, East Chicago, Ind.

The woman was Mrs. Inez Kindler, 43, of 10210 Avenue L. Her daughter, Tilitha, 12, suffered facial lacerations.

The two were walking on the sidewalk in front of 9752 Ewing avenue, when the Rev. Father Wroblewski's automobile approached from the north. With him was his housekeeper, Miss Helen Falda. He was not held.

The car skidded on the wet car tracks. It swerved out of control, rolled up on the sidewalk, and struck Mrs. Kindler and her daughter. Then it crashed through a fence and dropped seven feet into a basement front yard. The car overturned. Neither the priest nor his housekeeper was injured.

Old Injuries Fatal.

Injuries suffered last Sept. 16 caused the death of Mrs. Mollie Krause, 65, of 1522 South Homan avenue, in Mount Sinai hospital last night. She was struck in front of her home by an automobile driven by Lloyd Pickering, 38, of 1532 North Massasoit avenue.

INSISTS PUBLIC OPINION CAN CUT AUTO ACCIDENTS

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 16 (AP).—Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts told the national safety congress today that the only way to halt the slaughter of people in automobile accidents was to arouse public opinion. The governor said his state reduced automobile fatalities 20 per cent last year and expected to effect a further reduction of 10 per cent this year—all because a "militant public opinion" had been aroused to support policemen and officials in carrying out a drastic program.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins asserted more than half the industrial workers in the United States were not protected by workmen's compensation laws. She blamed "loopholes" in state laws for the deficiency.

Employers were warned by Dr. J. B. McCalren, chief surgeon for the Kimberly-Clark corporation at Neenah, Wis., that "lame backs" cost industry more in unjust compensation payments than any other type of physical ailment.

Wife Only Has 1 Dog Now, So Mate Wins Alimony Cut

Mrs. Pearl Droeger protested an alimony reduction a year ago because she had three dogs and had to feed them. But the court permitted Harold J. Droeger of 1208 Jarvis avenue to reduce his payments from $30 a week to $20. Judge Oscar F. Nelson cut the alimony to $10 yesterday when Droeger's attorney, Irving Eisenman, told the court Droeger's income has fallen, his $67,000 seat on the board of trade is worth only $2,000 now, and that Mrs. Droeger has only one dog left.

NASH BREAKS OFF PEACE PARLEYS; BLAME PUT ON CIO

Ready to Renew Talks if Union Alters Demands.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 16 [Special].—Declaring further negotiations useless because of the unreasonable attitude displayed by C. I. O. leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America, the management of the strike bound Nash automobile plant today broke off peace parleys.

The strike went into its third week today. It is keeping 6,100 workers here and in Milwaukee idle at a cost of $50,000 a day to themselves.

Issues on which the management and U. A. W. A. are deadlocked, according to the company, are refusal of the U. A. W. A. to agree to stop intimidating and coercing employés, refusal of the U. A. W. A. to recognize the right of the management to maintain discipline, and refusal of the U. A. W. A. to work overtime for which the company is willing to pay time and one-half. The strikers also are demanding vacations with pay.

Strikers Halt Truck.

Just before negotiations were called off today, strikers blocked an exit at the plant and refused to allow removal of a truck load of service parts needed by dealers. Police were called, but there was no disorder.

U. A. W. A. watchers are on duty at the plant gates at all times.

Loss of the Nash weekly pay roll is an economic blow to Kenosha. Thirty-three hundred employés are idle and merchants and landlords are worried. Through the chamber of commerce, these elements today demanded a statement of the points at issue and offered mediation services.

Mediation Offer Spurned.

Gov. Julius P. Heil offered to mediate the strike a week ago, but his good offices was refused by the U. A. W. A.

Twenty-eight hundred employés of the Seaman body division in Milwaukee were thrown out of work by the strike here because there was no demand for bodies.

In announcing the end of negotiations, R. A. De Vlieg, general works manager for the Nash-Kelvinator corporation in Wisconsin, left the way open for resumption. He said he is willing to renew negotiations when the U. A. W. A. indicates its willingness to adopt a reasonable attitude.

Fur Fashioned Into Real Hats; First Arrive

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Hold your breath for the first shock of the shopping season, Christmas cards are out, ready for the early bird who is immune to such staggering sights with the rest of the world still climbing out of the annual bewilderment of appraising the new fall and winter clothes collections!

Shock No. 2: A bit more timely and certainly more welcome reminder that time slides around. It's fur hats, and we emphasize hats. Last couple of seasons the fur toppers were mere fluffs of pelt, resting on the top knot of curls and adorned with a nesting bird or tied on rather precariously wtih an artful bow of velvet ribbon with the ends flying a good 2 feet down the back.

This year it's different, very different. Thick, velvety chenille snoods, snoods of suede, of yarn, or of ribbon, not only add handsomely to the creations but do a smooth job of keeping straggling back locks under control. Or you may like the back curtain effect of velvet that surely hides every hair. The colors in the velvet take the eye: flaming red, turquoise blue, blush pink, mauve, jade green, as well as all the luscious new snuff tones, amber and taupe. The fur is expertly twisted, molder, folded, and rolled on top for the hats.

Silvery sheared beaver is by far the most romantic brown fur. It goes with sage and chartreuse green, with dull black, with amethyst, blue, and any other pastel.

Next charmer, the fluffy snatches of ruby fox. The hat makers have matched this fur exactly with felt and the necessary velvets and ribbons. Persian lamb pancake berets standing high at the sides are stunning. They are extremely smooth flatterers and are as unbulky as if they were made of fabric.

Tails of silver fox, mink, kolinsky are rolled into rosette effects for other small hats to be worn with suits also trimmed with the tails. With muffs to match, these hats are luxurious accessories for slim untrimmed two piece suits or the untrimmed coats that look like dresses.

Italian Pizzeria.

The only place in Chicago where you can buy Italian pizza is at a little restaurant on Taylor street near Halsted. There you can watch Tom Granato, for sixteen years the proprietor of Chicago's only pizzeria, concoct the delicacy and carefully deposit it in his big brick oven, slipping it off long handled shovels of well sandpapered wood onto the hot bricks.

The foundation of pizza is a dough similar to that in English muffins. Tom rolls out a piece the size of a pie crust on his marble slab, cuts up fresh Italian cheese over it, covers it with tomato—the little Italian pear tomato—sprinkles olive oil over it, and deposits it in the brick oven for a few minutes. It is served in a tin pie plate, cut into four sections, and is eaten with the fingers. Try it with a salad.

* * *

Young Blackie, waiter at Tom's Pizzeria Napolitana, who tells you how Tom and his wife, Molly, took him off the street ten years ago, made known the other specialties of the place—stuffed macaroni, eggplant parmigiano, and connoli, an Italian dessert, with sweet, cold, Italian cottage cheese served in a fold of ice cream cone like pastry.

No. 1 Opera Goer.

When the curtain goes up on Boris Godunoff at the Chicago Civic opera 1939 première Oct. 28, with Pinza singing the title rôle, Jason Whitney, president of the Chicago City Opera association, will be in his seat for the one hundred forty-first Chicago Civic opera performance he has attended since he became president. He has never missed a performance, he told Mrs. A. H. Patterson at the meeting of the woman's board of the opera at the Casino the other day. Thirty-seven performances in 1936, 51 in 1937, 53 in 1938.

On the House

Where some one member of the family needs extra heat and it seems rather costly to set the thermostat high enough to keep one room sufficiently warm, investigate the possibility of installing auxiliary heat. It may be possible to install a gas radiant heater or a steam gas radiator, or an electric heating unit which picks up the cold air at the bottom of the room, warms it and circulates it. Or it is possible, with radiator heat, to add a larger radiator to the room in question. Or add to the size of a register. This gives the necessary added heat at much less cost than keeping the house too warm all the time for the rest of the family.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A ROMANCE that started in Charlevoix, Mich., last summer is being revealed with an announcement today from Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Babst of New York and Greenwich. It is of the engagement of their daughter, Alice Edwina, to George Payne Bent of Chicago. Mr. Bent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harry Bent of Pasadena, Cal., and is one of the twenty grandchildren of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Gardner of Hinsdale.

Miss Babst attended Miss Spence's school in New York and Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn., and is a member of the New York Junior league. She is coming to Chicago, probably at Christmas time, to meet her fiancé's large family, which includes the William France Andersons, the William B. Browns, the Henry A. Gardners, and the Robert A. Gardners.

Mr. Bent is going east for a short visit next month, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Babst will entertain for their daughter and her fiancé. The wedding probably will take place in the spring.

Mr. Bent attended the Deerfield academy and Occidental college in California, and is engaged in business in Chicago. During the last few summers he and a group of young bachelors have been occupying the Harry C. Holloway home in Glencoe. When the Holloways return from their summer home in Tyringham, Mass., around Nov. 1, the bachelors move back to the city.

Since returning to this country about two years ago she has been living in Milton and attending Radcliffe college.

Miss Miller has visited her aunt, Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, in Chicago, and her sister, Portia, was in Winnetka early this autumn to assist at the debut of Miss Marilyn Martin, who went to school in Switzerland with the Miller sisters. Mr. Willis prepared for college at the River school in Chestnut Hill and was graduated from Harvard in 1933 He was a member of the Hasty Pudding, the Institute of 1770, and the Speakers club.

Plan Holiday Party for Anne Stuart.

Mrs. Robert Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald will give a dinner-dance at the Indian Hill club on Saturday, Dec. 30, for Miss Anne Stuart, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart of Lake Forest. Miss Stuart is a niece of the Macdonalds and a granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Stuart.

Arthur Meeker Jr. arrived in Chicago yesterday, having landed in New York last Saturday in the Rex. Mr. Meeker, who spent the summer and early autumn at his villa in Switzerland, was accompanied to this country by his nephew, Ambrose Cramer, who went abroad following his graduation from Yale in June.

Young Mr. Cramer's mother, Mrs. Francis V. Lloyd, went to New York to meet him, and they are returning to their home in Santa Barbara by motor. They are expected in Chicago at the end of the week.

Gordon Louds May Sail for Palestine.

The Gordon Louds have tickets to sail for Jerusalem on Nov. 15, but they are not certain that they will sail. Mr. Loud hopes to continue his work as director of the Megiddo expedition of the Oriental institue. Mrs. Loud, the former Honor Merrell, accompanied her husband to Jerusalem last winter following their marriage.

While Waldo Logan was on the Island Mona, midway between Porto Rico and Santo Domingo, with an archæology expedition, his wife fished and hunted deer in the Sierra mountains. They returned to Chicago a few days ago. Mrs. Logan has no plans for the winter, but her husband is returning to Mona on the 24th to be away until Christmas, when it is expected that the work of the expedition will be completed.

Judge and Mrs. Robert L. Henry, who were here this summer for the marriage of their son, have reached their home in Bulkeley, Egypt, after being stranded in Jugo-Slavia at the outbreak of the war.

Flee London Home to Live in America.

Mrs. William Gourley, her daughter, Miss Ruth, and her mother, Mrs. Wilhelmine Rieper, recently arrived from England to join Mr. Gourley in Chicago. At the outbreak of war they fled from their home in London to Berkshire-on-the-Thames. They plan to make their home in America.

Mrs. Robert J. Thorne delayed going to see her new granddaughter, Linda Spence, until after the St. Luke's show. Mrs. Thorne is one of the hard-working women in charge of the benefit. Mrs. Thorne is leaving tomorrow to fly to Phoenix, where four weeks old Linda and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Spence, live.

An exhibition of modern sculpture sponsored by the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago will be opened today in Goodspeed hall. Tea will be served in the gallery from 4 to 6 o'clock. The exhibit will continue to Nov. 17.

The program of the American Opera society at the Drake hotel will start promptly at 11:30 o'clock this morning to allow guests to attend it and the St. Luke's fashion show. Excerpts from Charles Wakefield Cadman's "The Garden of Mystery" will be presented.

Tidy Wife Is Less Likely to Lose Mate

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In a recent story I spoke of how the sight of an untidy wife at the breakfast table starts a man's day in the wrong way. It leaves him with an unpleasant mental picture, which he unconsciously replaces with the picture he finds in his office and elsewhere during business hours, that of well-groomed, neatly dressed career women.

Now I want to emphasize how important it is for a wife to create a mental picture of herself in her man's eyes which makes him want to get home on time for dinner each evening. The clever wife—and there happily are many of them—is the one who not only starts her husband's day right, but ends it with equal honors.

A woman who has to do her own work and look after children cannot be blamed for her untidy appearance during the day. But, if she does not watch the clock and, at a certain hour, dash for the tub, clean clothing, and her makeup kit, she is much to be blamed if hubby stays out evenings "on business."

Knowing that he cannot provide his wife with a maid, a husband does not expect her to be dressed in her best bib and tucker when she puts dinner on the table and does the dishes afterwards, but he does want, and surely has a right to expect, that she will be dressed in a clean housedress, stockings that have no runs, and shoes that are not run down at the heels. And he certainly doesn't want to see her nails in need of manicuring and her hands rough and red from housework. This last fault is one easily avoided by wearing rubber gloves to do all the heavy cleaning and dishwashing. Another way to avoid work-worn looking hands is to use a nonsticky hand lotion or cream after each hand washing to preserve their soft, white beauty.

As for that tired feeling, which may last on into the evening, that, too, is easily remedied by a short nap of, say, a half hour before getting dressed. Just to relax for a brief spell does wonders for a woman. It "lifts" her face and her spirits, brings back the sparkle in her eyes and makes her feel more like smiling when her husband puts his key in the door. And last, but not least, she is not too tired to enjoy many long evenings which seem to "fly like the wind" because she is a real companion to her husband's moods.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the beauty houses has done the dry skinned woman a really good turn. They've brought out a marvelous new preparation that is a dry skin "conditioner" and a flattering foundation all in one.

Every woman whose skin is dry knows that its natural color is "off." The skin that is deficient in moisture has an entirely different cast from the skin that is supple and dewy.

The idea back of this lotion is to lubricate the skin so that its own natural undertones have a chance to get in their flattery to the whole facial scheme. And it succeeds admirably.

This lotion doesn't take the place of the lubricating preparations that carry the heaviest burden of oiling the parched skin. It merely carries on the good work in a most effective way. You can't trot around town with a heavy lubricating cream on your face during the day, but can give the skin the benefit of further lubrication by using this preparation that furthers the cause while it serves you—and serves you well—as a makeup foundation.

The creamy lotion doesn't smear. You simply smoothe it over the skin; most of it vanishes. It gives the skin the moist finish that is the perfect starting point for the perfect make-up. It comes in three tints, all of them pretty and carefully chosen because they are suited to natural skin tints.

You can use this on your hands, your arms, your back, and your legs as well as your face. Remember that it's a skin softener as well as a dressing.

Women Start Symphony Year on a Gay Note

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With Izler Solomon conducting and with Edith Mason and Mario Chamlee serving as soprano and tenor soloist, respectively, the Woman's Symphony orchestra presented in Orchestra hall last night the first concert of its 1939-'40 season.

The evening was packed with delight. Not, mind you, with mere satisfaction—the pale, thoughtful sort of pleasure one might derive from the spectacle of a body of hard working local musicians making good—but with that intense kind of delight that runs thru the head like strong wine and makes the eyes shine like headlights. The reasons for these symptoms were to be found in the brilliant way in which conductor, orchestra, and soloists shoved aside the things that usually stand between music and an audience and gave us blinding musical reality instead of notes and tempi and execution and the rest.

In Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony, for instance, the impact of the music itself was immediate. Only a pedant could have had the heart to examine coldly this miracle of lighthearted, infectious art, and to try to determine the factors which entered into the effect. He would, of course, have found in the execution such things as precise phrasings, carefully worked out dynamics, and finely textured colorings.

And if the pedant could have survived the duet from the first act of "Butterfly," which Miss Mason and Mr. Chamlee did toward the end of the evening, he would doubtless have discovered that underlying the ecstatic, intoxicating performance were all of the same factors noted above.

The analysis would be hard, tho. One might as easily put life itself into a test tube as to account, after the fact, for all the things which soloists and orchestra did in this particular piece. For in the midst of what W. J. Henderson called "the heat and joy of song" receptive artists are apt to employ devices so subtle that none of the portentous words used ordinarily in connection with music can readily include them. And it is these small effects of nuance, used unconsciously and with immediacy by the performer and grasped by the hearer in the same way, which give to music its final urgency and communicative power.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY

BY CECIL SMITH.

Bianca Saroya and Dimitri Onofrei observed their fifteenth wedding anniversary last night by singing together in a San Carlo Opera performance of "La Bohême" at the Auditorium theater. On their wedding day they appeared in Puccini's fragile opera, and since that time have sung the rôles of Mimi and Rudolph together nearly five hundred times with Fortune Gallo's San Carlo company.

Beyond all question Mme. Saroya's Mimi is now the finest to be heard on the American operatic stage. Last night she surpassed herself. While I have heard her in the rôle many times, I have never heard her invest the music with quite such radiant tone, or with greater pathos and delicacy. Every time her voice soared into the upper range it was luminous and warm; constantly I felt that I should be unwilling to exchange her glowing high A for any other I know.

Since Mr. Onofrei has been ill, it was hardly to be expected that he would yet be in the best of voice. By sparing himself, singing lightly a good deal of the time, he achieved a more even performance than in either of his two earlier appearances this fall.

The other Bohemians—Mario Valle, Stefan Kozakevich, and Harold Kravitt—sang expertly and kept things going with lively humor. Leola Turner, who is unhappy temperamentally in such a spitfire assignment, was the Musetta. Richard Wentworth contributed amusing bits as the landlord and as Musetta's elderly swain. Carlo Peroni conducted with considerable vitality.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Western Front

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 16.—Greatest admirers of young Mickey Rooney out here are the first-flight professional performers. At Bel-Air Country club yesterday I think that Fred Astaire summed up the professional encomiums. "Did you see him in 'Babes in Arms'?" raved Astaire to Andy Scott. "That kid is so great that when I see him on the screen I feel like throwing my hat in the air." Scott nodded: "When I see him on the screen I feel like getting out of the business." Rooney for a time was inclined to be a trifle fresh, and at his age the tendency was quite understandable.

In the last year, however, the kid has straightened himself out and if a popularity contest were held among the professionals, he'd stand a good chance of winning it. They always admired his talent, now they like him as a person. He's accomplished it by becoming polite, considerate, and sincerely modest. At the "Babes in Arms" première, his courtesy to Judy Garland and his insistence that she take the bows was the nicest part of the evening.

Bing Crosby, who is a pretty fair sort of country singer, sat in the Florentine room of the Beverly-Wilshire, listening to Cobina Wright Jr. Miss Wright is one of the group of society warblers who have invaded the night club field since Eve Symington made it a popular, a respectable, and a well paying occupation. Of all of these society kids, I doubt that any one is more attractive than the youthful Wright girl, but like all the rest, her selection of songs is atrocious. "It's too bad," said Crosby, "that a swell looking youngster like that doesn't pick herself popular songs that the public KNOWS. If she'd sing 'Over the Rainbow,' then do a parody on 'An Apple for the Teacher' and then hit right back with another popular song she'd be right in the groove. Say, with her appearance she'd be a show-stopper."

Unfortunately for all concerned, the society misses who take to the night club and supper club field have little or no conception of song values. They want to warble songs that their friends have penned for them and the result is pretty terrible. There are professional singers of popular songs who are just as daffy; insisting on introducing tunes rather than doing the songs that the public has learned to like. Cobina Wright Jr., with a clean, fresh beauty to recommend her, will never become notable or noted until she learns the fundamentals of song selection; that is, to sing the songs that the public knows by ear.

Speaking of singing recalls Joan Blondell's unusual experience. Her studio wanted her to sing a couple of tunes, so she engaged a famous coach to listen to her and determine whether or not it was a fruitless task. Instead of asking her to sing, he instructed her to yell "help, help, help!" at the top of her voice. Puzzled, Miss Blondell obeyed. "Now yell 'murder!'" said the coach. She did. On the basis of that screwy test he told her she didn't have a chance as a singer and the next day sent her a healthy bill.

Joan didn't mind the bill, or his unfavorable criticism. The thing that upset her was that on the morning of the unusual audition her mother was coming to the house to visit them. Simultaneously, Dick Powell was having a treatment from his masseur. As Joan screamed "help, help!" the mother arrived at the front door. Terrified, the mother ran to Dick's room, opened the door and discovered a stranger apparently strangling Dick. As she peered in, affrighted, Joan let out a scream of "murder!" The mother was shaky for two weeks.

The Powells are leaving for New York shortly. It is their first visit to that city since they arrived there on their honeymoon. Their studio, with an eye to the publicity values of the honeymoon, met them down the bay with an escort of tugs and airplanes flying over the incoming boat. Joan was quoted as commenting thusly on the skyline: "Gee, ain't them skyscrapers wonderful?" For bad taste on the part of a major studio this entire thing hit a new low and Dick and Joan took the brunt of the savage press criticism. It easily could have cracked up their marriage. This time they trust that they'll have a swell time without any crackpot publicity stunts.

I played golf yesterday with Alice Marble, the tennis champ; Bill Frawley, John Montague, and Connie Gallaudet. Just how great a part "athletic instinct" plays in the shaping of champions was demonstrated by the blonde Alice. With little experience at golf the tennis champion whaled out drives of 175 yards and hit long, straight irons to the greens. She missed plenty of shots, of course, but the good ones she hit were amazingly good. I guess the answer is that you've either got it or haven't got it. Alice had what the professionals would call "savvy," which is another identification of hitting instinct.

St. Luke's Style Show Will Hold Interest Today

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the curtains of the stage at one end of the ballroom of the Stevens hotel will open and the first model in the 13th annual St. Luke's fashion show will come down the stairs.

Slowly she will cross the stage and walk down the runway, pirouetting as she goes, so that every one in the audience can see her costume.

Before the first has finished parading the second model will be on the runway, and so it will go for about two hours, or until 102 models have displayed the very last word in the world of fashion for the enjoyment of the 2,000 women who are there to see the show and to benefit St. Luke's hospital.

About 850 will attend the dinner and evening show. There will be dancing in the ballroom foyer and a bar in the antique lounge.

The Housewife

If you like the fragrance of cedar in your clothes closets there is a dry compound made of crushed red cedar wood impregnated with many times the quantity of cedar wood oil that nature provides in the wood which, when mixed with wate to a plastic consistency, is easily applied with brush or trowel to almost any surface. Thus you can cedar line your closets, trunks, and chests.

And special drawer boards and garment bag boards already impregnated with this compound are available for your chests of drawers and utility bags. They make a cedar aroma that is said to be hateful to moths. From time to time you can renew the odor by spraying with a liquid, a twelve ounce bottle of which is enough for the average closet.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek, a veterinarian. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. Reaching the accident, they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek, and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard investigates. He finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj. Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom, suffers an apparent stroke while the inspector questions him. Dr. Colin Ladbroke exposes the illness as a fake and gets Dr. Blount to admit he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection, which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness. Derek admits having anti-tetanus serum which was taken from his room. Derek goes out for a walk in the night—that same night Mrs. Glover is beaten up. Her assailant was evidently seeking to destroy evidence in the farmhouse.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

A SERUM AMPOULE SOUGHT.

Padgett returned from answering the bell.

"O? Well, anyhow I'm for bed."

Cold with misery Alison said good night and followed Pat upstairs. At the turn of the steps she saw that Wynn and Derek were on their feet, greeting the inspector. Their composure staggered her. She shut her door and prayed.

"You want to speak to me, inspector? Then suppose we go along into the office." Derek led the way.

Wynn clenched her hands. It had come—and she had hastened it. O, for Derek's sake let her manage somehow to hold herself together! If she let go for one instant she would fly into a thousand, gibbering bits.

The office, so-called, was small and furnished sparsely with a table, a mahogany filing cabinet, two chairs, and a barometer. Headcorn sat down. Besides him was a mounted horse's hoof, made into an inkwell. As he eyed it, Derek took the opposite seat.

"Yes, what is it?"

Headcorn recognized the type before him and, quite impersonally, approved it. He asked a simple question and saw the young man's brow gather into a frown both puzzled and relieved.

"Letter? I don't understand."

"Handed you, I think, by your agent, Mr. Gregg. The first of a series from Reginald Hardmore of Shrewsbury dealing with an offer of purchase your brother received for this estate. Might I see it?"

"If I have it, certainly." Derek turned to the cabinet and ran through its various drawers. "No, it's not here. I must have handed it back with the other letters. Is it of any consequence?"

"Probably not. It's only that I was slightly curious after my talk with Mr. Gregg. Do you recall the precise details? How, for instance, this Mr. Elderson-Brown made his offer without putting in a personal appearance?"

"Is that how it happened? I didn't take it in, but then I paid very little attention to the matter, as I didn't mean to sell."

The inspector paused. "Mr. Boldre, what took you early this morning to the neighborhood of the Glover farm?"

"Jarvis mentioned he saw me?" No surprise, only a sharpened line of the jaw. "I was out for tramp."

"For any particular object?"

"I couldn't sleep. It was the thunderbolt of that post-mortem."

"Where did you go?"

"See any one but this gamekeeper?"

"Not a soul. Yes, I did pass a car on the Bewkesbury road."

"What sort of car?"

"I fancy it was a six seater. It was too dark to make out who was driving it. It tore by very fast, going west."

"And the time?"

"I've little idea. I set out about two, and I'd got as far as the Ripley's thatched barn."

The inspector tapped his teeth with a pencil. "Another question, Mr. Boldre! On Nov. 15 of last year did you purchase from Allan & Hanbury in London a single dose ampoule of anti-tetanus serum, portable size?"

"I couldn't have told you the date," said Derek dryly. "The facts otherwise are correct."

Headcorn remained expressionless. "Then you admit buying the stuff. And your reason? It's employed as a rule only by the medical profession."

"The obvious reason. Damage can be done on the hunting field long before an antidote can be given."

"So you carried this ampoule about with you when you hunted?"

"Once. After that I forgot it. I haven't hunted often, you see. And now——" Derek Boldre hesitated. "The thing's disappeared."

"Disappeared! Have you questioned the servants?"

"I didn't realize it was gone till yesterday. I decided you could do the questioning."

The inspector played with his pencil, then rose. Show me just where the ampoule was kept."

They passed through the empty lounge filled with the scent of spring blossoms and smouldering logs. The stairs, Headcorn noticed, were slippery as glass and dented here and there with the print of a horseshoe. His guide threw open a door.

"Did you ever speak of the serum to any one?"

"I should like to search this room alone, sir."

Derek went out.

The cupboard filled one of two niches by the fireplace, the other blocked in by books, evidently the occupant's own. Novels of which the detective sort prevailed—essays by Virginia Woolf—a few volumes of medical literature, not textbooks. These the inspector examined and put back.

Spotless white paper covered the cupboard shelves. Underneath the boards were stainlessly clean. He searched every inch of the red Wilton carpet. All he found besides a little fluff was a minute trace of tooth powder near the bathroom door.

He turned to the clumsy Victorian wardrobe. From the rod inside dangled a few suits, but their pockets disbursed only a normal residue of pipe tobacco, a crumpled stamp, and a few bits of scribbled memoranda wedged in the corners. The burberry was not to be seen. It was probably in the coat cupboard downstairs. He spent longest over an old, redipped hunting coat. Tight! Not much leeway in this shrunken garment to tuck away even a portable syringe. The lining revealed nothing in the nature of a stain such as a bottle hurriedly thrust away after use might have left; but he remembered that these coats were usually washed after each wearing.

As he quitted the room some one at the end of the passage was creeping cautiously down a back stair. Tipetoeing along, he caught sight of a dark, sleekly waved head and a white blanket coat vanishing through a door in the unlit lobby below. He followed as far as the door, saw that it led into the garden, and, about to peer out, stopped to listen to the servants' voices holding low argument in the staff sitting room. When he was satisfied that nothing useful was likely to be forthcoming he tapped boldly at the door on his left, broke in on the conference, and held the necessary interviews. They were singularly unproductive. Neither traps nor smooth speech gained him any fresh knowledge.

There was still the burberry and Boldre was not about.

World Touches Small Child All Too Soon

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It is for only a short time that they are tucked safely under your wing. Soon the world outside reaches them; little by little the influences that play upon your children become stronger, more numerous, and more varied.

This is all part of living, of course. It is also fascinating for a mother and father to watch. But sometimes the fascination or amusement is replaced by concern or disapproval. And later there are times when you really worry about the outcome. Still, if through the years your child has the love, faith, confidence and interest that, combined, may be called understanding, he'll come through.

We do notice a difference in our children after they've begun school. Some may be differences we're glad to note, others we're not so happy about.

These latter changes may be the result of the influence of other children. Or they may be the result of the teacher's influence.

But whether it is school or a wider social life, we must soon admit we can't control all the outside conditions our boys and girls encounter. Our best bet, then, is to make their home life a full, rich, and important thing, to make it a place where things can be talked over, where undesirable attitudes caught up outside can be corrected or dropped at the threshold, where admirable ideas garnered beyond the home circle can widen it, a place where friendliness and understanding never fail.

"The Five Year Old Turns a Corner" and "When Your Child Brings Home 'Bad Words'" are leaflet of interest to parents, teachers, and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for each leaflet. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Jerry Finds Two Loves One Too Many to Please

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: If you can get me out of a situation in a decent, honorable way, I'll thank you for the rest of my life. Here's mys problem. My girl is 26; I'm 28. She, our families, and all our friends expect us to marry, for we've been going together for seven years. She's a fine girl, and I like her immensely.

"I always thought I'd marry her, until recently, when I met another girl and fell head over heels in love with her. She returns my love. I want to be with her all the time but I can't, for I'm obligated to see my old girl certain nights in the week. Even if I wanted to keep my new love a secret I couldn't, for every place we go we run into people we know. They are talking about us. Whether or not the news that I'm going with another girl has reached my old girl's ears I don't know, for she has never mentioned it to me. But, I rather suspect she knows. You know how people like to run to some one with gossip!

"Having met this new girl, I know I could never be satisfied married to any one else. I feel like a cad to go to the other girl and tell her how I feel, but I see no other way out. What makes me feel so guilty about the whole mess, too, is that I'd be leaving her in the lurch to drop her, for knowing she was my girl, none of the other fellows have ever asked her for dates. Do you think I should marry her regardless of how I feel, or do you think I should go to her, tell her the whole story, and ask her to release me from my obligations?" "JERRY."

Gentlemen do have obligations, Jerry, and I'm sure you are gentlemen enough to go to your old girl and tell her you want to be honest and say you think you are in love with some one else. You can't avoid her hurt feelings, though, nor perhaps the loyal wrath of her family, to say nothing of the talk which will ensue among your friends. You will be released to your happiness, while she will be faced with the problem of revamping her life without the man she loves.

If there is any way you can help her without hurting her pride, do so. Even if you can't do this, keep her friendship, if she is willing, for after six months or a year you may suddenly discover your new love is but an infatuation, and you may come running back to your old love begging forgiveness. One never knows!

There's Beef Steak for All Tastes, Purses

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There's a beef steak for every palate and for every purse. The more expensive ones are broilable and include T-bones, porterhouse, tenderloin, sirloin, and club steaks. Less costly, not because they're less nourishing, but because they take longer to cook, are round steak, flank steak, rump, and chuck steaks. These latter usually are cooked by braising. Top round in the very best quality of beef may be broiled.

The term "top round" does not refer to the first cut of meat from the round, as one might think, but to the inside muscle, the largest of the three into which a beef round steak is divided. If you buy a whole round steak you can divide it yourself into "top" and "bottom" round.

Perhaps a brief discussion of the various kinds of beef steaks will be a helpful marketing guide.

T-BONE AND PORTERHOUSE STEAKS: These terms are used somewhat interchangeably for steaks from the short loin which contain the tenderloin muscle. Porterhouse cuts usually are obtained from the larger end of the short loin toward the ribs, and T-bones are next to them, with club steaks at the smaller end. These all are considered very choice cuts, and are cooked by broiling.

TENDERLOIN STEAKS OR FILET MIGNON: Sometimes the tenderloin muscle is removed from the short loin section and sold separately for roast, or sliced for steaks. It contains little fat, so frequently is larded before broiling. These individual steaks made by slicing across the grain of the tenderloin muscle are called filet mignon.

CLUB STEAKS: These are the smallest cuts from the short loin, taken from next to the T-bone. They usually are served one to a person, and are cooked as are their brothers, T-bone and Porterhouse, by broiling.

SIRLOIN STEAKS: The sirloin is a good choice if you have several persons to feed and can't afford to buy a steak for each. Sirloin steaks are cut toward the round from the large end of the loin. There are about eight sirloin cuts to the average beef carcass, differing from each other in the shape and amount of bone and proportion of meat and bone. There are wedge bone sirloins, round bone sirloins, double bone and pin bone sirloins, named after the shape of the bones which they contain. The wedge bone and round bone are largest and contain most servings. Double bone probably is choicest, but yields fewer servings. All of these cuts are cooked by broiling, although a wedge bone sirloin which isn't of very good quality probably should be braised.

FLANK STEAK: There is but one flank steak to a side of beef. It usually weighs from 1 to 1½ pounds, and the muscle fibers run lengthwise. In order to cut these long fibers, and thus make the steak tender, the butcher usually scores this meat with a sharp knife. Flank steaks often are stuffed and rolled. They must be cooked by braising.

RUMP AND CHUCK STEAKS: Sometimes a steak or two is cut from rump or chuck roasts. Such a steak is braised or fried.

ROUND STEAKS: Thin-cut round steaks which are scored may be fried. Frying, however, is a less satisfactory method of cooking than braising. Swiss steak is simply an extra-thick cut of round steak, cooked by braising.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Incredible as it may seem, thousands of players do not appreciate the full meaning and potentiality of so simple a device as a finesse. When they have the A Q x in one hand and small cards in the other, they realize, of course, that they must try to win a trick with the queen by leading toward the combination, but when they have Q x x opposite A x, they often overlook the fact that if the missing king is located favorably, they can cash the ace, lead toward the queen and, after the king is out of the way, preserve the queen for future use. In short, they are guilty of a horrible error such as the declarer made in the following hand:

North, dealer.

♥A Q 6 3
♦Q 9 7 6 5

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth highest club. East won with the ace and, deciding that there was not much to be gained from a spade shift, sent back a low club. Declarer won, discarding a heart from dummy, then to his considerable relief, dropped the outstanding king and jack of trumps in one lead. His next play, however, proved fatal, and moreover, proved that he had a great deal to learn about the game of bridge. He led a heart and put in dummy's queen. East pounced on this with the king and returned a spade [a heart return would have been equally sound]. Obviously, declarer now had to lose a spade trick, and with it his contract.

Declarer had thrown out of the window exactly half his chance for success in this hand. The heart finesse most certainly should not have been taken when it was taken and, indeed, if the proper technique had been brought to bear, there would have been no need ever to take it. There were two finesses available to declarer and success with either of them would produce the contract. All declarer could see was the possibility of finding the heart king in West's hand; he overlooked the fact that the spade king in the same position would produce just as desirable a result and would obviate the necessity for the heart finesse. The proper method of play after drawing trumps was, of course to lay down the spade ace and lead toward the queen. If the king were in West's hand [as it actually was] the queen would be preserved for a heart discard. The vital point was that this spade finesse had to be taken first. If it went wrong, the heart finesse always could be tried later. If, however, the heart finesse were taken first and it went wrong, no good use could be made of a favorable spade position, except of the miraculous fall of the spade king on the ace.

Experts, and indeed most average players, have no need to study this sort of situation, but I commend it to those readers who realize they still have a great many things to learn.

WRIGLEY DEMANDS ACTION FROM HARTNETT

250,000 TO SEE NOTRE DAME IN NEXT 4 GAMES

Navy and 2 Others Are Sellouts.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 16 [Special]. —Fortified with three victories at home by a total margin of seven points, Notre Dame's football squad looked ahead today to four games on the road, the first against Navy at Cleveland Saturday.

The first three games away already are sellouts, making it sure that the Irish will play before more than a quarter of a million fans against Navy at Cleveland, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, and Army at New York. The Iowa game at Iowa City Nov. 11 also is expected to be a sellout.

Varsity Is Excused.

Coach Elmer Layden excused his first team from practice today, although every one came thru Saturday's 20 to 19 victory over Southern Methodist with only routine bumps.

The second team, which Layden said was "grand" in Saturday's game, got its first look at Navy plays in a dummy scrimmage. The third team had both dummy and live scrimmage. Those teams below No. 3 ranking scrimmaged for places on the traveling squad.

Hargrave Is Ready.

Bob Hargrave, injured third string quarter back, will be able to face Navy after having missed the S. M. U. game. He probably will advance to the second team.

Notre Dame defeated Navy 12 to 0 in 1932, and Navy won, 10 to 6, in 1934 in the only two meetings between the two schools in Cleveland stadium. The Irish have won 9 out of 12 games in the series. Navy won three out of the last six.

NAVY SEEKS RECEIVERS.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 16 (AP).—Navy would have a better chance against Notre Dame Saturday if butterfly nets were standard equipment for ends. Maj. Emery E. [Swede] Larson, Navy coach, is up against the immutable law of football physics which says it takes two to make a pass complete.

Navy has a number of passers, but thus far has failed to come up with any competent receivers.

Emmett [Punkin] Wood, hardest running back on the squad, was hurt Saturday in the Dartmouth game and may not oppose the Irish. Wood also was injured before the Notre Dame game last year and saw it from the bench.

OHIO REGULARS REST.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16 [Special].—Regulars of the Ohio State football team were allowed a comparative rest today but were not excused from practice while the Buckeye team prepared for its game with Minnesota in Minneapolis Saturday.

All the Ohio State team came thru the Northwestern game without serious injury, but Coach Francis Schmidt ruled the regulars had earned an extra day's rest and concentrated his efforts on the second and third teams.

It was decided today that the 120 piece band would accompany the team to Minneapolis and would stop off in Chicago Friday to play at a noon meeting of the Executives' club, where John W. Bricker, governor of Ohio, will speak.

Forward pass offense was stressed in today's practice.

GOPHERS BATTERED.

It was a battered Minnesota team that came out of the 13 to 13 tie with the Boilermakers. On the sidelines for a few days will be Earl Ohlgren, Capt. Win Pedersen, John Mariucci, Marty Christiansen, and Gordon Paschka. Pedersen and Ohlgren were the more severly hurt in Saturday's game, but are expected to be ready to oppose Ohio State Saturday.

Also injured is Bill Johnson, veteran end, disabled in practice Friday, but likewise expected to play in Saturday's homecoming game. A crowd taxing the capacity of Memorial stadium is anticipated.

GEHRIG TAKES OATH OF OFFICE; MAYOR PRESIDES

New York, Oct. 16 (AP).—Lou Gehrig, former first baseman-captain of the New York Yankees baseball club, today took the oath of office as a New York City parole commissioner. In administering the oath, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia told him to use "good common sense."

Gehrig will begin his 10 year term Jan. 1 at $6,000 a year, less 5 per cent salary cut recently imposed on all city officials.

Baer Checks Date of Birth; Anticipates $30 Pension

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 16 (AP).—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, got a certified copy of his birth certificate here today just in case—he said with a wink—the $30 every Thursday plan carries in the California November elections. Baer lives in Los Angeles.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE Crete, Neb., Herald of Nov. 8, 1895, carried an item announcing the cancellation of a game between Minnesota and Doane college, located at Crete. . . . The manager of the Minnesota team wrote, "To be candid, we fear defeat." . . . Tom Miller, son of Harry [Red] Miller, first of the long line of Miller brothers to star on Notre Dame football teams, is a freshman back field candidate at his dad's alma mater. . . . Lyn Lary of the Cardinals is a member of his seventh major league team. . . . The others were the Yankees, Red Sox, Senators, Browns, Dodgers, and Indians. . . . Famous batteries: Walsh and Sullivan, Alexander and Killifer, Ruffing and Dickey, and Harmon and Evashevski. . . . Expert analysis of any football game in six words: The winners blocked, the losers didn't. . . . Well, at any rate, the Reds were well paid for watching the Yankees play ball. . . . Bryan Downey, one time contender for the middleweight boxing championship, operates a gymnasium for tired business men [and women] in Cleveland. . . . The stationery of the Green Bay Packers proudly bears the legend: "Four Times World Champions." . . . Branch Rickey, business manager of the Cardinals, is being mentioned as Republican candidate for governor of Missouri next year. . . . Max Schmeling has been ordered into the German army. . . . He will serve as an artillery observer in the air force. . . .

Frankie Frisch.

Michigan State took home about $50,000 as its share of the gate in the Michigan game. . . . Fifty grand will buy a lot of soothing balm. . . . Alabama Poly plays only one of its 11 football games at home this year; which will be interesting news to fans in Bloomington, Ind. . . . Frank Frisch's only prediction on the 1940 Pirates: "There will be some dirty uniforms on the club." . . . John Wetzelberger, tackle for the City College of Baltimore, missed his team's opening game this season because of his inability to fit into any of the available uniforms. . . . John is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 260 pounds. . . . Carl Snavely of Cornell, eastern member of the 1939 All-Star coaching staff, says the short punt formation is outmoded. . . . Rivington Bisland, box office man for Mike Jacobs, played shortstop for the Pirates in 1910 and 1911.

The Cold Facts.

Business is picking up. The Wake's forecasts on last week's college football games resulted in 44 winners, 13 losers, and 8 ties. In the middle west, where competition is keenest, we had 23 winners and only 3 losers. The Wake predicted Minnesota and Purdue would play a tie game and that Notre Dame would beat Southern Methodist by one point. The season's figures are 131 victories, 47 defeats, and 14 ties for a percentage of .736.

Cash and Carry.

We traffic in men's blood who seek to sell
Death and destruction to our friends abroad,
That they may make their lands a crimson hell,
An unfit dwelling place for man or God;
Our gold will be the price of human woe,
Of shattered bodies and of sightless eyes;
And will it bring us happiness to know
We have wrung profit from a mother's cries?

And when the cash gives out across the sea
Utility will drive us to our guns
To save our loans by final victory,
What though we massacre our very sons!
This is the path that "cash and carry" walks,
And in its footsteps desolation stalks.

PURPLE TOLD BADGERS WON'T BE SOFT TOUCH

Scout Is Impressed with Wisconsin's Paskvan.

If Northwestern football players had any illusions that Wisconsin might prove to be a softer touch Saturday than Oklahoma or Ohio State they were quickly dispelled yesterday when Jack Ryan, Wildcat scout, delivered his report on the Badger eleven.

Ryan, who is the father of Jack Ryan, Wildcat quarter back, warned that Wisconsin was the victim of bad breaks in both the Texas and Indiana games and will come up to Saturday's game intent upon compensating for these errors of commission. Furthermore, he pointed out that the Badgers possess a veteran squad which will outweigh the Wildcats particularly in the line.

Impressed with Paskvan.

He was impressed with the plunging power of George Paskvan, 200 pound Badger full back, who comes from La Grange. Paskvan has been hampered by a hand injury, but against Indiana he rolled up much yardage.

Meanwhile the harassed Wildcats got down to work yesterday in an attempt to iron out the rough edges which cropped up in the Ohio State game. Coach Lynn Waldorf was far from pleased with the Purple attack in addition to ineffective tackling. Much attention will be paid this week to instilling more drive into the ball carriers. Sharper blocking is another shortcoming which needs attention.

Fumbling continues to be one of the major faults of the Wildcats. They fumbled twice against Oklahoma, both miscues resulting in touchdowns by the opposition. In the Ohio State game they fumbled three times. One of these errors occurred on their own 20 yard line and led to Ohio's second touchdown. The other two bobbles interrupted Purple drives which had advanced deep into Buckeye territory.

WISCONSIN SHIFTS BACKS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 16 [Special].—Wisconsin's football team, victor over Marquette by a point and defeated decisively by Texas and Indiana, began preparations today for its second conference foe, Northwestern in Evanston Saturday.

In an effort to bolster the left half back position, where the Badgers were particularly weak against Indiana, Coach Harry Stuhldreher planned to shift Bob Peterson, sophomore reserve full back, who has shown promising speed and drive in the last two games.

Physically the Badgers came out of the Indiana game in good shape and barring injuries this week, should be in the best condition of the season for Northwestern. George Paskvan, varsity full back, who gained 91 yards against Indiana despite an injury to his hand, came through Saturday's game in good shape and will try to pick up where Howie Weiss left off against the Wildcats last year.

PURDUE SEEKS RESERVES.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 16 [Special].—Boilermakers who played against Minnesota in Saturday's 13 to 13 tie were given a chance to rid themselves of accumulated bumps and bruises this afternoon as Coach Mal Elward continued searching for additional reserve strength that will undoubtedly be needed against Michigan State in the Dad's day game here Saturday.

The Purdue squad apparently came thru its Big Ten opener with the Gophers without serious injuries, altho Leon De Witte's shoulder, Jack Brown's side, and Al Rossi's ankle may prove bothersome if the bruises do not disappear as quickly as is anticipated.

Maroons Can't Slay Football Goliaths—and Shouldn't Try

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One of the fallacious arguments frequently presented in a discussion of football at the University of Chicago is that the game is only good, clean fun, anyway and that over-emphasis is indicated, if a team desires victory. To some degree, it may be charged that this is a protective complex, for a majority of athletes cannot understand why if you like a game well enough to practice it and play it, you don't like it sufficiently to win at it.

The familiar story of intercollegiate athletics from Bulletin 23, issued by the Carnegie Foundation, to the last current tidbit of recruiting will not be rehashed here. It is evident that at some universities there has been no violation of the strictest amateur code. The point to be considered, now that Harvard whipped Chicago 61 to 0 last Saturday, and Michigan is expected to duplicate the feat this week, is whether under these circumstances it is unfair to permit such unequal competition.

Last Victory in 1936.

Freshmen in the fall of 1936 now as seniors will remember the last Big Ten game won by the Maroons. It was a 7 to 6 victory over Wisconsin. Since then Chicago has lost ten conference games, many by six and seven touchdowns. Last year 241 points were scored against the Maroons. The thrill of the story of David and Goliath was that the overconfident giant lost. If David merely had been a foolhardy youth, improperly prepared, lacking in ability, the elders who let him go out to combat would have made as great a mistake as the Ethiopians who tried to wing airplanes with antiquated guns.

Schedule Gains Nothing.

We don't know whether Harvard could have pulled its punches Saturday or whether Harvard wanted to. Sixty-one points, however, is an all time record for Chicago futility and we question whether the players who survived that debacle are looking forward to the next engagement. Chicago's desire to play a shorter Western conference schedule—Michigan, Ohio State, and Illinois are its 1939 opponents—gains nothing if nonconference elevens of the same caliber are scheduled.

The Western conference against outside competition still is below a .500 percentage. The Big Ten has lost seven games, won six, and tied two. Of more importance is the fact that there are no sectional leaders on the credit side of the Big Ten book. Southern California, Texas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Harvard, and Beloit hold victories over conference teams. South Dakota, Michigan State, Marquette, Wabash, Arizona, and Missouri have been beaten. Indiana tied Nebraska, and Bradley tied Illinois.

Next week, however, the conference will have some chance to redeem itself in intersectional play. Only two conference games are scheduled and as features for the week, Yale meets Michigan in Ann Arbor, Cornell, one of the strongest teams in the east, plays Ohio State at Columbus, and Purdue visits Santa Clara. This game replaces the recent rivalry between Fordham and the Boilermakers.

The field goal by free kick which produced Marquette's victory over Michigan State Saturday may be considered unusual not because of the free kick but because of the 15 yard penalty that preceded the kick and the fact that the Marquette player did not signal for a fair catch. Most players and some spectators know that when a receiver signals for a

HARRIS MAY BE LOST TO INDIANA FOR ILLINI GAME

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 16 [Special]. —A chalk talk and light drill on defensive tactics against Illinois' confusing formations and shifts occupied the Indiana football squad today as it opened preparations for the visit to Champaign next Saturday.

In addition to the loss of Russell Higginbotham, regular end, who suffered rib injuries in the Wisconsin game, Archie Harris, Negro end who recovered the fumble which Indiana converted into its first touchdown, was on the side lines today with a twisted arm and may not be ready by Saturday.

Despite Indiana's 14 to 0 victory over Wisconsin and Illinois' 26 to 0 defeat by Southern California last Saturday, Coach McMillin cautioned the Hoosier squad that "psychologically, Illinois is in the driver's seat." It will be the third team to open its conference schedule against Indiana. Coach E. C. Hayes, who scouted Saturday's game, reported that the 93 degree heat caused the Illini to wilt early in the contest and pronounced Southern California "the greatest team I have seen in my 25 years of coaching."

BAND AWAITS ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—Headed by two volunteer bands, University of Illinois students will parade to the railroad station tomorrow afternoon to welcome the Illinois football squad home from the Pacific coast.

Object of the demonstration is to assure Coach Bob Zuppke and his players of the support of the student body, which turned out nearly 3,000 strong to give the team a sendoff on its departure for the west.

ORDERS GABBY TO DRAFT 1940 PLAN FOR CUBS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles [Gabby] Hartnett has seen his boss, President-Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Cubs, and there's been no change in management—yet.

Gabby, after reading some uncomplimentary items about himself in the public prints, one being that his boss was more than slightly upset over being ignored all season except when there were some checks to sign, finally called around last Friday to learn if his status was as pictured by the sports writers.

Belated Announcement.

Announcement of the little visit wasn't made until yesterday by Charles Drake, the club's publicity expert, but the latter claimed he wasn't taken in on all the secret happenings. And Wrigley, after devoting three days last week to torrid statements covering dissatisfaction with the handling of the 1939 team is still sparring for time in which to properly weigh the question of whether he should swing the axe or renew Hartnett's membership for 1940.

The latest development, according to Drake, is that the club owner asked his baseball employé to go into a huddle with himself and do some deep thinking, and submit a "program."

Wants Manager's Idea.

In other words, Gabby must in due time bring to his boss some Hartnett literature covering his ideas of what should be done about getting the Cubs back on the pennant highway.

If Gabby has any thoughts about trades he'd like to make, either to get rid of certain players or to acquire others, he'll have to include them in the "program."

So in a way Gabby is on the spot more than ever. If his "program" sounds good and he can back it up with logical arguments, his chances of remaining as north side chief will improve. If his effort at baseball literature is a flop it might hurry the axe wielding.

Need Hitting, Pitching.

Just what Gabby might want to do is his own secret thus far. He'll undoubtedly devote the first chapter of his "program" to the crying need for a fellow who can hit and the second paragraph to the necessity for strengthening the pitching department. The Cubs, so reports run, already have made inquiries of the Boston Bees about the possibilities of acquiring the right handed Jim Turner. Hartnett also may express a wish to unload some of the fellows with whom he is supposed to have had differences during the season. But anything he might suggest along this line could easily be used against him.

Hartnett's attitude immediately after the 1938 world series was that his team was inadequate and although he predicted a pennant in the spring of 1939 he lost his enthusiasm after the season had rolled along for a couple of months. By that time he had given up on the possibilities of help from Diz Dean and Clay Bryant and had learned that Dick Bartell, taken in trade from the Giants, was a far different shortstop than Bill Jurges.

NICK ALLEN, 51, FORMER CATCHER FOR SOX, IS DEAD

Artemus W. [Nick] Allen, 51, former catcher for the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds and manager of the St. Paul and Kansas City clubs in the American association, died yesterday in Hines Memorial hospital.

Allen managed the St. Paul Saints from 1924 through 1928, and was manager of the Kansas City Blues in 1933. His last active post in baseball was with Akron, O., in 1936. Survivors include the widow, who lives in Wichita, and a brother, Otto Allen, of Chicago.

Colleges May Move Up Goal Posts Next Year

New York, Oct. 16 [Special].—Indication that the colleges may amend the football rules to the extent of returning the goal posts to the goal line was given to the Football Writers association luncheon today by Asa S. Bushnell, czar of the eastern football officials.

Discussing officiating, Bushnell remarked that the few rules changes this year had benefited the game.

"Return of goal posts to the goal line might help the game," he said. "That could be done by using those goose-neck posts which would eliminate the menace of collision with the posts."

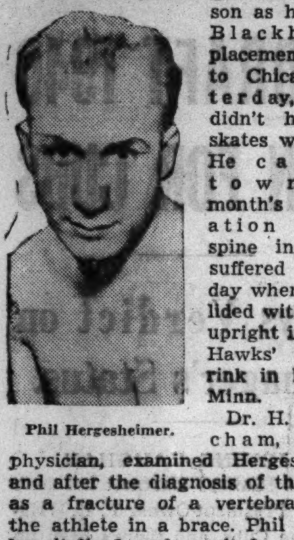
Bushnell also declared that eastern officials next year would have uniforms different from the plain white they have been wearing in the past.

HERGESHEIMER, HAWKS' ROOKIE, OUT FOR MONTH

Vertebræ Is Fractured in Drill at Hibbing.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Phil Hergesheimer, who has been designated by Manager Paul Thompson as his No. 1 Blackhawk replacement, came to Chicago yesterday, but he didn't have his skates with him. He came to town for a month's recuperation from a spine injury he suffered Saturday when he collided with a goal upright in the Hawks' training rink in Hibbing, Minn.



Phil Hergesheimer.

Dr. H. F. Meacham, Hawk physician, examined Hergessheimer and after the diagnosis of the injury as a fracture of a vertebra, placed the athlete in a brace. Phil was not hospitalized and won't be. He will take daily walks and other exercises to keep his legs in shape for skating in about three weeks and expects to play a week after that.

Thompson High on Rookie.

Manager Thompson has forecast that Hergesheimer will be a standout among National league right wings and in addition to being sympathetic in the injury of the 25 year old native of Winnipeg, Thompson was shocked upon learning his prospective star will not be ready for the opening game of the season, in Chicago Stadium, Nov. 2, against the Detroit Red Wings.

With all the disappointment over Hergesheimer, reports from Hibbing indicated Thompson had not eased up in the business of carrying on. Yesterday he added the names of two rookies and four regulars to his list of those who will be used in the opener against the Red Wings.

Thompson said that Left Wing George Allen and Center Bill Carse apparently have made the grade and he has been pleased with the training zeal of Veterans Earl Seibert, Art Wiebe, Cully Dahlstrom, and Billy Thoms. Earlier Paul had made it known that Johnny Gottselig and Mush March will continue as fixtures on the squad.

Allen, who was rated next to Hergesheimer in Thompson's pretraining season hopes, is 25 years old and last season scored 23 goals and 11 assists for the Philadelphia Ramblers. He weighs 175 pounds and is 5 feet 9 inches tall. Carse, who, like Hegesheimer and Allen, was born in 1914, was a teammate of Allen at Philadelphia last season. He made 24 goals and 33 assists for 57 points, four more than Hergesheimer scored.

Now that he has his forwards pretty well lined up Thompson is bearing down on the competition for the defense jobs other than those just assigned to Seibert and Wiebe. He isn't ready to name two from a trio consisting of Mill MacKenzie, Joe Cooper, and Des Smith.

Michigan Gets Day of Rest for Beating Iowa

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 16 [Special].—Coach Fritz Crisler gave the Michigan squad another "easy Monday" today as he excused from practice all men who played a quarter or more in the victory over Iowa last Saturday. The reserves, who figure to see a lot of action against Chicago on Saturday, engaged in an intersquad scrimmage.

The Iowa game produced only three minor casualties as End Ed Frutig suffered a twisted knee, Center Archie Kodros a bruised shoulder and Reserve Guard Fred Olds a charley horse. All three will be in shape by Saturday, but it is probable that Coach Crisler will give them a rest against Chicago.

Left Half Back Paul Kromer, who injured a knee in the opener against Michigan State a week ago, was back in uniform today and took a light workout. He will not be used until the Yale contest, however. The three other injured reserve linemen, Horace Tinker, Dennis Kuhn, and Al Wistert, are again ready for heavy work.

MAROONS' JOB DIFFICULT.

After last week's 61 to 0 defeat by Harvard, the worst by two touchdowns in Maroon football history, the subject of beating Michigan Saturday is not likely to be mentioned on the Midway. The University of Chicago squad is slated to spend the week on a single phase of the game, defense against the three plays per touchdown drive hung up by the Wolverines against Iowa.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy's hope of denting the Michigan defense is scant, but he is laying plans to cut down the rampages of the speedy Tom Harmon. Previous to the Harvard lacing, the worst defeat recorded by a Chicago team was a 40 to 0 loss at the hands of Minnesota in 1916.

Stagg and Warner to Meet Again as Coaching Rivals

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 16 (AP).—Far from the scenes of their greatest triumphs, in a small stadium on the campus of a tiny college, two old men will pace the sidelines Friday night during a game that will add a colorful bit of history to the sport of football.

College of the Pacific and San Jose State will have nothing to settle in the way of a championship. But on one side of the field will be Amos Alonzo Stagg, on the other, Glenn Scobey [Pop] Warner.

They're the coaching patriarchs of the country. They have accumulated the grand total of 95 years of teaching gridiron tactics to college boys.

White haired, 77 year old Stagg is the first man ever to coach the sport 50 years. His seventh season at Pacific, after 41 years at Chicago and two at Springfield [Mass.] college, saw him produce one of the first and biggest upsets of the fall. Pacific defeated the University of California, 6 to 0.

Warner is nine years younger than Stagg but Stagg always addresses him as "Pop." After coaching at Iowa State, Georgia, Cornell, Carlisle, Pittsburgh, Stanford, and Temple, rounding out his 45th year, he is associate coach at San Jose.

When Stagg and Warner last matched football strategy they coached at Chicago and Carlisle—in 1907. Carlisle won, 18 to 4, Thanksgiving day in Chicago, before a crowd of 25,000.

They'll renew rivalry in Pacific's stadium before a capacity crowd of less than 12,000 fans. The outlook appears a bit tough for Stagg, as it did 32 years ago.

Undefeated Charleston to Face Normal

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—For the first time in recent years, homecomers at Charleston Teachers' college will watch the team risk an undefeated and untied record. Illinois State Normal is the homecoming opponent. Victory Saturday over Normal will give Charleston undisputed possession of first place in the Little Nineteen race.

At present Charleston and De Kalb Teachers, the defending champion, are tied for the lead, each with one league victory. De Kalb meets Dubuque, a nonconference foe, Saturday.

Three victories have been scored by Charleston this season.

A year ago Charles Hopson, Carthage quarter back, made one of the longest runs in collegiate circles when he sped 103 yards for a touchdown to beat Elmhurst, 7 to 6. On Saturday Hopson will face Elmhurst again when Carthage enters the Little Nineteen race.

U. S. C. Five Will Play De Paul in Coliseum Dec. 18

Southern California, consistent winner in west coast basketball, will meet De Paul in the feature game of the first De Paul-Loyola double-header on Dec. 18 in the Coliseum, it was announced today by Thomas J. Haggerty, De Paul director of athletics.

The Trojan invasion will bring together two of the outstanding teams in their respective sections, and marks the first meeting of the two schools in any sport. Southern California had a record of 20 victories against five defeats last year.

YALE RESERVES TAKE HARD DRILL FOR ARMY GAME

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16 (AP).—Except for Hovey Seymour and Hal Whiteman, who worked hard to perfect their punting, Yale's regulars virtually took a vacation today while the coaching staff concentrated on the work of the reserves in a strenuous scrimmage. The varsity came out of the Penn game in good shape and will be at top strength for next Saturday's encounter with Army.

ARMY GETS NEW PLAYS.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP).—The Army squad, clad in sweatshirts, took a short drill and was given some new plays to use against Yale in New Haven next Saturday. Coach Bill Wood said he was pleased at the way the team came from behind to tie Columbia.

HOLY CROSS SOPHS STAR.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 16 (AP).—Two sophomores who have seen little service, Al Klasoskus and Tom Sullivan, starred as the Holy Cross second team held a hard scrimmage today, with Henry Giardi, regular full back, still limping. Klasoskus is being groomed for Saturday's game with Brown.

PACKERS PROVIDE FIRST TEST FOR UNBEATEN LIONS

Competition Gets Sterner; Bears Invade New York.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Championship races in the two divisions of the National Football league begin to take definite shape this week with a full schedule of five games that send favorites against each other after a month of sparring with noncontenders.

Sammy Baugh.

Detroit, unbeaten in the western section, gets its first severe test in Green Bay Sunday while the Chicago Bears invade New York to engage the Giants, defending champions. These teams, with Washington, are the only clubs with title possibilities. Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and the Cardinals, to all intents and purposes, have been eliminated.

Pressure's Really On Now.

Until now there have been only two games in the league involving the big five. Green Bay rallied to whip the Bears and New York and Washington played a scoreless tie. From here on in, however, the leaders will be forced to risk their chances against teams of more equal caliber. The fattening up period nas passed.

Detroit has held its place at the top of the league by beating the Cardinals, Cleveland, and Brooklyn, three teams that have been able to win a total of only 4 games in 16 starts. But recess is over for the Lions. The rest of their schedule, except for another game with Cleveland, is against the big five—two with the Bears, two with the Packers, and one each with New York and Washington. In fact, Detroit is just beginning its championship fight.

Bears Keep Rolling.

The Packers and the Bears, in the western division, are not much better off from the standpoint of schedules, inasmuch as they have Washington, New York, Detroit and each other to contend with.

Despite Coach George Halas' protests that this team is not a great machine, rival coaches in the league insist the Bears have their best balanced squad since 1934. Sunday's 44 to 7 triumph over the Cardinals certainly didn't weaken their estimate of the Chicagoans.

The Cardinals rapidly are establishing themselves as the most luckless team in football. Every break went against them again Sunday. A shakeup is in prospect this week as Coach Ernie Nevers prepares the team for Sunday's game against Cleveland in Wrigley field. Newcomers will be given more prominent parts and now that the Cardinals have finished with Detroit and Green Bay and do not meet the Bears again until Nov. 26, they can settle down to some competition more in their own class.

Redskins Don't Miss Baugh.

Washington apparently has progressed farther in its rebuilding than Coach Ray Flaherty anticipated, for he, like Halas, figured on a return to power no sooner than next season. The Redskins, however, have scored more than 40 points in each of their last two starts, whipping Brooklyn, 41 to 13, a week ago and Pittsburgh, 44 to 14, Sunday. These scores have been all the more remarkable because of the absence of Sammy Baugh, who is injured. The Redskins, known as a passing team, have been taking to the air less frequently, using Andy Farkas and Frank Filchock to run over the opposition.

Preparations are being made in New York to handle a capacity crowd of 58,000 at the Bear-Giant game Sunday. Capacity attendance also is expected in Green Bay.

QUINCY HORSE TRAINER, HIT BY RACE CAR, DIES

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 16 [Special].—Quincy's best known horseman, Uncle Ike Taylor, 77 year old Negro, is dead—the victim of his sworn enemy, the automobile. He died in a hospital late last night of injuries received while crossing the Baldwin park race track when he was struck by a racing car which was being timed preparatory to races to be held later in the day.

Uncle Ike had trained many race horses and was the tutor of scores of riders in this vicinity. The son of Virginia slaves, he had spent his life raising and training horses in the south and in Quincy. Members of a riding and driving club by which he had been employed many years will pay tribute to him at the funeral services.

FLEET WOODCOCK TEST HUNTERS' SPEED AND SKILL

BY BOB BECKER.

Jacksnipe in the marshes, elusive woodcock spiraling up thru the alders, gay colored pheasants in the weed thickets and fast flying grouse in the timber have been luring Illinois hunters into Wisconsin during the last few weeks. With the Illinois duck and snipe season not due to open until Oct. 22, sportsmen were obliged to move across the line if they wanted to test their marksmanship on game birds and get their shooting eyes tuned up.

The woodcock, difficult to find in the low brushy wet alder thickets, a sort of mystery bird as far as its migration is concerned, stands first on our list of game birds during the early days of October.

A Stern Test for Sportsmen.

After spending a couple of days in the vicinity of Briggsville and Portage, Wis., where we again hunted this game bird against a beautiful autumn background of color, we do not wonder at the praise that has been lavished on the woodcock down thru the years. It's the supreme challenge to the shotgun enthusiast who wants to see how fast and accurately he can swing his gun on a target. The brush is thick.

The drouth that has dried up many ponds in northern Illinois also has touched the Portage area, so we found most of our favorite woodcock grounds so dry that these birds with the long probing bills could not use them as feeding places.

Down Come Three.

But we were lucky on our first afternoon hunt in that one of our favorite woodcock hunting areas, a small stand of alders, birch, and poplars, still was wet enough for the birds. And we were even more lucky that three out of four of the birds flushed by our party in about 15 minutes gave us a second or two to swing a gun. We saw one on our left as it was about to dive into a big stand of alders. Our scattergun swung just in time to drop it.

A few seconds later we got a long shot at another "bog snipe" 'way ahead of us. It was side-slipping into some brush as only a woodcock can do the trick. Another lucky shot and we managed to scratch that one down. Five minutes later Lyman Barr of Highland Park dropped another with a quick snap shot at the edge of the alder thicket.

ST. PAUL PILOT IS FINED $250 FOR PLAYER DEALINGS

Durham, N. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Minor Professional Baseball leagues, announced today that J. H. Carter, president of the Selma [Ala.] club of the Southeastern league, and Foster [Babe] Ganzel, now manager of the St. Paul Saints of the American association, had been fined $250 each and placed on the ineligible list for two years.

The ineligibility of the two was suspended and they may continue present connections on probation upon payment of fines.

Bramham said his investigations disclosed a side agreement between the two in 1937 when Ganzel was managing the Selma club, whereby Ganzel was to receive money and a percentage of the sale or draft price of player contracts.

Another Elder (George) Hopes to Outdo Jack at Notre Dame

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

There may be another brother combination in Notre Dame's athletic history within a few years to be placed beside the Crowes, Bergmans, Millers, and Laydens.

Ten years ago Jack Elder climaxed his brilliant career by streaking 90 yards for a touchdown to give Notre Dame a 6 to 0 victory over Army in New York. Racing up and down football fields of the Chicago Catholic High School league this fall is another Elder who next September hopes to be among the freshman candidates at Notre Dame.

His first name is George and he is 18 years old. The younger brother of the former Notre Dame star has performed at left half back for Fenwick's eleven for three seasons. George, the only letter man who reported to Coach Tony Lawless this fall, appears to possess everything which may enable him to realize his ambition to surpass Jack's record at Notre Dame.

He Can Kick, Too.

George showed his running ability three weeks ago when he scored two touchdowns on runs of 40 and 42 yards to lead Fenwick to a 27 to 0 victory over St. Patrick. A week later George flipped two touchdown passes of 30 and 15 yards as the Oak Park squad won from St. Mel, 13 to 7. And when Fenwick's goal is threatened you'll see George sending long spiral punts down the field.

"George does everything just right," says Coach Lawless. "He can run with the ball. He passes accurately and he's one of the best kickers I've ever seen."

George, who is six feet tall and weighs 164 pounds, started his career at Fenwick in 1936. That season Fenwick won the Catholic league title and played a 19 to 19 tie with Bill De Correvont's Austin squad in the city championship game. For the next two years Fenwick won north section titles and remained undefeated last year until losing the championship game against Mount Carmel, 7 to 6.

Jack Tutors George, Too.

His progress has been closely watched by Jack, now athletic director for the Catholic Youth Organization, who is on the bench or in the stands at every Fenwick game. Diagrams of plays will be found on the Elder dinner table after almost every Fenwick practice.

"It's in the Elder family. George is big, tough, and ugly," says Jack as a round of brotherly jesting begins.

"And I hope after I get through that they'll remember you as just being ugly," counters George.

GEORGE ELDER.

George was born in Louisville, Ky., and came to Chicago five years ago. He completed grade school at the Bishop Quarter school in Oak Park. In addition to playing football, George is a member of the Fenwick basketball squad.

EPIDEMIC STOPS ARIZONA-LOYOLA FOOTBALL GAME

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 16 (AP).—The University of Arizona-Loyola university football game, scheduled for Phoenix Saturday night, has been postponed because of two cases of infantile paralysis among Loyola players.

Dr. Alfred Atkinson, Arizona president, said the decision was made after reviewing facts from official sources in Los Angeles and Arizona and deciding it was to the public good.

French Heroes of Sports Are in the Army Now

PARIS, Oct. 16 (AP).—Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque of France's best Davis Cup teams, is delivering a different type of cannon ball drive these days. As the commander of an artillery battery at the front he is using a real cannon instead of a tennis racquet.

Georges Carpentier, who will be remembered for having lasted three rounds with Jack Dempsey in Jersey City 18 years ago, has left his Paris bar to become an aviation sergeant. He has kept in perfect physical condition since his retirement from the ring, despite a life of ease made possible by the profits from his bar—a rendezvous for café society off the Champs Elysees.

In appearance, the man from Marne looks as if he already has been thru a war. Carpentier's cauliflowered ears, flattened nose and scarred face bear mute witness to approximately 100 bouts which he has fought since he began his boxing carreer in 1925 at the age of 21.

Marcel Thil, who held the world middleweight championship of the International Boxing union, is using the husky forearm which battered his ring opponents silly to good advantage in an artillery factory in Champagne.

It is not surprising to see Thil in war service. It always has been his proud boast that he never dodged a fight. Canadian-American Lou Brouillard and some other Yankees who lost to him in France wish he hadn't kept his word so faithfully.

Jules Ladoumegue, French track an field star who broke Paavo Nurmi's mile record and hung up five other word marks, has become an infantry liaison sergeant in Lorraine.

Maroons Can't Slay Goliaths; Shouldn't Try

fair catch of a punt, the ball then is put into play at the mark of the catch either by a free kick or scrimmage. Infrequently this position of the catch is sufficiently near the opponent's goal so that a drop kick or place kick may be attempted for three points.

No Signal Necessary.

What is not generally known is that there can be interference with the opportunity to make a fair catch, even though the receiving player does not signal his intention of making such a catch, by raising one hand clearly above his head. Nor is it commonly known that when such infraction of the rules has been detected, and the ensuing 15 yard penalty inflicted, that the offended team still retains the option of placing the ball in play by scrimmage or by a free kick.

If a free kick is chosen, as in Marquette's case, each team is restrained by rule from advancing beyond a certain line before the ball is put in play. The restraining line for the kicking team is a line parallel to the goal through the point from which the ball is kicked. The restraining line for the opponents is a line parallel to and 10 yards in advance of the ball.

In Strategic Position.

Like most unusual plays, its background emphasizes it. If this penalty had been inflicted in Marquette territory, the choice would have been to put the ball in play by scrimmage. That would have ended the discussion. But since the score was tied, the fact that the penalty occurred in Michigan State territory, and the kick was successful, the play takes its place in the list of those unusual plays which are expected each year.

PALLATIN WINS SPLIT DECISION OVER BARBARA

Tommy Pallatin, South Bend, Ind., welterweight, won a split decision over Johnny Barbara, also of South Bend, in a return bout of eight rounds in Marigold Gardens last night. Barbara was awarded a close decision in an earlier meeting.

Referee Bernard Weisman and Judge Sam Weinress each voted 41-39 for Pallatin, but William O'Connell, the other judge, called the slugging match a draw. Tho Pallatin, 145½ pounds, was outweighed by seven and one-half pounds, he delivered the cleaner and more accurate punches.

GAPA {GREEK AMERICAN PROGRESSIVE ASSOCIATION} OFFICERS & COMMITTEEMEN VOTE MEISTER BRÄU BEST-48 to 5
When the officers and committee members of local Chicago societies affiliated with the Greek American Progressive Association met recently they were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare it with other brands, and vote their findings by secret ballot. These Greek-American leaders voted Meister Bräu the best bottled beer they had ever tasted by the impressive majority of 9 to 1.

"All-grain flavor gives Meister Bräu its amazing popularity," says Independent Investigator
The question, "What bottled beer leads in sales," was asked by Chicago newspapers of leading beer retailers. They reported Meister Bräu away out in front by leads varying from 2 to 1 to 10 to 1. The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation was asked to verify this amazing popularity and to learn the reason for it by holding taste-and-compare tests and secret balloting where groups of men and women gather.
These tests show that Meister Bräu holds this astonishing preference because of its all-grain flavor. They show also that Chicago men and women appreciate the refusal of Richard Seibold, brewmaster, to add sugars or syrups even though he could save money by so doing.

BETTERS SUFFER A DOUBLE SHOCK AT SPORTSMAN'S

Grand Waters Doesn't Start; Maurice K Falls.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Grand Waters, the favorite in the first race, and Maurice K., the 4 to 1 third choice in the second, were eliminated by accidents yesterday at Sportsman's Park. The mishap to Grand Waters marked the third time within a month that a Chicago crowd lost a bet without a run for its money because of the definition which most racing commissions give to the word "starter."

Under the rules governing the sport in Illinois a horse is a starter once it has left the paddock and has entered the track on its way to the post. Even though it is dead when the race begins five or ten minutes later, the law provides for no refund to the betters. Some followers of the sport often complain that this definition of the word "starter" isn't English, but it is pointed out that, English or not, it is the law, even though the animal is a starter only in the imagination of those who write the rules of racing.

Grand Waters Runs Amok.

Grand Waters met with his accident when he became fractious at the post, broke his bridle, tangled his blinkers across his eyes, and stampeded into a fence. Harry Miller, the alert rider of the lead pony, showed that he knew a thing or two about handling an excited horse. In a few seconds he caught Grand Waters and quieted him down but the damage had been done by that time and the stewards decided that the horse was in no shape to run.

Last Thursday a horse named Chance Man was kicked during the parade to the post and was withdrawn. On Sept. 21, during the Hawthorne meeting, a bad actor named Mr. Mile was so badly injured at the post that he was excused. It so happened that both of these were longshots. The handle in yesterday's first race was light so that, though Grand Waters was the 2 to 1 favorite at the time of his accident, only $3,075 had been wagered on him in the win, place, and show pool. After his mishap, the play on the other horses brought his closing odds to 3 to 1.

Maurice K. Falls.

With Grand Waters watching the race under his blanket, a filly named My Luck won handily, paying off $19, $7.40, and $4.60. She beat Smith David by three-quarters of a length, Tomye being third.

Though many of the betters were disgruntled over the fate of Grand Waters, those who wagered on Maurice K. in the second took his mishap as racing luck, for he was in there running when he stumbled and fell on the clubhouse turn. Neither the horse nor Jocky Pat Camp was seriously hurt. Irish Soap was the winner in a close finish. He beat Jimmie Tom by a head, Trimmed being third. Irish Soap paid $6.40, $3.60, and $3, completing a $47.60 daily double.

MEADE DRIVES BASHI BAZOUK TO PHOTO TRIUMPH

May Have to Destroy Sorteado.

New York, Oct. 16 (AP).—Don Meade, the year's leading jockey, piloted Marshall Field's Bashi Bazouk to a photo finish victory over Robert Harris' Tiberius in the Sation handicap, feature of Jamaica's program today. Three lengths back of Tiberius was Ogden Phipps' 2 to 1 choice, Despondent.

Bashi Bazouk ran the six furlong event for class C sprinters in 1:12 1-5.

Meade hustled Bashi Bazouk into a narrow lead just after the start and raced head and head with Roman Hero, until, making a wide turn for home, he carried Roman Hero out with him, while Tiberius saved ground on the rail. Tiberius and Bashi Bazouk put on a thrilling duel to the wire, as Despondent easily passed Roman Hero.

Charles S. Howard's Sorteado, the Argentine horse that broke down in the running of the Gallant Fox handicap at Jamaica last Thursday, may have to be destroyed. It was reported today that both sesamoid bones in the right leg were broken, one of them so badly that there seems to be little hope for the animal's recovery.

The horse reportedly cost Howard, California sportsman, $45,000, and had earned $20,000 with two victories in eleven previous North American starts before the mishap.

PENNILESS PARENTS TURN TRIPLETS OVER TO OKLAHOMA COURT

Anadarko, Okla., Oct. 16 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reagan surrendered their 6 month old triplets to the Caddo County court today a few minutes before opening of a hearing on a petition to have the children declared dependent.

"If we kept them," the father said, "they might not live because we couldn't take care of them good enough."

The petition was filed by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections.

She contended that the triplets, two boys and a girl, could not be cared for properly by their father, a WPA worker with a paralyzed left arm. The Reagans have eight other children. The triplets were born in a river bank dugout.

"I hope some one in Caddo county will give them a home together," the father pleaded.

Steers Fed Grain

Oct. 16, 1939.

THIRTY-EIGHT Hereford steers, bred on the ranges in Texas and brought to the Du Page county farm five months ago, were given their first taste of grain feed last Thursday. They will have it regularly from now on. At first the steers sniffed the feed troughs as though they were a bit suspicious of the new feed, but they soon decided to eat it.

The steers were started on a ration of ground ear corn and oats, mixed in equal parts by measure before being run through the hammer mill. Each animal is getting three pounds a day of the mixture of ground grain.

It is fed to them in troughs in the pasture and the amount will be increased gradually. The plan is to have the steers partially started on a fattening ration when they are put in the feed lot later in the fall.

Clean Up Alfalfa.

In addition to the grain, the steers are getting mixed clover, alfalfa, and timothy hay and alfalfa silage. They will not eat much hay, but each steer cleans up his daily allowance of alfalfa silage in a hurry. They each get 10 pounds a day.

The steers now ramble at will over more than 200 acres of open and woodland pasture. They may take their choice of grazing in bluegrass, alfalfa, or clover. During the drouth when most of the bluegrass was dry and brown they took turns eating dry bluegrass and grazing on the green clover and alfalfa. Bluegrass pastures are turning green again.

When the corn is picked the steers will be moved to a large woodland pasture with access to one of the cornstalk fields. They will be left out in the open until cold weather and then put in the feed lot.

Gain Weight Steadily.

These steers have done well ever since they were brought to the farm. They continued to grow and gain weight during the hot, dry weather when most of the pastures were short.

Spring seedings of grasses and legumes apparently came thru the drouth in good shape. The plants have begun to grow again since the rains started and the farm manager says they appear to be in good condition for going into the winter. Eighty-nine acres were seeded last spring to alfalfa and clover. A little timothy was sown in some of the fields.

All the seedings were put in with small grains which served as nurse crops for the young plants. There was a rank growth of weeds in most of the grain stubble fields during the rainy weather in August and it was feared the weeds might choke the grass and legume plants. Instead they seem to have protected the seedings from the sun and hot winds during the drouth.

FORMER DEALERS TELL RIFTS WITH GENERAL MOTORS

Chicagoan Is Witness at Antitrust Trial.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 16 (AP).—Automobile dealers from Chicago and Fort Worth, Tex., testified today before a jury which may determine whether General Motors corporation conspired to restrain trade in going after business for the General Motors Acceptance corporation, a subsidiary.

Seven witnesses testified that thruout their careers as General Motors dealers they were strongly urged to give the bulk of their retail sales financing business to G. M. A. C.

One of them, Charles J. Phillips of Oak Park, Ill., said his contract as a Pontiac dealer was canceled after he had diverted most of his financing business from G. M. A. C. in 1937.

Gives Paper to Chicago Firm.

Phillips said he gave most of his paper to the Mercantile Discount Company of Chicago because of a G. M. A. C. requirement that he assume the responsibility for unpaid balances on repossessed cars. He said General Motors men talked with him at least once a month about the advisability of giving his paper to their own organization.

Phillips testified his contract was canceled March 4, 1938, less than a month after he signed it.

Cross-examination showed Phillips' contract had been signed with Community Motors, Inc., Cook county distributor for Pontiac, and canceled by it. The cancellation later was upheld by the General Motors dealers' relations board.

Fort Worth Man Testifies.

Clifton W. Majers, who formerly sold Chevrolets in Forth Worth, testified that during one of his many conferences with General Motors officials over his financing methods, W. E. Holler, Chevrolet's sales manager, told him he wasn't going to permit any dealers to do business with any company but G. M. A. C.

"Mr. Holler said they were going to be forced to do business with the G. M. A. C.," Majers said.

"MONON."

Answer: Corporate title of he "Monon" is the Chicago, Indianapolis, and Louisville railway company. The road owns about 520 miles of track and leases under contract an additional 20 miles. One line runs from Chicago to Indianapolis, another from Michigan city to Louisville. The two lines cross at Monon, Ind.

CHANGE TO STOCK.

I have received a notice to hand in my Pennroad voting trust certificates for stock. What is this all about? Should I comply?—H. E.

Answer: Pennroad corporation was organized in 1929. All the common stock was placed in a voting trust, dated May 1, 1929, and voting trust certificates were issued. You hold these voting trust certificates. The voting trust, composed of three men, was given the right to run the company. Your certificates did not give you a vote in the company's affairs.

The voting trust expired May 1 of this year. Common stock was then issued for the voting trust certificates, one share of common for one voting trust certificate. These common shares contain the right to vote. It is the common stock which is now quoted on the New York Curb exchange. You should make the exchange.

MORE RAILROADS LET CONTRACTS FOR EQUIPMENT

Orders for new railroad equipment, stimulated in recent weeks by the business upturn and the European war, continued heavy yesterday. In addition, one government contract for steel was placed, a bus company announced plans to buy $200,000 of new equipment, and more men were added to the pay rolls.

The New Haven railroad placed orders totaling $2,110,000 for rails and new equipment following recent court approval of an expenditure of $2,800,000 for such purposes in 1940, trustee of the road reported. The road's orders call for 7,500 tons from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and an equal amount of rail from the Bethlehem Steel company, at a total cost of $675,000.

Buys Ten Switch Engines.

Orders also were placed by the New Haven with the American Locomotive company for ten Diesel electric switch engines, costing $630,000; for twenty-five steel cabooses costing $130,000, to be manufactured by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, and for 250 fifty ton coal cars, costing $675,000, also to be manufactured by Pullman-Standard.

Placement of orders for 22,000 tons of rail was announced by the Chicago and North Western railway. The road reported contracts for 14,000 tons of rail had been awarded to Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and 6,000 tons to Inland Steel company, calling for delivery next year. Bethlehem Steel company was given an order for 2,000 tons for a North Western subsidiary, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway.

Bus Line to Issue Notes.

The Washington, Virginia, and Maryland Coach company applied to the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C., for authority to issue $200,000 of 6 per cent equipment purchase notes to finance the purchase of new equipment.

A contract of $184,440 was awarded Columbia Steel company, subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation in the Pacific coast territory, by the department of the interior. The award called for 8,700,000 pounds of steel reinforcement bars.

In Chicago, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said a 6 to 10 per cent increase in local postoffice receipts had caused the addition of 100 employés.

SENATORS QUIT PARTY LINES TO HIT TRADE PACT

Proposed Argentine Accord Opposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—A strong bipartisan attack today launched hearings on the proposed reciprocal trade treaty with Argentina. Thus, the administration got a taste of what it can expect in the new drive to boost trade with Latin American countries. The committee on reciprocity information is conducting the hearing.

The administration clearly has shown its desire to make stronger ties with sister nations in the western hemisphere, now that the war has disturbed the growing European trade and influence which existed prior to the war. One way for the United States to do this is by making concessions thru trade treaties. Another is by granting credits to countries which are unable to finance foreign trade.

Agricultural Goods Involved.

The Argentine treaty is the first to be considered since the outbreak of war placed increased emphasis on the Latin American position. But as in the case of most Latin American countries, Argentina's exportable products consist mostly of agricultural items which would compete with our own farm goods.

This brought the double edged attack from Republican and Democratic members of congress from farm states today as they bitterly opposed any tariff concessions in Argentine products which might compete with the farmers in this country. Party lines were crossed as opponents of the proposed treaty expressed the belief that reciprocal trade treaties will be made subject to senate confirmation when the President's treaty making powers come up for reconsideration next year.

Powers Expire Next June.

The President may now negotiate such treaties and raise or lower existing tariffs 50 per cent without congressional approval. The powers expire on June 12, 1940.

At the opening of the hearing, Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] protested that if concessions on agricultral commodities are extended "America in the end will become a wholly industrial country dependent on foreign sources for food supplies, and vulnerable in times of war as Great Britain is now."

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] said in testifying on the treaty:

"I voted for the trade agreements program, but occasionally I have repented my vote. We don't feel so kindly toward Argentina that we want to hurt our own farmers to help the cowboys of the pampas."

Claims Wide Support.

In saying that he is suspicious of the worth of the agreements program because of the potential injury to agriculture, Connally added that "those are my views and the views of most of the Democrats as well as Republicans in congress."

Ten senators were among those protesting today. One of them, Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], brought to the hearings echoes of the storm caused last spring when President Roosevelt said that the navy was buying Argentine canned beef because it was better than the United States product. He said Argentine canned beef competes with American fresh beef as well as domestic canned beef.

McCarran Opposes Tariff Cut.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] told the committee that reduced duties on Argentine beef would destroy the domestic live stock industry.

Senator Robert Taft [R., O.] said his state was opposed to reducing duties on agricultural products. Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kan.] charged the agreement would break faith with the farmers. Senators Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.], Chan Gurney [R., S. D.], and Rufus Holman [R., O.] joined with Senator Johnson in opposing tariff cuts on dairy or beef products, wool or turkeys. Holman did not attend the hearing but sent a letter.

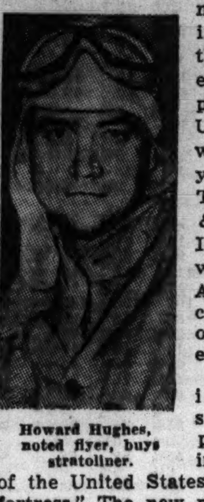
Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] said he did not want the interests of his state traded off.

Philadelphia Transit Reorganization Voted

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16 (AP).—Stockholders of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company today approved an $85,000,000 reorganization plan that calls for merger of the company and all its leased lines.

T.W.A. Orders 5 New Boeing Stratoliners

Purchase of five Boeing "stratoliners," new planes whose development marks the inauguration of the four engine era in air transportation in the United States, was announced yesterday by Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. A contract with the Boeing Aircraft company calls for delivery of the big ships early in 1940.



Howard Hughes, noted flyer, buys stratoliner.

Known as Boeing 307s, the ships are the passenger carrying counterparts of the United States army's "flying fortress." The new planes will have a capacity of thirty-three passengers in day flights and twenty-five at night or twice the plane load of the largest sleeper planes now flying on domestic lines.

Cruise at 20,000 Feet.

In addition, the "stratoliners" will be able to cruise at an altitude of 20,000 feet and at speeds of more than 200 miles an hour.

Jack Frye, president of T. W. A., in announcing the purchase, said the planes are scheduled for delivery between February and April next year. The air line expects to place the ships in service on its coast to coast route and on its present route between Chicago and New York before next summer.

No financial details of the purchase were disclosed by T. W. A. The cost of the ships, however, was estimated unofficially at $250,000 each.

Besides inaugurating the use of four-engined planes in domestic transport service, the "stratoliners" will introduce "pressure cabin" planes for high altitude flying.

Plane First of Its Type.

The Boeing 307 is the first passenger carrying air liner to be built with a pressurized cabin enabling passengers to fly at high altitudes under conditions equivalent to those of normal flying levels.

The five ships being bought by T. W. A. are part of a fleet of nine now being tested by the Boeing company at its plant at Seattle, Wash. Pan American Airways also has purchased three of the ships, which will be used in opening the air liner's Los Angeles-Mexico City route.

"Inauguration of the four motored service," Frye said, "has been made necessary by the increase in the air line's traffic. In the six month period from April thru September, 1939, T. W. A. traffic was 41 per cent larger than a year earlier."

Several Improvements Made.

Several scientific advancements have been incorporated in the Boeing 307 during its testing by the manufacturer. These include lengthening of wing flaps [landing flaps], installation of leading-edge slots near the wing tips to permit lower landing speeds, and improved streamlining.

The Boeing 307s are powered with four Wright Cyclone engines capable of developing 4,400 horse power at the take-off. Built to cruise at 200 miles an hour with the engines operating at about 60 per cent of their power and capable of flying with two motors, the "stratoliner" takes off and lands in the space required by the smaller twin-engine Douglas planes.

OFFER 1% NOTES TO COMMODITY CREDIT HOLDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today announced the offering of 2 year 13 day 1 per cent notes in exchange for the 206 million dollars of 18 month three-fourths of 1 per cent notes of the Commodity Credit corporation, which mature Nov. 2.

Morgenthau explained that the 13 days were added to the maturity of the notes because an issue of the Reconstruction Finance corporation is due in two years and he did not want them to conflict.

HIGH COURT GRANTS REVIEW OF MIDWEST OIL 'PLOT' RULINGS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 [Special].—Antitrust litigation brought by the government against oil companies operating in the middle west will be reviewed by the Supreme court, it was announced today. The government appealed adverse decisions of the lower courts.

In July, 1938, twelve corporations and five of their officers were convicted on a charge of conspiring to raise the price of gasoline sold in ten midwestern states. The trial was held before Judge Patrick T. Stone in Madison, Wis. The corporations were fined $5,000 each and the individuals $1,000 each.

Last July 27, however, these convictions were reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago. A new trial was ordered, and the government appealed.

The Supreme court also will review the action of Judge Stone in dismissing the indictments of 11 defendants after they had been convicted by the jury, and in granting new trials to 18 other defendants.

British Pound Advances 2½ Cents Against Dollar

British currency gained in value against the dollar yesterday. Traders at New York bid up the price of sterling above $4.00 but the unit receded to close at $3.99¾ for a net gain of 2¼ cents. The French franc rose with the pound, finishing 0.01% cent higher at 2.27 cents. Other principal European currencies showed little change.

BRAZIL STARTS PAYMENT ON BIG GOLD PURCHASE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 [Special].—Brazil has availed itself of an arrangement under which the United States is to sell to it gold up to $60,000,000. The gold will remain in this country as collateral for advances of dollar exchange to Brazilians needing this facility for transactions with American business interests.

The arrangement was made in 1937, but not until the last week was it carried into effect. Then the first payments, aggregating about $3,000,000 were made on the gold to be held here. The delay, presumably, was caused by the inability of Brazil to get sufficient free foreign exchange with which to pay for the gold.

It is understood here that Brazil finally got the free exchange with which to start accumulating its gold stock here when certain foreign governments, with which Brazilians had made commitments to buy goods or materials, were unable to make deliveries because of the war in Europe.

STEEL OUTPUT SCHEDULED FOR ANOTHER BOOST

Steel mill operations this week are scheduled to be stepped up to 90.3 per cent of theoretical capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. The new rate, which compares with 88.6 per cent last week, is the highest since May 24, 1937, when operations were at 91 per cent of capacity.

A Dow-Jones dispatch estimated that this week's actual production of steel will be the largest for any week on record, totaling 1,232,597 tons.

STEWART-WARNER'S CHAIRMAN ALSO TO SERVE AS PRESIDENT

Directors of the Stewart-Warner corporation yesterday voted to combine the offices of president and chairman of the board, and James S. Knowlson, the present chairman, was elected president. He will hold both titles. As president he succeeded Joseph E. Otis Jr., who recently resigned to become head of the Dodge Manufacturing corporation of Mishawaka, Ind.

James S. Knowlson.

Frank A. Ross, vice president in charge of manufacturing, was elected a director to fill the vacancy created by Otis' resignation. Ross was also designated senior vice president.

Earnings of the corporation and its subsidiaries in the quarter ended Sept. 30 amounted to $55,948, it was announced. In the September quarter of 1938 the company reported a loss of $145,579.

WAR HAMPERING WHEAT EXPORTS FROM CANADA

Britain Taps German Grain Sources.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The European war, temporarily at least, is hampering Canada in marketing of its big wheat crop, grain men said yesterday. Serious congestion of supplies was reported to exist at the principal St. Lawrence ports where grain is stored pending transhipment to foreign countries.

England is not buying Canadian wheat in the volume anticipated a few weeks ago. Export shipments from Canada to all countries are running about two million bushels a week as compared with the normal movement of about five million bushels weekly at this season of the year.

Britain Buys Elsewhere.

One explanation offered for the slow demand for Canadian wheat is that England is purchasing wheat from countries that might otherwise supply Germany with grain. These countries include Argentina and Rumania.

England and France recently completed negotiations to purchase 6,000,000 bushels of Rumanian wheat. The deal, it is said, served a double purpose. It prevented Germany from obtaining the grain and helped to keep Rumania friendly to England and France.

The empire countries have also arranged to purchase the entire exportable wheat surplus of Uruguay—amounting to about 6,800,000 bushels.

This cuts off a potential source of wheat for Germany. Rumors of large purchases of Argentine wheat by England have also been heard, but no confirmation of these reports has been obtained.

Supplies Near Capacity.

Canadian government representatives are said to have protested the big wheat purchases that England is making in other countries, asserting the Canadian surplus is large enough to take care of all requirements. It is of the utmost importance to Canada to dispose of its crop to England and France because the war has largely eliminated other foreign outlets.

Meanwhile, grain men said, Canada is faced with an urgent storage problem at the St. Lawrence ports. Stocks of wheat in elevators at Montreal, Sorel, Three Rivers, and Quebec are estimated at about 27 million bushels, which is approximately equal to the total elevator capacity in those ports. The outward movement of wheat is near a standstill and lake boats are

Fear Encroachment of Other Areas.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 16.—The Mississippi valley states must organize and fight to protect their interests or they will lose a great part of their power and earning capacity to the industrial fringes along the seaboards and parts of the Great Lakes. This warning was given here today by speakers at the twenty-first annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association. Delegates from 23 states in the valley are attending.

Lachlan MacLeay, president of the association, and Cleveland A. Newton, general counsel, said that to meet the situation the organization's scope has been broadened to handle all the problems of the Mississippi valley. Waterways will continue to be one of the main interests of the association, but as industries leave the value of the waterways decreases, the executives said.

Prosperity Threatened.

"Grave questions now confront the Mississippi valley," MacLeay declared. "Creation of permanent prosperity in this midcontinent basin, thru the development of industry in the midst of agriculture and the conservation of our economic resources, are seriously threatened.

"If the restrictions now proposed are forced upon us we will face slow strangulation of our manufacturing enterprises and our commerce, increased costs in the marketing of our agricultural products, economic uncertainty and the final subjection of this great inland territory as a trade vassal to the seacoast and Great Lakes sections."

Among the problems that the valley faces, he said, are the following:

1. The Wheeler-Lea bills before congress which would further hamstring the nation's transportation system through placing the inland waterways under the control of the interstate commerce commission. The bills threaten government ownership of the railways, he said.

Hits Coal Price Filing.

2. The coal price fixing scheme which would deprive middle western coal consumers of the benefits of cheap water transportation.

3. The obtaining of the middle west's rightful share of Latin American trade, which is expected to grow in importance.

4. Amendment of the national labor relations and the wages and hours acts to safeguard the rights of indus-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 16.—A firm undertone and light trading characterized the stock market today. The majority of active issues showed minor fractional gains. Trading totaled 485,390 shares.

Observers ascribed the diminished interest to a variety of factors but emphasized the unpredictable European situation, prolongation of the congressional debate on prospective neutrality legislation, and the labor troubles besetting the motor industry.

The list started irregularly lower but modest buying soon made itself felt and lifted prices. After best levels had been registered stocks unevenly for the remainder of the session.

Steel shares managed to advance fractionally after early softness. United States Steel and Bethlehem were strongest. Chrysler lost ¼ point. General Motors worked into the plus column.

Aviation manufacturing issues gave a relatively good performance. United Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Curtiss-Wright, and Douglas posted gains running to a point. The oil group also acted better than most sections. Texas corporation, Standard Oil [New Jersey], and Phillips Petroleum contributed substantial fractional gains.

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 16 (AP).—Quiet buying of United States government loans and various prime rated corporate liens accounted for an impressive number of gains in today's bond market. The federals, speeding up the rebound from September's war selling lows, had several closing advances ranging to 15-16th of a point.

Traders associated the further recovery in low yield issues with more widespread peace talk.

Corporate loans moving ahead fractions to more than a point included Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s, Studebaker 6s, New York Steam 3½s, Pacific Gas 3¾s, Pennsylvania Dixie Cement 6s, and Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s.

Chicago Stocks.

Commonwealth Edison showed a gain of ⅛ point yesterday in light trading on the Chicago Stock exchange, closing at 30. Turnover in the issue, which led other shares in volume, was 1,700.

W. B. Jarvis registered the largest gain among active issues, adding 1⅛ points at 16½ after touching a new high at 16¾. Armour advanced ⅛ at 6⅜.

Bank Stocks.

The bid price of Continental Illinois shares rose 1 point yesterday in trading in Chicago bank stocks. American National was 2 points lower. Prices follow:

Commodities

Silk futures climbed as much as 8 cents a pound in the New York market. Cash silk climbed to $3.17½ cents a pound, 1½ cents higher than the previous war boom peak and the highest price in several years.

In the copper market continued small daily purchases by France were still the center of interest. Each day that French buyers are in the market heightens interest in the possibility of further American sales to the empires. It had been widely believed that Great Britain could take care of most of the copper needs from empire mines.

The trade also noticed that E. Sengier, managing director of the Union Miniere du Haut-Katanga, important Belgian copper producer with mines in Africa, arrived in this country on the Italian liner Rex. The nature of his visit was not disclosed.

Copper futures at New York followed an irregular trend to close 0.04 cent a pound higher to 0.01 cent lower. Domestic refined cash copper continued at 12½ cents.

The main trend in other commodities was upward, although wool tops and sugar were exceptions. Cash raw wool dropped 2 cents a pound to $1.20, down 11 cents from the recent high, but more than 30 cents above prices prevailing in August. Wool top futures lost 1.5 to 1.6 cents a pound.

Chicago wholesale cash butter prices yesterday were advanced ¼ to 1 cent a pound, with butter grading 90 score or more reaching the highest prices this year.

Final contract prices showed gains of 0.20 to 0.30 cent a pound, with the December delivery finishing at a new seasonal top of 27.95 cents a pound.

Expanding wholesale business was encouraging in the egg futures market, also, and quotations rose 0.20 to 0.35 cent a dozen.

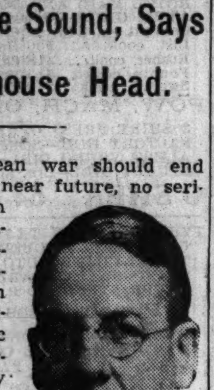
DECLARES HALT OF WAR MIGHT BOOST INDUSTRY

Recent Rise Sound, Says Westinghouse Head.

If the European war should end abruptly in the near future, no serious recession in American business would result, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company said in Chicago yesterday. Instead, he said, a further upturn in domestic business might follow.



A. W. Robertson.

The present forward stride of industry began before the outbreak of European hostility, Robertson declared. He also said that business men are opposed to war, and that war profits would prove a hindrance to industry.

Surveying Middle West.

Robertson and ten other top officials of the company, including George H. Bucher, president, are making an economic survey of the middle west. Traveling by special railroad car, the group's schedule includes stops in Minneapolis, Kansas City, and St. Louis. The officials arrived here yesterday morning from the company's headquarters at Pittsburgh.

"The increase in business up to date is sound and we had a distinct feeling business was on the upgrade before the outbreak of war abroad," Robertson said. "A solid recovery is in process and as far as our company and others are concerned this will continue."

Robertson said about 18 per cent of the company's present volume of business can be attributed to government orders, stimulated by recent congressional appropriations for national defense purposes.

According to the Westinghouse chairman, the company has received no war orders from foreign countries. Its Canadian business, including a recent large order for railroad brakes, is running along normal lines.

Study Aviation Industry.

The company, according to Robertson, is making a detailed study of the aviation industry with the hope of increasing the sale of its products or the introduction of new products.

Asked if Westinghouse had any plans under way toward moving its principal operations to the middle west and particularly Chicago, Robertson said that "the tendency of industry to move in this direction" is increasing. He said he considered a Chicago location "commercially desirable," but that the company's plans in this connection were "nebulous."

Robertson listed several reasons for his view that a war boom would destroy the present steady recovery in the country's economy. These included the following:

1. Any war boom is inevitably followed by a depression.
2. Business knows that government will regulate its functions during war time and fears that it will continue to do so after the war.
3. War orders derange regular production and produce inefficiency.
4. The strength of business depends on the prosperity of the country, and war does not add to ultimate prosperity.

Chicago Corporation Net Asset Value Increases

Net assets of the Chicago corporation on Sept. 30 had an indicated market value equal to $59.14 a share of outstanding preference stock, it was reported yesterday. After allowance for the preference stock and for accrued dividends, the balance was equal to $1.34 a share of common stock.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Live hogs and wholesale markets for fresh pork rose to the highest price levels of the month at the Chicago stock yards yesterday as slaughtering of hogs continued comparatively small for this season. Farmers were said to be holding back supplies because of good feeding weather and favorable corn-hog price ratio.

Top light loins advanced $1 a hundred pounds, to $20.50. The general hog trade rose 5 to 10 cents.

WAR HAMPERING WHEAT EXPORTS FROM CANADA

The situation could be quickly relieved, shipping men said, if ocean vessels were available to ship the grain abroad. A large number of vessels were chartered to load wheat and other grains for Europe in October and November. Since the beginning of the war many of these charters have been canceled.

British Establish Rates.

The British government has taken charge of shipping and has established a fixed rate on shipments to England and neutral countries. Naval convoys were to be arranged for outgoing ships. This arrangement, however, appears to have slowed down the outward movement. It was asserted that some of the delay may be due to the fact that the convoys wait until several vessels are loaded before the fleet is taken through the dangerous shipping zone.

Only a few weeks remain until navigation will be closed for the winter along most of the St. Lawrence. Normally the season ends about Nov. 30. The recent movement of grain from the upper lakes to the eastern ports has been heavy because of the approach of the close of navigation.

Ship Thru Buffalo.

Some Canadian wheat, it is reported, is being shipped to Europe thru American ports. This grain moves thru Buffalo and thence by barge and rail to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. Part of the grain is stored in Buffalo and Albany. It is estimated that the United States could provide storage space on the Atlantic coast for 50 to 60 million bushels of Canadian grain if the need arose.

Neutral vessel owners, it is reported, have shown a preference for loading Canadian grain at American ports, believing that the risks of submarine warfare are reduced.

Export clearances of wheat from North American ports in the last two weeks amounted to 5½ million bushels, most of which represented Canadian wheat. This total included 1,700,000 bushels of Canadian wheat that was shipped thru New York and Baltimore. In the last seven days the clearances amounted to about 1,750,000 bushels, which is regarded unusually small for this season.

Business Bits

Ralph A. Wenger yesterday became general manager of the Scott-Burr Stores corporation, a wholly owned retail chain subsidiary of Butler Brothers. The change was announced by Frank S. Cunningham, chairman elect of the board of Butler Brothers. Wenger, who has been vice president and merchandise manager of the subsidiary since 1936, succeeds T. B. Freeman, who was elected president of the parent company last month. Wenger first joined Scott-Burr Stores in 1930.

Ralph A. Wenger.

T. S. Grasselli will retire Nov. 14, his 65th birthday, as a member of the executive committee of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Grasselli, who was head of the Grasselli Chemical company when it was merged with the du Pont company in November, 1928, will continue as a vice president and director.

Marshall Keast Smith of David A. Noyes & Co., stock and commodity brokerage firm, has been admitted to membership on the Chicago Mercantile exchange.

The October meeting of the Association of Chicago Bank Women will be held at the University of Chicago tonight.

REVIEW GRANTED IN CASE LIMITING I. C. C. POWERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 (AP).—The government was granted a Supreme court review today of a decision that the interstate commerce commission was without power to require that certain labor provisions be included in a railroad lease. The case involved an authorization for the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railway to lease properties of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Gulf railway. Arguments will be heard Nov. 6.

Trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific in 1937 applied to the I. C. C. for authority to lease the Gulf properties until termination of pending reorganization proceedings for either company.

The commission approved the plan, conditioned upon the acceptance of terms which would prevent the reduction of the pay of employés affected by the lease, require an allowance to dismissed workers and require reimbursements of transferred employés for traveling and other expenses.

WHEAT FUTURES RISE 2 CENTS ON SHORT COVERING

Professional short covering was credited for an advance in wheat futures of 2 cents a bushel in about as many minutes yesterday. The buying disclosed a lack of pressure, but early gains were not held to the finish. Closing trades were at gains of ⅞ to 1¼ cents, with the December contract leading.

There was nothing in the news to account for the upturn. The bulge in wheat had considerable influence on other grains. Corn closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Soy beans showed independent strength and finished at gains of 1⅝ to 2½ cents. It was reported that 100,000 bushels of beans had been sold for export.

Encroachment of Other Areas Is Feared.

try and commerce in the valley states.

5. Extension of joint rail rates and routes to serve the entire midcontinent area.

6. The proposal of legislation in congress that would impose a federal license on all business in interstate commerce.

MacLeay said that the handiwork of the "selfish interests" of the seaboard states has been seen in congress and that "if the Mississippi valley is to recover and retain its rightful place in the economic life of the nation it must fight for its rights."

Lose 17 Representatives.

Newton stated that in the last 20 years Mississippi valley states have lost 17 representatives in congress to the industrial areas of the seaboards and the Great Lakes. This, he said, is due to the shift of population seeking employment in the industries of these areas. He said that 57 per cent of the nation's population is now employed and settled in a fringe of territory extending 50 miles inland from the deep water routes.

One big advantage that the middle west has had in offsetting the better transportation facilities of the deep water areas, Newton continued, has been the lower cost of living which permitted lower wages. But now New England and the Atlantic seaboard states are attempting to end this advantage thru the wages and hours and Walsh-Healy acts, which would reduce the wage differentials in favor of the seaboard.

Cites Rate Benefits.

"Middle western industry must have the benefits of its cheap water rates," he declared. "As an example a great tractor company located at Peoria because of the benefits of water transportation. How could this company compete with a rival Baltimore company were its water rates boosted? We have all seen how interstate commerce commission control has boosted motor truck rates to the level of or higher than rail rates. I. C. C. control would undoubtedly result in higher water rates.

"We are all vitally interested in helping the railroads. They are essential to us in the middle west. But we want to get all we can out of all forms of transportation.

Demands Greater Voice.

"The great business organizations of the country, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the National Association of Manufacturers, will not help us because of the great weight of the seaboard areas. The middle west must have its own mouthpiece to defend itself in congress."

Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley, chief of engineers of the United States army, stressed the importance of the inland waterways as a vital part of the nation's transportation system in the event of a national emergency. Altho the railroads must continue to be the first line in the transportation system, the waterways and other transportation systems must stand ready to reinforce the system, he said.

Hits Limited Flow.

Urging that all the Mississippi valley join with Illinois in asking the Supreme court to reopen the Lake Michigan diversion case, Congressman Claude V. Parsons [D., Ill.] said that an "intolerable" condition results from the present limited flow of water from the lake. He declared that river navigation is being impaired and sanitary conditions along the Illinois river are "deplorable."

Herman A. Bayles, Cincinnati, attacked the bituminous coal price fixing scheme as "unworkable, unjust, unfair, and a total failure." He said it will raise prices of electricity, steel, and other products, and that the higher costs will be passed along to the public.

Executives and Managers.

"GOOD MEN ARE HARD TO FIND"

Most employers agree on that. So, when a man is qualified by experience to do several things well he is above average and worth an interview. I can sell, handle auditing or cost record work, train salesmen, talk before groups and think on my feet. Good planner and full of ideas. Only 30 and willing to plug like sixty for a future. I have chronically good health and a personality that seems to make friends and influence people. In anything requiring the above qualifications I can be outstanding—and your business can benefit accordingly. Do I get the interview?

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this salary loan service because the great body of employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method.

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers. You may borrow $25 to $300—

On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

British Warships Damaged in Nazi Air Raid on Scotland—Germans Push French Back on Western Front
